POPULISTS ASSEMBLE

National Convention Called to Order Today.

BUTLER OCCUPIES THE CHAIR

Expected Opposition to Seating Him Failed to Materialize—The Evening Session.

St. Louis, July 22.—The hall in which the Populists met was the same in which the National Republican Convention met. There were the same arrangements as to seats. The state delegations were located in the pit. The platform in front was flanked by press benches. Decorations were practically the same as those of the Republican convention. The delegates began straggling in before 10, but the delegations were slow in arriving. When the pit was filled there were not 200 people in the galleries. Among the first to arrive were the Kansas delegation, with long, yellow ribbons on their heads and sunflowers in their laps. Ignatius Donnelly, of Minnesota, with a good-humored bearing, came in early and talked with Sergeant-at-Arms McDowell. Congressman Howard, of Alabama, who wrote "If Christ Came to Congress," was a striking figure in his delegation. General Coxey and his son-in-law, Colonel Brown, came together with their wives. Mrs. Coxey bore in her arms her young son whom Colonel Coxey christened "Legal Tender," as a perpetual reminder of his march. As the heat in the hall grew oppressive, the delegates did not hesitate to shed their coats. Many delegates wore negligee shirts, some wore neither collar nor cravat. A band stationed about the speaker's stand kept up a continuous fusillade of popular airs, but not one wrung a round of applause from the delegates. When the assistant sergeant-at-arms hung a portrait of Lincoln over the front galleries, the delegates gave three cheers. The ice being thus broken, they began to be more demonstrative, and cheered the band's rendition of "Columbia, Gem of the Ocean." There were several women delegates on the floor, among them, Mrs. J. D. Bush, of Prescott, Ariz; Mrs. Jennie B. Atherton and Mrs. Iles, of Colorado. Senato Allen received a personal ovation. The Texas delegation grew demonstrative. A woman posed with a middle-of-the-road streamer pinned on her gown, and they cheered wildly. She waved her handkerchief frantically and enthusiastically. The Texans crowded about to shake her hand. She proved to be Mrs. Jones, of Chicago. A Lone Star delegate mounted a chair and read telegrams from the Texas Populists, admonishing them to keep in the middle of the road, and bolt, if necessary. Stuart Ashley, one of the delegates, made a speech, and it looked as if Texas intended to hold a convention by herself. Paul Vandervoort, the most prominent candidate of the middle-of-the-road men present, took a seat on the platform. Shortly before 12 o'clock the Mississippi delegation marched down the aisle with a banner bearing the slogan, "No compromise." There was an answering yell of joy from the Texas delegation. General Weaver moved over to the Texas delegation and made a short speech in favor of holding the sessions behind closed doors. The Texans said it was impracticable. The middle-of-the-road leaders, after conferring, decided not to make an organized fight against the selection of Butler as temporary chairman. At 12:25 p. m. Senator Butler mounted the platform. Three minutes later Chairman Taubeneck took a seat on the platform. Senators Allen and Peffer were cheered as they ascended to the stage. At this time there were over 2000 delegates and attendants in the pit, but on a liberal estimate not over 600 spectators were in the galleries. Governor Stone, of Missouri, sat among distinguished guests on the platform. Mrs. Mary Ellen Leas got a demonstration as she ascended the stage just before Chairman Taubeneck introduced Senator Butler as temporary chairman. In introducing Senator Butler, Taubeneck said he had been selected by the national committee without a dissenting vote, and added his belief that the convention would act in as great unanimity as had the committee in choosing the chairman. At the suggestion of Committeeman Washburn, three cheers were given for the young senator. Butler made a short speech after which the councilmen took a recess till 8 o'clock in the evening.

SILVER MEN CONVENE.

Initial Session of the New Organization.

St. Louis, July 22.—Delegates to the national silver organization were late in assembling at the Grand Music hall, and there were not enough spectators to fill the galleries when J. J. Mott, chairman of the national committee, called the convention to order. It was long after 12 o'clock when he stepped to the platform and rapped for order. The hall had been attractively draped with flags and bunting. When Chairman Mott came forward to call the convention to order, the delegates for a moment ceased to use their fans, roused from their torpor caused by the awful heat, and indulged in some enthusiastic cheering. A prayer was offered, after which Miss Lillie B. Pierce, of this city, read the Declaration of Independence, causing another outburst of applause. When the call for the convention had been read, Francis G. Newlands, of Nevada, was introduced by Chairman Mott, as temporary chairman. Though the galleries were almost vacant, the delegates gave him a vigorous reception.

Remembered His Employees.

Philip Carey, a wealthy Cincinnati manufacturer of asbestos, committed suicide the other day. An hour before his death he made a will bequeathing his business to his employees. His book-keeper received 250 shares of stock, his typewriter 100, his attorney 100, and the other employees shares in proportion. The stock is worth $100 a share, and pays 12 per cent annually. Mrs. Hogan will, for the next 30 days, make a cut on photographs. Call and get her prices. jul3-dlw
