BRYAN IS NOMINATED

Populists Completed Their Work and Adjourned.

IMPORTANT ACT OF CONVENTION

Gave the National Committee Power to Throw Over Watson or Make Any Other Change.

St. Louis, July 25.—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska, who was nominated by the Democratic National Convention at Chicago, a fortnight ago, was today made the standard-bearer of the People's party by a vote of 1042 to 321.

The Democratic candidate was nominated in the face of his own protest, in the shape of a telegram, directing the withdrawal of his name, sent to Senator Jones, after Sewall, his running mate, had been ditched for the vice-presidential nomination last night, and Thos. F. Watson of Georgia had been named for the second place on the ticket. It was also made in the face of an opposition so bitter that, after the convention adjourned, some of the radicals held a "rump" convention.

The last session of the convention, which lasted from 9:30 o'clock this morning until 5 o'clock this evening, was marked by scenes of turbulence and noisy excitement, which several times bordered on actual riot, and which almost precipitated personal collisions. One fist fight did occur, a delegate was ejected, and a West Virginia delegate, inflamed by the action of the convention, walked sullenly out of the hall. The storm center, as on the previous days, was in the Texas delegation. But the really dramatic features of this wild session were enacted behind the scenes.

Rumors of what was going on in the wings reached the delegates, but they knew nothing definitely, and to the very end, a message from Bryan, which might have changed the result, was kept from their ears.

To add to the other features of the day, the convention was without music, and the hall was littered and bestrewn with the grime and dirt of yesterday's twelve-hour sitting. It was not expected that the convention would last more than three days, and the contract made with the local committee expired last night.

The Populist Bryan managers decided at the outset today to disregard Mr. Bryan's telegram of last night and to nominate him and straighten out the tangle afterwards. They started out to rush his nomination through before any other candidate could be put in the field, as a football team, by means of brilliant flying wedge, sometimes forces a goal. But there was interference, and their line was broken. General Weaver of Iowa, the Populist candidate in 1892, placed Bryan in nomination, and General Field of Virginia, who was his running mate, after a brief speech, moved to make the nomination unanimous.

Chairman Allen held the motion was in order, and that until that motion was decided, the call of states for nominations, which was the order of the convention, could not proceed. This ruling also precipitated a riot. Some cheered, some cursed, some fought, and there would probably have been serious trouble had not the Bryan leaders wisely concluded to abandon this so-regarded high-handed program. But in doing so, they opened the floodgates, and for six hours the convention was deluged with oratory. Almost every state and territory had its innings on the platform. Most of the speakers seconded Bryan's nomination. About fifty seconding speeches were made, and some of them were both eloquent and brilliant.

The middle-of-the-road contingent insisted upon knowing at every opportunity whether, in view of his telegram, Bryan would stand on his platform and accept the nomination. But all these pointed questions were neatly parried. Judge Green, of Nebraska, and others, vouched for Bryan's sympathy with Populist principles, but that was all the satisfaction the radicals could get.

The Texas delegation then sent a message to Bryan, at Lincoln, putting the direct question to him. To this no answer was received, but the Democratic candidate had been in constant communication with Senator Jones, chairman of the Democratic committee, and word came to the convention hall that Jones had a message which he wanted the convention to hear.

As the roll call was proceeding, Governor Stone, of Missouri, appeared on the platform with the Bryan message, but Senator Allen would not permit him to read it to the convention, and Mr. Stone retired, very much disconcerted. The Populist leaders had decided to go ahead with Bryan's nomination irrespective of the wishes of the Democratic managers.

Rumors that such a message was in the convention aroused the Lone Star delegation to frenzy, and "Stump" Ashby demanded to know if there was a message from Bryan on the secretary's table. Chairman Allen promptly responded that there was not, but that there was some talk of a "fictitious" message somewhere; he had not seen it. Literally, of course, Senator Allen was correct.

He said afterwards, in explanation of his action, that Bryan was the overwhelming choice of the convention; that the telegram, whatever it was, was not addressed to the convention or to a Populist delegate; that it was purely a Democratic negotiation, and something with which a Populist convention had nothing to do.

When the roll-call was completed, it was found that Bryan had 1045 out of the 1374 votes in the convention. Frank S. Norton, of Chicago, was the only other candidate. Ignatius Donnelly, of Minnesota, and General Coxey, of Ohio, were nominated, but their names were withdrawn. Norton received 321 votes, Debs 10, and Donnelly 1. Norton got the majority of the solid vote of Texas, Michigan, Missouri, Rhode Island and Wisconsin, and a respectable portion of the votes of Alabama, California, Kentucky, Illinois and Ohio.

The convention was hastily adjourned after Bryan had been declared the nominee, and the radicals in the Texas, Arkansas, California, Illinois and Maine delegations proceeded to organize their "rump" convention.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the world's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."
