MONDAY, - - - AUGUST 3, 1896

Weather Forecast.
PORTLAND, AUG. 1, 1896.
FOR EASTERN OREGON—Probable rain this afternoon and tonight. Fair tomorrow, cooler. P. AGUE, Observer.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Council meeting tonight.

A d. and d. contributed $5 to the city exchequer this morning.

The first watermelons of the season were noticed in the market today.

The open season for killing deer began last Saturday, and will last until December 1st.

Independence hop growers have decided to pay 25 cents per box instead of 40, as paid last year.

Lost—This morning on Second street, a $5 greenback. A reward will be given for its return to this office.

The eastern market reports peach plums as commanding a high price. The second carload was shipped from The Dalles last night.

Although two or three prominent members of the band were absent yesterday the concert was very pleasing and was generally attended. Perhaps the most pleasing number was the cornet duet.

Rev. Sanderson of Eugene supplied the pulpit at the Christian church morning and evening. At the latter service two converts were made. Rev. Sanderson will preach tonight at the church.

Mr. S. F. Blythe, editor of the Hood River Glacier, arrived on the local train today. He reports no further progress of the ditch company. The citizens are debating whether to transfer their stock to Day Bros. and let them build it or see if they cannot finally agree among themselves.

Wholesale Arrests of Sheepmen.

U. S. Marshal Humphrey of Portland arrived in The Dalles yesterday, bearing warrants for the arrest of nine prominent sheepmen of this section. A number of these left this afternoon for Portland in company with that officer, and were in a very discontented state of mind. The law which they are charged with violating is pasturing their bands of sheep on the Cascade government reserve "with intent to destroy the range." The sheep men are very indignant and justly regard the action as the last straw to break the camel's back. Said one of them this afternoon: "They destroy our business by removing the tariff, and yet they are not satisfied short of absolute ruin."

Their trials will occur before Judge Bellinger and if the charges are sustained nearly or quite all of the sheep-raisers of this country will be involved, and indirectly the whole country, for upon the sheepmen's prosperity depends our own. It is a case of a commonwealth being arraigned—which is a paradox in a government by the people, such as ours.

The Institute.

Theory—Today there were special methods in teaching history.

Physiology—The class discussed the lymphatic system and structure of the eye.

U. S. History—Cleveland's administration was reviewed and incidentally patents and copyrights.

Grammar—First lesson in tense.

Gen. History—Early history of France to its completion in mediæval times.

Written Arithmetic—Completed work in mental arithmetic and began work in written arithmetic and percentage.

Literature—Completed Goldsmith and Burns.

Reading and Phonics—Discussion of primary reading.

Composition—Completed the study of figures of speech.

Spelling—Drill in sounding oral elements.

I. H. Hill and Florence Davis were in attendance today for the first time.

Brave Roy Laporte.

Further particulars of the close call to drowning of the Milloy and Buoy girls, near Albany, Thursday evening indicate a bravery and grit on the part of Roy Laporte not often witnessed, says the Albany Democrat. When he had reached the girls in the deep water one of them grabbed him around the neck and she in turn was grasped by the other girl. All three went to the bottom at once. Instead of struggling to free himself, the boy bravely and with great strength crawled along the bottom toward the shore, dragging the two helpless girls, one of whom was thinking of how her mother had told her not to go in bathing, and of everything else in a flash. Finally they came up out of the water and upon the bank none too soon, the Laporte boy falling exhausted upon the ground. It was then that A. E. Bloom arrived and helped roll the water out of the prostrate girls. It was a brave act on the part of young Laporte and he deserves a medal. The three are all right now.

Teachers' Examination.

Notice is hereby given that for the purpose of making an examination of all persons who may offer themselves as candidates for teachers of the schools of this county, the county school superintendent thereof will hold a public examination Wednesday, August 12, 1896, at 1 o'clock p. m. at the high school building, The Dalles, Oregon.

Dated this 3d day of August, 1896.
C. L. GILBERT,
Country School Superintendent of Wasco Co. Oregon.

A NEW MINING BOOM. Rich Discoveries Reported From Lookout Mountain Above Stevenson.

A mining boom has commenced in Stevenson that bids fair to become full-fledged in a short time, if the extravagant claims made by prospectors turn out to be true. The camp is about 20 to 25 miles away from Stevenson, and is a region as inaccessible as could be desired by the most ardent sensationalist. A correspondent of THE CHRONICLE writes as follows:

"Reports are coming into Stevenson, Skamania county, Wash., daily that very good prospects of gold, silver and copper ore have been found in large quantities on Lookout mountain. This mountain is located on the head of Rock creek, about twenty miles northwest of Stevenson, the county seat of Skamania county, from which place prospectors are now cutting in trails, which will be easy to travel on foot or horseback. The ore seems to be rich in gold, silver and copper and is easy to mine. There has been a number of claims staked out and the country is full of prospectors, and strikes are reported daily. There are now four tunnels being driven and the ore is showing up better as they go. There is also some placer gold found near by, which is being worked with success. Many new miners are now at Stevenson getting outfits and preparing to go out—mostly from Portland. Supplies and pack horses can be obtained at Stevenson, which is the nearest town to the mines."

The above statement, though very encouraging, is quite moderate when viewed alongside the following communication in the Stevenson Pioneer, which is signed "Timothy Sullivan, the wild Irishman." Though the signature is enough to create a doubt of the genuineness of the communication, it is so worded as to be entitled to some weight nevertheless:

"Before you get this there is liable to be a thousand people here, for they are coming from the north, south, east and west, some turning back when they can see the mountain, but they do not know it. The long lost Copper Belt that was discovered about 25 years ago by a Scotchman, I knew him well, we prospected on the north fork of Lewis river. He started to Scotland with some ore and wrote from New York that he was coming, but took sick there and kicked the bucket. So here we are now, the biggest copper belt in the world. Little Stevenson will be big Stevenson before 12 months. All it wants is men, money and brains to run and work it systematically. Time, patience, courage, strength and energy will do it. I am getting old myself, going on 66, but can beat any man in this camp climbing up and down hill."

A Proper Inquiry.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:
And now the people's line of boats, that has striven so earnestly to relieve the oppression from corporation greed on the middle Columbia, is refused the transfer of its freight across the portage at the Cascade Locks, notwithstanding the state has spent about $7500 of the people's money to build a railroad to make the necessary transfer. The Day people, who have had a contract of work on the locks, and who are there in expectation of further employment, seem to have become dictators, and the portage commission seems to quietly submit to the dictation, notwithstanding they have a railroad well equipped with rolling stock and a wharfboat and a force of men to handle the business. Meanwhile the steamer Dalles City is compelled to land as best she can below the locks and discharge her freight, then to be hauled with wagons to the upper landing. Why this situation is allowed to prevail is something very many people in Eastern Oregon would like to know. Is there no one to stand up for the rights of our people?

ROBERT MAVS.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to tender our grateful thanks to all the kind friends who have shown their sympathy and sorrow for the loss of our beloved daughter. May the good God never afflict you with the same misfortune, is the prayer of
