FREE TRADE IN ENGLAND.

Taking the United Kingdom, where free trade has been longest in force, and her iron and steel industries. we find that the imports and exports of iron, steel, tin plate, wire, hardware, coal and machinery compare as follows for a period of ten years, from 1884-1894:

	1884.	1894.
Total imports.	200 274 510	£ 108,505,718
Total exports	232,927,575 Tons.	216,194,239 Tons.
Total exports of iron and steel	3,496,352	2,656,125 71,835

There has been no wall of protection around the United Kingdom during this decade, and her manufacturers have had every possible opportunity to let themselves out into the markets of the world, yet we find that the total British exports of iron, steel, tin plate, wire hardware, coal and machinery combined decreased by over $80,000,000 a year between 1884 and 1894.

It would almost seem as if the absence of a wall of protection had worked entirely contrary to all free trade theories in England's case, because it has enabled the foreign manufacturers and producers of iron, steel, tin plate, wire, hardware, coal and machinery to seil in the English markets nearly $100,000,000 worth more of their products and manufactures in 1894 than they did 1884. Free trade in England has increased the imports of the above mentioned goods by nearly $20,000,000 sterling and has decreased the exports by more than $16,000,000 sterling. The figures quoted are from the official board of trade returns.

lish exports, we find that the United vegetable and strongly tonic. Then too, Kingdom has sold under its policy of it is better than Pills because easier to free trade 840,000 tons less of iron take in liquid or powder and with no and steel in 1894 than she did in tion, Biliousness, Sick Headache and 1884. Her exports of pig iron de-creased by nearly 440,000 tons; of Simmons Liver Regulator a very safe between Portland and The Dalles as tolcreased by nearly 440,000 tons; of Simmons Liver Regulator a very safe bar, angle, bolt and rod iron by nearly 170,000 tons; of railroad iron J. M. Rollins, Fairfield, Va. by 305,000 tons, and of hoops, sheets | Subscribe for The Chronicle.

and plates she sold 219,000 tons less in 1894 than in 1884. Her exports of railway carriages decreased in value from £504,315 in 1884 to £277,000 in 1894. Her exports of railway trucks declined by £254,000, her exports of Lardware and cutlery fell off by $1,300,000 within ten years, and her exports of steam engines decreased by £1,100,000 a year.

While England has lost so much money and so much trade in these industries during a few years of free trade, the United States, on the other hand, under its policy of protection, has built up similar industries to an enormous extent-to such an extent that we are undoubtedly buying less of these commodities from our Eng lish neighbors and have helped materially to diminish their manufact ures and their output. Perhaps this is the real reason why they wish us to drop our policy of protection.
