"It is immaterial, in my judgment, whether the sheep grower receives any benefit from the tariff or not."

Whether he does or does not, I am for free wool.—Extract from speech of William J. Bryan in the house of representatives when the Wilson bill was under consideration.

A BROKER'S VIEWS.

The semi-annual report of Jacob Wollaer, wool broker and commission merchant of San Francisco, after detailing the demoralized condition of the market, so far departed from the usual trade comments, as to add the following significant statements:

For four or five days after McKinley's nomination, it seemed as if confidence had been restored and there was more looking around for wool, but the Chicago Democratic Convention and the platform they adopted with the nominations they made, was like a wet blanket thrown over all trade and manufacturers, especially for wool, and the endorsement of their nominee by the Populists, Anarchists, Socialists and free silverites paralyzed the whole trade of the country.

We have no hope for better times until the presidential election is over, and we can only hope that sound money and protection will prevail.

The boast of the Democratic orators and politicians four years ago, that with free wool manufacturers would enlarge their trade and the sheepmen would realize more for their wool under free wool, has not materialized.

On August 1, 1892, just four years ago, the "American Wool and Cotton Reporter," the leading exponent of textile manufacturing, sheep husbandry, and the American cloth and clothing trade, said: "There has never been a time in the history of this country that so much woolen machinery has been so well employed as it is at present." July 30th of this year, the same paper says: "The past four weeks have been characterized by extreme dullness in the wool trade. The transactions have been the smallest ever reported, and not 30 per cent of the woolen mills in the whole United States are actively employed."

The reason the importation of wool in 1894 was so small was owing to the delay in the passage of the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill. Besides, since the passage of the free wool bill, the larger importation of wool, shoddy, waste, rags, etc., has amounted to $20,000,000 yearly. This is owing to the fact that European manufacturers have flooded the country with cheap goods, in the manufacture of which, although wool is so low, a good deal of shoddy, waste and rags have been used, and our manufacturers in self preservation had to follow the example, and therefore the inferior articles took the place of at least 60,000,000 pounds wool.

The importation of manufactured goods, which in 1892 amounted to $35,000,000 is reported for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, at $55,599,233, and then it has to be taken into consideration that imported goods in 1892 were nearly 50 per cent higher in valuation than in 1896, as then only high priced goods were imported, while now all kinds of trash is admitted to the country in consequence of the low tariff, and so instead of manufacturers being benefitted by free wool, they not only could not export manufactured goods, but lost over $30,000,000 in home trade.

The outlook for prices, and trade for stock still on hand, and also for fall wool, is very gloomy. Over 200,000 pounds of wool in the eastern markets, and nearly the whole clip of Montana and Oregon which will amount to 30,000,000 pounds, are in first hands yet. Woolen mills, although stopped at present, have a good stock of wools, mostly foreign, on hand. With the money market in such an unsettled condition, fall wools, even if salable, will not command very high prices.

I would advise all my friends who can keep their sheep in good condition without shearing this fall, not to shear, as I doubt if it will pay them to do so. The only hope we have is that the American people will come to their senses, and will vote for sound money and protection in November next. Every sheepman or party interested in sheep or wool should try his utmost to get all his friends to vote the right way. We have had enough experience in two years of free wool, which reduced the production of wool in the United States not less than 150,000,000 pounds, making paupers of sheepmen.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J.
