"It is immaterial, in my judgment, whether the sheep grower receives any benefit from the tariff or not."

"Whether he does or does not, I am for free wool."—Extract from speech of William J. Bryan in the house of representatives when the Wilson bill was under consideration.

WORTH VOTERS' READING.

The following pertinent questions and answers are from the Dry Goods Economist:

SILVER ASSERTION: "You contracted the currency by discontinuing the coinage of silver dollars on private account in 1873."

THE FACT IN THE CASE: The total currency of the United States in 1865 was $714,702,995. In 1875, two years after the discontinuance of the coinage of silver, it had increased to $754,101,947, and it has continued to increase until the total money in circulation in this country in 1895 was $1,601,968,473.

SILVER ASSERTION: "You have demonetized silver and destroyed the dollar of our fathers."

THE FACT IN THE CASE: All the silver dollars coined in this country from the Revolution till 1873 numbered 8,045,898. Much of this time even these did not circulate, being worth as ballion more than a gold dollar and consequently being melted or hoarded. Since 1873 we have put in circulation over $400,000,000 in silver, or more than 50 times as much as the total coinage previous to 1873, and on the 1st of last month the number of silver dollars was 430,790,041.

SILVER ASSERTION: "Free coinage of silver will expand our currency."

THE FACT IN THE CASE: A law decreasing the free coinage of silver would instantly contract the currency by the total amount of our gold coin ($567,000,000) going out of circulation, for every one into whose possession gold came would hoard whatever he could save of it, knowing that its value would always remain unchangeable. To supply this instantaneous loss of currency with silver dollars worth in gold 52 cents would require the operation of all the mints in the country night and day for 10 years, during which time a good deal might happen to us.

SILVER ASSERTION: "The United States has stricken out and disgraced silver."

THE FACT IN THE CASE: The United States are today the largest user of silver as money of all the nations on earth, excepting India and China. India's stock of silver money is equivalent to $925,000,000. China has $725,000,000 and the United States stock of silver money is $624,000,000. The next largest stock of silver money is that of France, $500,000,000. Germany has $215,000,000 and the United Kingdom only $112,000,000. Mexico, a free silver country of which we hear a good deal now, has only $50,000,000 of silver money.

SILVER ASSERTION: "This country is suffering from a scarcity of currency."

THE FACT IN THE CASE: The banks of New York City alone are now holding over $20,000,000 of idle currency, for which its owners can find no safe or profitable investments. The banks of nearly all of our large cities are in the same fix. To coin or print more money now would be merely to add to this stock of idle and consequently useless currency.

SILVER ASSERTION: "The farmer or laboring man are poor and we want to introduce free coinage of silver so that they may have more dollars."

THE FACT IN THE CASE: The farmer or laboring man can today get as many dollars as he can (1) earn, or (2) give goods for, or (3) give good security for borrowing. There are probably 200,000,000 unused dollars now in the country. If there were 10 times as many there would be no other way in which the farmer or laboring man could get hold of any part of them than those above mentioned.
