WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Quite a number of citizens are wearing McKinley hats, which are very becoming. They will be the prevailing style for four years.

We call attention to the advertisement of St. Mary's Academy in another column.

The rain commenced falling at 1:30 o'clock this morning and has kept it up pretty steadily ever since. The fall up to 3 o'clock was .17 of an inch.

Sturgeon fishing continues brisk. Sam Thurman's catch since Saturday night was 1600 pounds. Two Indians cleared $65 in the last two nights. The prevailing price is 3 1/4 cents.

Chas. F. Stephens has just received an immense lot of new goods, which he has bought at a bargain and proposes to give his customers the benefit of latest styles and lowest prices. See his advertisement.

The concert yesterday was attended by about the usual number of people and was much enjoyed. The three popular numbers were the cornet solo by Mr. J. B. Benton, "Bric-a-Brac," and "Schubert's Serenade."

The date of the Columbia river conference of the Methodist Episcopal church has been postponed one week. It convenes at North Yakima, Wash., September 2d. Union, Wallowa and Grant counties have been added to that conference.

Marshal Humphrey arrived in town yesterday and served papers on Winans Bros. to appear before the supreme court on September 8th and show cause why they should not be arraigned for contempt in prohibiting certain Indians from exercising their fishing privileges by constructing and maintaining a fence.

Street political discussions have commenced in The Dalles. On Saturday last Nielsen's corner was thronged for several hours by citizens listening to an impromptu discussion between a McKinley advocate and a Bryan man. At the conclusion of the argument it was proposed by the McKinley supporter to shake dice and treat the crowd who had patiently listened through the argument, but the Bryan man weakened.

During the month of September the Jacobson Book & Music Co. will make a special cut in their piano and organ line, so that now is the time for you to buy and you cannot afford to buy elsewhere or away from home when you can get an instrument at the Jacobson Book & Music Co. for less money than any manager or jockey salesman of Sherman Clay & Co., or we might add the million dollar Kimball Co., who, by the way, we had the extreme pleasure of competing with last year, can sell you. We sell for cash or the installment plan and handle nothing but first-class instruments. **

A very rare and beautiful blossom opened at Mrs. Stubling's greenhouse last night or early this morning. It was a flower of the night-blooming cereus. The blossom was about six inches in length by four in breadth and was bell-shaped. It was of a creamy whiteness, the center filled with yellow silk-like strands of great number. It is years in blooming, and even then lasts only a few hours. The blossom much resembles the flower of the Gods, which opened a few months ago. Mrs. Stubling has had the plant ever since she has been in the city and this was its first bloom.

Capt. Waud, Agent Allaway and Purser Butler of the D. P. & A. N. Co., were recently the recipients of some very handsome tokens of esteem by lady tourists who, pleased with the courtesies extended them by these boat officials, thus showed their appreciation. The gifts were solid silver umbrella clasps with the owners' names engraved on them. The gifts speak volumes for the polite attentions of the boat officers to patrons of the line, which has been a great factor in inducing travel. People who journey are appreciative of these courtesies, for though they cost nothing they are seldom met with on the part of the employees of public carriers.

A gentleman who has just returned from an extended trip through Harney, Grant and Union counties tells of a recent sweeping change of sentiment for McKinley, and believes the state will without doubt give a big McKinley majority in November. Old line Democrats who heretofore would as soon think of sacrificing their right hand as to vote for a Republican have announced their intention to vote the Republican ticket. They say if times were a little better they might risk it another four years and vote Democratic, but they want to see prosperity again and will hence vote with the party under whose rule they experienced a high degree of prosperity.

RICHARD CLOSTER'S WILL.

His Several Bequests and Choice of Administrator.

The last will and testament of R. G. Closter was proven today before probate court at the clerk's office. It is in the testator's own handwriting, he having summoned the witnesses whose signatures appear thereon, and afterward filed the will in Will Condon's safe, where it has been since the dating of the will. The text of the will is as follows:

I, Richard G. Closter, of The Dalles, in the county of Wasco, and state of Oregon, do make and publish this, my last will and testament, in manner and form following, that is to say:

First, it is my will that my funeral shall be conducted without any pomp, unnecessary parade, and that the expenses thereof, together with all my just debts, be fully paid.

Second, I give, devise and bequeath to Mrs. Bertha Viera $1500.

Third, I give and devise $500 to young Lena Liebe.

Fourth, I give and devise to Valesca Liebe $500.

Fifth, I give and devise to Giles Patrick, wherever he may be, all my right and title to my Indian claim, together with half of the amount of the notes I hold against Charles Battman, and if said Giles Patrick is not alive or cannot be found, the same amount shall go to George Liebe, jr. There is a certificate of deposit in the First National bank in The Dalles against French & Co.'s bank in The Dalles to the amount of $2,700, together with the interest from the 1st of June, 1892, and due on the 1st of June, 1893, at the rate of 8 per cent per annum, in favor of myself.

And last, I hereby constitute and appoint Geo. A. Liebe, of The Dalles, to be my executor of this, my last will and testament, reposing full confidence in his integrity to perform the trust committed to him.

RICHARD G. CLOSTER.

Witnesses,
HENRY CLOUGH,
H. A. BILL.

Done at The Dalles in this state of Oregon, county of Wasco, this 30th day of March, 1893.

This afternoon Judge Liebe was sworn in as administrator for the deceased, giving required bond, Attorney J. B. Condon attending to the legal formalities.

Giles Patrick, named in the will, was a former partner of Mr. Closter's in the packing and freighting business. He has not been heard of for years, the last known of him in the Grant county mines.

Mr. Jacobsen Has Returned.

Mr. E. Jacobsen has just returned from a seven weeks' trip throughout Eastern Oregon. He does not desire to say much for publication, only that he had a very successful business trip, and is pleased to be again at home among his townspeople. He finds on the whole a very prosperous section of country where he has been. The cattle men are doing well financially and there has never been such a crop of hay as this year. He tells of the Riley Cattle Co. letting a contract for 2000 tons of hay for $1 a ton, and says the hay is so rank (it is natural wild hay) and the methods for putting up are so original, that the contractors, after hiring and boarding the men employed make a snug profit out of the contract. The sheep men are feeling much bluer than their cattle colleagues, and with good reason. Their wool clip is tied up, and many of them are short of ready money to meet current expenses. The principal industry around Canyon City is gold mining. Many men are at work and considerable of the precious metal is being taken out of the ground. Mr. Jacobsen says his trip was without incident, barring his two weeks' illness at Burns, and a trifling accident that happened to him while fording a shallow-looking stream in his light wagon. It was the usual fording place, and residents of that country paid no attention to it. He was much surprised to find on crossing that the water was much deeper than it looked, and many of the things in the wagon bed became damaged by becoming wet. He was further discomfited by finding that the farther he went across the stream the deeper the water became. He elevated his feet to the dashboard, and still the water rose. The innocent-looking stream finally compelled him to stand on the seat before he reached the opposite bank. He afterwards found that the wagon beds of that country were built higher than his own. Mr. Jacobsen, when asked about the politics of Eastern Oregon, refused to be interviewed. He said his trip was purely for business, that he had been successful, and that business and politics do not mix.
