

UNTOLD MISERY FROM RHEUMATISM

C. H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by Ayer's Sarsaparilla

For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles

WILL ROB NO MORE GRAVES.

Continued from Third page. Just below the breast bone, showed conclusively that Hartley had been put to death with cruel tortures such as were inflicted upon white men taken prisoners by Indians in the early history of this country.

Some such dreadful ending had often been predicted for him, as he had been for years engaged in collecting Indian relics and curios, and has probably robbed more Indian graves and scattered broadcast the remains of more Indians than any other one man ever did. There is scarcely an Indian burying ground on the Columbia river, or the islands therein, or along the coast of Oregon, where such places are numerous, which Hartley had not ransacked in search of stone knives and hammers, beads, flint arrowheads, and other articles which Indians used to bury with their dead.

Hartley had been so long and so actively engaged in the business, and his operations had extended over such a scope of territory, that he was known by reputation at least to many Indians, and whenever it was known that he was in any part of the country Indians from that section sent out guards to protect their old burying places.

Some two years since, while he was operating in an extensive Indian burying ground at the mouth of the Alsea river, he was shot at and narrowly escaped being captured by guards sent down from the Siletz reservation to keep watch for him, the Indians having learned that he was on his way to that place. Another time, when collecting Indian skulls at a burial place on Little Memaloose island, he narrowly escaped being captured through the canoe of his pursuers having been upset by their over eagerness to catch him.

It seems probable that he had learned of the burying ground on the island in Deadman's lake, some twenty miles further in the forest, where tradition says the chiefs and medicine men of several tribes along the Columbia used to be buried, and, lured by the prospect of a rich find of curios, he had ventured to visit the place, imagining that he would be safe from molestation in the depths of that great forest. The Indian guards evidently caught him and put him to a cruel death, and his fate might never have been known had not the timber cruiser, Peterson, been led by curiosity to visit this island.

A Rich Man.

They had just arrived in Brooklyn from the Island. They walked across the great bridge. As they approached the New York side they stretched their necks and viewed the massive building. "Oh, he must be rich," she ventured. "Who?"

"The man who owns all those buildings."

"One man doesn't own them all."

"Oh, yes he does," she assured him. "How do you know?" he asked.

"Because," she said, "his name is on them."

"I guess that's so," he agreed as he looked up at a sky scraper. "Mr. Castoria must be pretty rich."—Printers' Ink.

Meaning of the Fleur-de-Lis.

The uniform of English drummers must be familiar enough to every Englishman, yet few know the significance of the spotted lace with which their tunics are decorated. The blue spot is the celebrated fleur-de-lis of France, which, being worn by the highest ranks in the French army, was, as a mark of military superiority, bestowed by the prince regent upon the lowest ranks.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair. Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the world's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."
