THE M'KINLEY CLUB TONIGHT

Let every man in The Dalles who believes that lawlessness should be restrained whenever it interferes with the operations or property of the national government; every man who believes that this government cannot and should not attempt to coin all the silver in the world into dollars worth 53 cents and allow the holders thereof to force them as payment upon those from whom they received dollars worth 100 cents; every man who believes that the industries of the American people should be encouraged; every man who has suffered from the unwise legislation of the past four years; every man who desires to see an experienced and capable statesman elected to the presidency, come to the courthouse this evening and lend his aid and encouragement in the opening event of the campaign.

Let this organization of a McKinley Club be so positive and strong, that the Republicans elsewhere and everywhere will be assured that Oregon will cast its electoral vote for McKinley and Hobart.

The Dalles has a single industry which every year affects the price of all wheat marketed at The Dalles. The Diamond Flouring Mills, whose product sells in all markets at the highest figure, and which consumes from 50,000 to 75,000 bushels of grain annually, selects its wheat from the large amount marketed here, taking only the best; and for the privilege of this selection pays from one to two cents more per bushel than the warehouse price. This fact has a constant tendency to pull the market price up, and, without question, does raise the price among all buyers here. The same fact would be true as to a woolen mill, could we once get a good one established. We pay no more for our flour—indeed we pay less—than when we shipped it from abroad, although the farmer gets more for his wheat. The same would be true as to woolen goods. The farmer, selling direct to the manufacturer, is encouraged to raise the best possible grade, so as to sell to the mill and get the highest price. The same principle is applicable—possibly not so apparently so, but just as truly—to the industries of the nation. The nearer the producer comes to the consumer or manufacturer, the more ready is the sale, the better the price of the raw material, and the lower the price of the manufactured article. This is McKinleyism. The opposite is Bryanism.

"I am in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of pig iron at the ratio of 16 to 1 with gold, by the United States alone.

It may be urged by some who do not understand the subject that 'a free coinage act for iron would not raise its price to a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold.' To them I reply: 'The stamp of the government' and the 'legal tender qualities' of the iron dollar would instantly make the pig iron the same as the mint value. 'For who would part with an ounce of this precious metal for anything less than the mint value?' Stewart, Jones and Bryan."—Alex. P. Hull.

In 1871 the United States had 52,920 miles of railroad, which paid annual dividends aggregating $56,456,681. In 1894 we had 181,454 miles paying annual dividends of $85,278,669. The mileage increased 250 per cent; the dividends increased 51 per cent. The average freight rates in 1894 were less than one-half the average freight rates in 1874; and all very considerably less than the average rate in Europe. This is one of the "blighting, deadly influences" of the bi-metallic system, under which we have been living since 1873; the system Bryan calls the single gold standard.

A prominent sheepman of this county yesterday declared that should Bryan be elected, he should raise no sheep next year, but would retire from the business. He is not the first man who employs labor and uses large amounts of capital in his business whom we have heard make a like declaration. The election of Bryan means the withdrawal of capital from active employment, and this means the end of employment for those who are now employed.

Almost the first utterance which escaped Bryan's lips after his nomination was: "This does not mean keep off the grass, boys." His declaration and his thought was that when he became the highest executive officer of this great nation the theories of Coxe, of Altgeld and of Waite should be encouraged. If he meant this, he is unfit to occupy the presidential office. If he did not mean it, he is a demagogue and all the more unfit for the exalted office.
