Never was a more grievous wrong done the farmers of our country than that so unjustly inflicted during the past three years upon the wool growers. Although among our most useful citizens, their interests have been practically destroyed. —McKinley's letter of acceptance.

FALSE IN FACT AND IN USE.

We are told that the annual production of gold is insufficient to meet the demands of the world for coinage purposes; that the total production of gold in the world in 1895 was $203,000,000; that only one-third of this is devoted to coinage, and the rapidly increasing population of the world is decreasing the per capita of gold, and therefore enhancing its value. The whole argument is based upon the proposition that the use of gold is consumption of it; that the demand for gold for coinage purposes is the annihilation of that amount of metal. The fact is that about sixty per cent, according to United States treasury statistics, of gold is used for coinage. A very small percentage of gold is lost to the world by abrasion, etc. The quantity of gold subject to commercial and financial usage is increasing far more rapidly than the population.

But the whole argument of the silverite, built upon these quotations of gold production, is misleading in other ways than by misstatements. They leave out of consideration entirely the extensive use of other means of representing value. Thus, for example, in the United States, as in every country having a gold coin, a large amount of silver is used with gold. Improved means in banking transaction and exchange are all the time rendering the actual use of money less and less necessary or convenient. For every commercial transaction involving a value of $1, where coin or other money is used, there are transactions by means of checks, bills of exchange and drafts involving hundreds of dollars in value.

This statement about insufficiency of gold to supply the monetary demand is false in fact, and more false in the manner in which it is made by the Popocrats.

For the past month or six weeks the banks of this city were drained of the silver which they at times have been unable to dispose of. The payment of small checks for fruit, produce and wheat always requires a great amount of small change. About a week ago the banks here sent to the sub treasury at San Francisco and received a large amount of silver, the government delivering it, without charge, at The Dalles. A few days ago a wearer of a 16 to 1 badge stepped into the bank with a check for $350. The cashier brought to the counter a tray containing about that amount of silver. The sixteen-to-one's eyes started out of their sockets as he exclaimed "And have I got to take that?" The cashier, with a sober face, replied that he supposed that was exactly what was wanted. The $350 weighed a little over twenty pounds, and Mr. Silverman begged for gold.

The United States court has finally decided that if sheep injure the forests by being pastured in the reservation, the owners should be enjoined from taking them there. This settles the question adversely to the sheepmen, because the United States courts will disregard all testimony of people residing in the vicinity, and will undoubtedly be governed by the reports of the special agents, who during the summer have been taking their recreation at the mountain resorts. The only hope for the sheep owners is in a new administration which believes that the sheep industry is entitled to some consideration. In this particular Bryan is on record, and so is the Republican party. In which will Eastern Oregon place its trust?

Our Populistic friends are deeply concerned because "Boss" Hanna is running so many free trains into Canton to get crowds before Mr. McKinley. There is no need of concern in that respect. "Boss" Hanna is not running trains, he is managing a campaign, and doing it well. Besides, no free trains are running into Canton; the several railroads leading thither have an agreed excursion rate of a single fare for the round trip. Again, crowds do not have to be gotten to Mr. McKinley; they go because they want to see and hear a statesman. They have seen and heard enough of Bryan, and they want to look further before voting for him.

The silver mints of Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Utah, Nevada, Colorado and California, if running at their full capacity, would furnish employment for half as many men as all the manufactures on the Atlantic coast. These men would receive better wages than do the artisans in the mills of the East, hence would become greater consumers.—Mountaineer.

We never before heard that Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Utah or Colorado had any mints. We thought the only mints west of the Mississippi were at San Francisco and Carson City. Our brother was simply dreaming that Bryan was elected, and he was trying to coin silver enough during his one administration to take the place of the gold which had gone out of circulation.

"The millions against the millionaires; the people against the bondholders." This is all there is to Bryan's speeches, and all he cares for. His only hope is to win votes through prejudice. If he were a candidate in China, Japan or Mexico this might work, but it never will in the United States, "because the conditions here are so different."
