There was an unfounded report today that the exposition building at Portland burned this morning. Inquiry by telegraph showed the report to be without foundation.

The Fossil Journal damns its Gilliam county court in some very expressive and forcible language adapted from a like damning by the Corvallis Gazette of Benton county.

Mrs. D. C. Herrin has been doing a rushing business in the past week photographing babies, many mothers availing themselves of her free offer for exposition purposes.

The civil case of Blakeley vs. Ganger was settled out of court yesterday, the defendant, who had made forcible entry and residence on some land near Crates point, yielding possession.

Unless something unforeseen turns up within the next six weeks the town of Antelope will be declared a municipality and will assume the duties, importance and responsibilities of incorporation.

Miss Mattie Cowdell and Jesse Gregory finally married on the 22d. This is the young lady whose angry parent invoked the law in Moro recently to rescue her from her betrothed.—Moro Observer.

Martial music is always inspiring. Though it was adopted last evening in the interest of a losing cause, it attracted the attention of a considerable number of people, particularly the veterans of the late war.

Coin Harvey, who ought to be called Gold Harvey now, is organizing a secret political order, the Patriots of America, all members of which must buy his new book. If the scheme works Harvey will soon have another batch of gold to lock up in a safe-deposit vault.

Miss Dorothea Elliot of Portland has resumed her lessons in singing in The Dalles. She may be conferred with, either in person or by telephone, at Mrs. Leslie Butler's, on any Thursday afternoon or Friday morning. The lessons will be given either at Mrs. Butler's or at the homes of the pupils, if preferred.

We've heard there is a very sensational entertainment on the boards a week from this Saturday, in the shape of a tragic farce gotten up by some of our ladies for the benefit of one of our churches. If all is true that is said, we hope ye reporter will be there.

The north wall at the locks is now up ten feet, and the first course of stone has been laid. There are nine more to lay. The south wall, made of cement, was finished a week ago. The contractors expect to finish the work and open the locks to navigation some time before the contract date, November 15th. Dredgers are working at both ends.

Senator Mitchell, whom Oregon is proud to know as one of the ablest senators in our present congress, will address our citizens tomorrow evening. The opera house will be patronized on this occasion not only by the ladies and gentlemen of The Dalles, but extensive preparations to hear him have been made by people residing throughout the entire county. Dufur, Kingsley and 8-Mile, will send large delegations, one McKinley club postponing its regular meeting in order to attend in a body.

Mrs. W. W. Brown, who is one of the leading members of the Good Intent Society, will leave soon to make her home in Crook county, and the meeting of that society yesterday at the home of Mrs. Wm. Mitchell was a farewell in her honor. About twenty members were present, and had it not been for the thought of losing one of their earnest workers, would have been a pleasant meeting. During the afternoon lunch was served, at which time, the president, Mrs. W. H. Biggs, presented Mrs. Brown with a set of silver teaspoons as a token of the regard in which she is held.

Increasing Efficiency of the Band.

The band makes constant efforts to increase its efficiency. Advertisements have been inserted in musical journals for an experienced musical director, who can live in The Dalles by some other occupation. A place is now open for a good leader and cornetist as a barber, tailor, table waiter or printer. A photographer fulfilling all the requirements recently promised to come, as the result of a series of letters, but a better opening presented itself to him at just the wrong time for the band. The band has always been short of alto players, as well as the leading horn, and it is with pleasure we announce that Mr. M. H. Howell of Ashland, a brother of Mrs. D. C. Herrin, a solo alto of much merit, is soon to arrive.

WHEAT AND WOOL.

Prices Rising, Business Improving and Confidence Returning.

Business is improving. Whether it is because of the assurance that McKinley will be elected, or whatever the cause, that mysterious factor called public confidence is surely returning.

Wheat is now worth 45 cents in Portland and is rising. The warehouses are paying 49 cents for first grade, and the Diamond Flouring Mills 52 for best quality Klickitat. About four carloads of wheat per day is leaving The Dalles. There is a disposition on the part of some farmers to hold it, in anticipation of a further rise.

The wool market, also, is not stationary by any means, though most of what is leaving now is upon consignment. About 4,000,000 pounds of this year's clip has left the city already. Last week's shipment amounted to half a million pounds. About 100 carloads have already gone to Boston, and all the large furniture cars which arrive in The Dalles are sidetracked in the yards to receive further shipments. The price of wool has not materially improved of late, but an indication of the feeling may be learned by the fact that a buyer recently offered to contract a grower's crop for 10½ cents in case McKinley was elected.

The increase of railroad business in the carrying trade is denoted by the increase in the number of trains, two extra crews having been added in the past week.

Deceased Persons' Estates.

The law provides that administrators and executors shall make semi-annual reports to the county court, and one of these periods has now arrived—from October 1st to 10th. Judge Mays is in town today for the purpose of receiving these reports. In conversation with him this morning a CHRONICLE reporter was told that there has been a great neglect generally by administrators and executors in the matter of making out and filing these reports. In this way creditors have suffered on account of not receiving their just due, and the widows and orphans have been subjected to many deprivations and annoyances arising from the neglect of these appointed officers to settle up the business of deceased persons' estates in the shortest convenient time. We are informed by Mr. Mays that he is here not only for the purpose of receiving these reports, but of insisting, by every lawful means, that they be promptly made out and returned. In some cases years have elapsed without a report, to the great detriment of the beneficiaries and creditors. Mr. Mays' efforts to this end are commendable.

Harry Watkins' Night Out.

Harry Watkins, a Populist presidential elector, spoke at the Baldwin opera house to a large and indulgent audience. Mr. Watkins is possessed of considerable oratorical ability, but is deficient, like all Populist haranguers, in the essential regard of logic. He drew a beautiful picture of home life, in refined and elegant language, and then mercilessly destroyed that home (in imagination) by a houlful dissertation on the evils (?) of the gold standard. However, the speaker pleased his Populist friends, and they assembled after the meeting, gave him the glad hand, and expressed their mutual admiration, while the great majority of the large audience present fled sadly, thoughtfully, but quickly into into the refreshing night.

"A Bowery Girl."

A large audience greeted "A Bowery Girl" last evening at the New Vogt, larger than the merits of the production warranted. Theater-goers were generally disappointed and there was a manifest lack of applause, which could not be stirred at the last by the one redeeming feature of the whole play, the fire scene, at the close of the last act. "A Bowery Girl" does not come up to its pretensions and the fine quality of its advertising paper. Its tragedy is weak and its comedy insipid. The specialty songs and dances are fair in their way, but are nothing above mediocre. "A Bowery Girl" assumes to be a melodrama, but the plot is hysterical and the situations impossible. The heroics of the star in the title role are so plainly for stage purposes that the attempted counterfeit of real life betrays itself too plainly. The heroine, a girl stripling of 16 years, who foils the heavy villain by her physical prowess in a parlor full of people, is always behind a table or a box to listen to his plans, and in the last act, after fair warning, falls a victim to his stiletto with faint resistance, has too much of the essence of the dime novel to suit an intelligent audience. There are redeeming features of the production, but they are apart from the plot and the actors. They consist in the properties. The special scenery is perhaps the finest ever shown in the city. The palisades on the Hudson, the bowery in New York City, and the scene of the roof tops of the city, the latter culminating in the finest fire scene the writer ever witnessed, are worthy of generous praise.
