Never was a more grievous wrong done the farmers of our country than that so unjustly inflicted during the past three years upon the wool growers. Although among our most useful citizens, their interests have been practically destroyed.

ERNEST SEYD AND THE CRIME.

So many times has the "crime" been proven a myth, we supposed our friends, the Popocrats, would quit trying to fool us by the old cry. But they keep at it; each time trying to brace up the falsehood with some new embellishment. A few bill, made various sensible suggestions, North will have the aid in this conwhich the committee adopted and em-bodied in this bill."

The Chronicle says no explanation was made by Mr. Hooper why Mr. Seyd was before the committee, or how he came to be in America, and all the in-formation it has of the reason of his mission to America it gains from the following, which appeared in the August, 1873, number of the Bankers' Gazette:

"In 1872 silver was being demonetized in France, Germany, England and Hol-land, a capital of £100,000 was raised and Ernest Seyd of London was sent to this country with this fund as the agent of the foreign bond holders and capitalists to effect the same object, which was successful."

This is an old lie, many times refuted. Ernest Seyd was not in this telling stories. country at any time after 1870; he was never before the committee; he did send a statement of his views, which was read before the compittee; he was a distinguished English writer, banker and financier, but he was then an ardent advocate of free coinage of silver, and in his paper called particular attention to the Record: dropping of the silver dollar from the coins provided for by this bill, saying: "As this new bill presumably repeals all previous enactments, I suppose that the total abolition of the silver dollar is contemplated.

America, then, should hesitate to enter upon this course without a full previous investigation of the immensely important considerations appertaining thereto." He then indicates how the bill should be changed so as to provide for the sil- stock hogs and milk cows, belonging to ver dollar coinage. His paper is a the estate of S. Hanser. make. He criticises England's financial policy severely, and in some respects talks much as Bryan does today about silver being the poor man's money, etc. The paper is published in full at page 279, Coinage Laws of the United States.

The fact is, the committee did not adopt "the sensible suggestions" of this silver advocate; the Bankers' Gazette never published the statement accredited to it; Seyd was the last man in London whom English bondholders would send to America to influence legislation against silver. If Seyd was ever employed to influence legislation in this country it certainly was by those interested in silver coinage. At the time it is claimed Seyd was here, he was in London, and the Act of 1873 had become a law.

Had the Populists read this paper before declaring that its author was hired by British gold, they would have used it as a campaign document.

For the year's 1893-5 Russia's average export of wheat was 112,-000,000 bushels, while India averone-fifth as much. The United States, Russia and Argentine together averaged 323,887,827 bushels, or almost fifteen times as much as India, and yet the Populists would have us believe that England's coinage of rupees fixes the price of wheat in this country.

Four years hence Bryan will have been forgotten; the policies he is advocating will be referred to as "the silver craze," and thousands of his present supporters will deny him and his cause.

Mr. Harry Watkins made as strong argument as can be made for the election of Bryan. He made no argument, but amused his audience

Wheat is going up because Russia's crop is small. Silver has not yet "got a move on itself," although thousands hear Bryan talk every day.
