WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Senator Mitchell tonight.
Business meeting of the Epworth League tonight.

Wit, wisdom and eloquence at the Vogt tonight.

The opera house has been handsomely decorated in honor of Senator Mitchell.

One or two gentlemen may secure room in private family, with or without board. Address L. E. A., Lock box 221. sep25-d1w

A meeting of the newly-organized Chautauqua Circle will be held tomorrow evening at the home of Mrs. Smith French.

Congressman Bynum of Kentucky bears a striking resemblance to Judge Blakeley, as may be learned from a picture of the former in the current number of the Review of Reviews.

Senator Mitchell, one of Oregon's giants in intellect and statesmanship, will address the citizens of Wasco county this evening on the great principles of the Republican party.

Pease & Mays have opened up their fall shipment of J. T. Cousins fine foot wear, the goods the highest perfection of the shoemaker's art. You ought to see their kid-lined welt shoes.

Joseph Knebel came in with a Chinaman, who has been cutting up capers on Mill creek, like burning timber, stealing chickens, frightening the women, etc. He was locked up in the county jail.

The uniforms failed to arrive in time for the grand march tonight, but it will take place without them. Among the features of the parade will be The Dalles band, a drum corps, and the glee club.

The New Vogt will accommodate something like 1000 people. Every inch of floor space will be occupied this evening by adherents of all parties to hear Senator Mitchell. A special invitation is extended to all free silver Republicans.

It is suggested that if Senator Mitchell can spare a few moments of time this evening apart from a purely political speech, the public will be glad to hear a few words concerning the great internal improvement at the Locks which has been the source of much anxiety and speculation for twenty years—how soon they are likely to be open, and what provision has been made for their operation when they are open.

The opening of the social season for the Rathbone Sisters was last evening, when the K. of P. hall was crowded with members of that order. After the business of the evening had been disposed of, including one initiation, the order devoted themselves to pleasure. Prizes were given for best guesses of conundrums. After an hour or more of social enjoyment, a grand banquet was provided. The tables were most beautifully decorated. The festivities concluded with a dance.

Death of John A. Gray.

A brief telegram in Thursday's Oregonian announced the death at Marshfield, Coos county, of John A. Gray, who was well known in Portland several years ago, when pastor of the First Baptist church. Mr. Gray had been in precarious health for about two years, and his death resulted from aneurism of the heart. He came to Oregon again in 1880, and took charge of a church at The Dalles, where he remained until a call was sent to him from the First Baptist church of Portland, which he accepted. Mr. Gray was a commanding figure in the pulpit. His sermons were something entirely new to the staid members of the church, but his wonderful command of words, and his oratory, filled every seat in the house morning and evening. As in other places, the church edifice had to be enlarged to accommodate the great crowds that flocked to hear him every Sunday night. On leaving the pastorate of the Portland church, Mr. Gray again abandoned the ministry and returned to the law.

Republican Speaking.

Judge D. L. Webster, of Portland, Or., will address the citizens of Wasco county on the political issues at places and dates as follows:

- Baldwin, Monday, Oct. 5, 3 p. m.
 - Dufur, Tuesday, Oct. 6, 7 p. m.
 - Kingsley, Wednesday, Oct. 7, 7 p. m.
 - Tygh Valley, Thursday, Oct. 8, 2 p. m.
 - Wamic, Thursday, Oct. 8, 7 p. m.
 - Wapinitia, Friday, Oct. 9, 7 p. m.
 - Boyd, Saturday, Oct. 10, 7 p. m.
- Citizens of all parties are respectfully invited.

Death of W. H. Lochhead.

William Henry Lochhead died at 11:45 last evening, after an illness of eight days with typhoid fever.

Though Mr. Lochhead's death seemed to be almost certain for the two days previous, a valiant fight has been made by the nurse and doctors in attendance at his bedside. The contest with death has been fought inch by inch, aided by the powerful constitution of the patient, but the struggle was unavailing. He may have realized his approaching end from the last remark he made to those watching at his bedside a short time before breathing his last, when he said he felt his strength failing. There were present besides Mrs. Johnson, the nurse, Messrs. Ralph Gibbons, Frank Abernethy and M. McInnis.

Mr. Lochhead was a descendant of one of the first families of England. His father, now dead, was an agent of the British government, in the squadron on the Atlantic seaboard, and was stationed at Charlotte, Prince Edward island. Mr. Lochhead was born in London, but was taken by his father to Charlotte, and where our deceased townsman spent his boyhood. He was married about 1876 to Miss Mabel Burke at Charlotte. He came to The Dalles in the fall of 1887, accepting a position in Moody's warehouse and two or three years later engaged in the business in which he was occupied at the time of his death. He was a prominent Mason. His mother is yet living, and has been telegraphed to regarding the disposition of the body. A brother-in-law, Daniel Davis of St. Paul, has also been informed by wire, Mrs. Davis being Mr. Lochhead's sister. By his death, The Dalles loses a citizen known for his wide but unostentatious charities, his sympathies at all times with the distressed, and his tireless activity in attending the sick. William Henry Lochhead possessed a heart that beat for suffering humanity. The world has too few of such men, and his loss will be keenly felt in many homes which have in the past been lighted by his genial presence and generous impulses.

Senator Mitchell Tonight.

The greatest event in the Republican campaign will be the address this evening by Senator Mitchell. The senator has been an ardent advocate of the free coinage of silver in congress, but his position in advocating with all his tremendous might Republican principles and Republican presidential candidates is perfectly defensible. He will make plain tonight to all of the vast number who assemble to hear him the duty of every voter, regardless of party affiliation, to vote the old Republican party again into power, under which this nation has invariably enjoyed the greatest prosperity ever known to earth, under which labor has always been in demand at remunerative wages; and when the common people not only had the comforts, but the luxuries of life, owned their own little homes, and sat in the cool of the evening under their own "vine and fig tree," while the joyous play of their little ones proclaimed they were properly appalled and fed. It is no wonder that Senator Mitchell will not sacrifice upon the altar of free silver all the other great principles of the Republican party, whose operation has so far sufficed to bequeath upon all the people of this great country the most beneficent conditions ever known to the masses of the people in any age of the earth.

The City Water.

The Mountaineer is a little hasty in ascribing the cause of the typhoid fever to our drinking water. Such is not believed to be the fact on the part of those who should be best informed. However, to satisfy the sentiment which has been engendered on account of the article, the mayor this morning appointed Marshal Lauer and Water Supt. Norman to ascend Mill creek to the source of the supply at Mesplie's, four and a half miles up the creek, and to go on up the stream beyond the farthest settlement. Mr. Norman assures us that the water when it enters the pipe at Mesplie's is pure, sweet and abundant. A report to the contrary, originating in the city, is productive of much damage. If the truth could be known it might be found that the pools left by the river, receding more slowly than ever before known, vitiated the atmosphere by the unhealthy decaying matter left therein. This is believed by many to be the real cause of the trouble.
