AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled."

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my inevitable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent a gripple, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-around family medicine I have ever known. — Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 308 Elder Avenue, New York City.

It May Do as Much for You. Mr. Fred Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began to use Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all kidney and liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price 50c and $1.00. At Blakely & Houghton's Drug Store.

The Discovery Saved His Life. Mr. G. Cailouttee, Druggist, Bearersville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Blakely & Houghton's Drug Store.

TAKING CARE OF THE WIDOW.

She and Her Six Children Get a Husband and Father.

Charles Custer, the popular stereographer at Renton, came to the Post-Intelligencer office, where I was employed, and related a very sad story. He said that a German woman with six children had arrived in Renton from the old country a few days before on her way to Newcastle to join her husband; that on her arrival in Renton she had learned that her husband had been killed in the mines six weeks before. She could not speak a word of English and was without money or friends. Custer said the people of Renton had supplied her immediate wants, and that he had come to Seattle to arrange for the county to take care of her until she was in a position to care for herself and family. When he had finished his story he turned to me and asked what I would advise.

Jarvis and his ranch, with plenty of room for the children to romp in and plenty of milk for them to drink and the four dining-room chairs popped into my mind like a flash, and I replied: "Custer, do you think your widow would consider matrimony as a way out of troubles?"

"Why, the idea almost staggers me," replied Custer. "Who on earth wants to marry a woman with six children, who has only learned of the death of her husband within the last four days? Besides that, she cannot speak a word of English. She speaks German altogether."

"She has not much, the better of my man," I replied. "He is a Frenchman, and can neither speak English nor German; but I guess if they get married they soon will be able to understand each other."

Custer went further into the particulars of my scheme. I told him who the man was and my reasons for thinking that he would be willing to marry the German woman, children and all. That afternoon Custer went on horseback over to Jarvis' ranch, laid the matter before him, and to his surprise and gratification Peter jumped at the chance. "You go back to town and make the arrangements," said Jarvis, "and I'll hitch up and drive over this evening and have the job done at once."

"All right," said Custer, "but don't forget to put a couple of extra seats in the wagon for the young ones."

"How many did you say there were?" asked Jarvis. "Only six. Now, don't spend too much time sprucing up, because I'll have everything ready before you can reach town if you go for the horses at once."

As Custer left the farm the old man shouted: "Good-by. You will have to ride lively if you beat me to town. My horses are not driven for a bride very often, and they can stand it to get over the ground at a rapid pace for once in their lives."

Sure enough, Custer had hardly time to break the news to the widow, through an interpreter, before the dashing Frenchman came tearing through the streets like mad, and reined his panting horses up in front of Custer's store. Before leaving Seattle that day Custer had taken the precaution to secure the necessary license, with the understanding that it could be returned if not used. A preacher was called in, the bride and groom were introduced, and made man and wife, in almost the same breath, and half an hour later Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis and the six little ones were comfortably seated in the big lumber wagon, bound for the Jarvis homestead on Cedar river, as happy as clams at high tide. — Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

KIPLING'S LITTLE JOKE.

How He Gave Out a Policy for the Australians.

Rudyard Kipling is usually represented as being very cold and distant to young newspaper men, and proof against their efforts to interview him. There is evidently a kind side to his nature, however, as is shown by a story that is told by the Literary Digest. In regard to the statement in an Australian paper that he landed on that island at 12 o'clock and 16 minutes later "had formulated an Australian policy," Mr. Kipling, according to the Digest, makes the following explanation: "A young reporter cornered me just after I landed. I treated him kindly, but said firmly that I was not to be interviewed. 'I have not thought of interviewing you,' replied the reporter, with a sadness in his voice. 'I ask a much greater favor than that.' It turned out that the reporter had an Australian policy which he knew would be of the greatest benefit to the country. No paper would print it. His modest request was that Kipling would let him put forth his theory as the scheme of the novelist. 'They will print it,' he said, 'if I give it as coming from you.' 'All right,' agreed Kipling, 'fire ahead.' So the young reporter got in four mortal columns telling the people of Australia how to govern their country. 'I never read the article,' Mr. Kipling placidly says, 'but there must have been amazing theories in it from the storm it raised.'"

An Unexpected Answer. On a recent Sunday night a minister was preaching in Belfast, when a young man in the congregation, getting weary of the sermon, looked repeatedly at his watch. Just as he was in the act of examining his timepiece for the fourth or fifth time, the pastor, with great earnestness, was urging the truth upon the conscience of his hearers. "Young man," said he, "how is it with you?" Whereupon the young man with the gold repeater bawled out, in the hearing of nearly the whole congregation: "A quarter past eight." As may be supposed, the gravity of the assembly was very much disturbed by the occurrence.
