The District fair commences Tuesday morning, Oct. 20th. On Monday the fair management will be in attendance at the opera house to receive exhibits. It is desired that a large and general exhibit be made. The Eastern Oregon fair has a chance to eclipse all others of the Northwest this year.

A diphtheria case was reported today, which caused some alarm among parents of school children. The mayor requested the marshal to summon a physician and investigate the case, and if found necessary quarantine the premises. Dr. Doane was called, who found on examination that it was not a diphtheria case, and the alarm has therefore subsided.

The Wizard Oil Company arrived in the city this morning and begins a week's engagement at the Vogt opera house tonight. This is one of the strongest companies of the kind in existence in the United States. The show they present is refined, artistic and most entertaining. Among the company are some excellent comedians, dancers and specialty men. It is the product of fifteen years of travel constantly improving. The admission fee is placed at the very low sum of 15 cents, and the house will doubtless be crowded nightly.

There will be a stereopticon exhibition of Pacific Northwest views with lecture Wednesday night under the auspices of the Artisans. Rev. O. B. Whitmore, who delivered the sermon at the M. E. church last evening, is the exhibitor and lecturer. The views are said to be the finest anywhere, eighty of them being hand-painted by Mrs. Weister, who has charge of the art department at Portland university. The screen is a very large one, being twenty feet square in dimensions. One lens shows a picture of this size sixty feet away, the other lens shows a twenty feet square picture forty feet distant. This very fine exhibition will take place Wednesday evening next at K. of P. hall.

"Take out your pencil and I will give you a good item," said Robert Kelley as THE CHRONICLE and Times-Mountaineer reporters appeared simultaneously at the sheriff's office today. Out came the note books and pencils, while a beautiful smile bespread the expectant faces of the newspaper men. "Are you all ready?" said Kelley. "Yes, hurry up," was the simultaneous reply. "Well, Harvey Scott's brother is dead," and in answer to the puzzled look he burst into a laugh and presented the following clipping from today's Oregonian: "There is a story 'going the rounds' that a brother of the editor of The Oregonian, named Robert Scott, repudiates the gold standard." The editor of The Oregonian has no living brother, and knows no one named Robert Scott.

GEN. WILLIAMS' SPEECH

THE MOST FORCIBLE OF THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

He Was One of the "Conspirators of 1873"—Vindicates the Deceased U. S. Grant—Irresistible Eloquence and Wisdom.

The great speech of Hon. Geo. H. Williams, ex-attorney-general of the United States Saturday night may be said to have disarmed the opposition. Knowing that the ablest speaker in the state was to address our citizens that evening, citizens of all shades of political belief assembled at the opera house, unmindful of the rain, and listened to the clearest exposition of Republican doctrine so far produced in The Dalles and probably in the state. Geo. H. Williams has passed the 74th milestone of his earthly life. His services to his country cover a long period. Through peace and through war, through prosperity and through adversity has he wrought for the advancement of our great republic, and the man is revered as no other in the state. His has been the highest political honor ever bestowed upon the Pacific coast, and now, full of years and with a reputation that will increase in brightness as time eliminates from memory all lesser lights, he comes out, like Sampson of old, to make a last Herculean stand in defense of the principles of his lifetime. None can measure the effect of the terrible onslaught of his language. All resistance melted before the fire of his logic. His speech made irrefragably steadfast those who already agreed with him, drew to the Republican stronghold all who were wavering in their belief, and made serious inroads into the opposition.

The great demonstration of Saturday night began at 7:15 o'clock. At Republican headquarters all was activity. The hall was lit by hundreds of torch lights, each held by an enthusiastic Republican. The parade formed in the following order:

Commander J. M. Patterson, and aides, G. J. Farley, F. W. Wilson, Capt. Levi Christman in command.

City band.

Zouaves.

Fife and drum corps.

Uniformed McKinley club.

George H. Williams and party in barouche.

Flambeau club.

Citizens on foot.

Throughout the line of march they were greeted with rousing cheers and calcium light illuminations. These threw a brilliant glow upon the gayly-uniformed men. The gilded capes shone in the light like the spears of an advancing army, and the 200 torches twinkled along the line of march like the nebulous milky way in the field of ethereal blue above us. Arriving at the opera house it was found to be about two-thirds filled. The procession filed in and soon filled what space remained.

The first appearance of the venerable ex-attorney-general, legal adviser of U. S.

Grant, was the signal for a tumult of applause. Beside and around him were seated Messrs. J. B. Condon, D. M. French, B. S. Huntington, C. L. Gilbert, M. Moody, Robt. Mays, S. S. Johns, L. E. Crowe, A. M. Kelsay, P. DeHuff, J. M. Patterson, Thos. Driver, F. W. Wilson, M. M. Cushing, W. S. Myers and others. An enthusiastic campaign song was first sung by the glee club. Chairman L. E. Crowe introduced Mr. Williams in a brief but very pleasing speech of introduction. As that gentleman advanced to the front of the stage, he was greeted with a second ovation of applause.

Mr. Williams began by saying he intended to be practical, and that he did not desire to excite party prejudice. For himself he claimed sincerity in an honest belief. He would therefore ask that his auditors divest their minds of all party prejudice and view the matter in a purely business light. For convenience he designated as "sound money" men those who proposed to vote for Wm. McKinley on the Republican platform, and as "free silver" men those who would vote for W. J. Bryan upon the Democratic platform. The sound money men were in favor of coinage with just sufficient limitation to preserve the parity of the two metals. The sound money party has been in control of the government since the war. Since 1878 this party has coined 400,000,000 of silver dollars. During the first eight months of the present year it has coined 8,000,000 and in the month just past over 1,300,000. Among those who will suffer under free silver will be depositors in banks, by depreciating their deposits; among the sufferers, also, will be the old soldiers, who are asked by the party of Bryan to take their pension dues in money worth less than it is at present; and the same rule applies to wage earners. The Democratic platform of 1892 is the same as the Republican platform of 1896 on this question, and Bryan's assertion that the bullion value of silver would be raised under free and unlimited coinage of silver is only to presume upon the ignorance and stupidity of the people. Mexico did not raise the value of silver
