Nervous Prostration
Complete Recovery by the Use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, my health was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Painter, Kinard's, S. C.

under that policy, and as Daniel Webster once said, "I know of no way to guide our footsteps but the lamp of experience." Another evidence that silver will not rise by legislation is found in the operation of the purchasing act, during which time the billion value of silver did not rise a single cent.

Another fallacy of the silver men is the claim that prices of all commodities have gone down with silver. Wool has gone down because American growers must now compete with the Australian product, and deprived of the tariff, American wool has merely sought the Australian level. There is now a wheat famine in Russia, and wheat is going up, while silver is going down. Among the claims of the free silver men is, that silver was demonetized in 1873. Of all the stupendous and unblushing lies of the silver party this caps the climax. I was in Congress at that time and helped to pass that much-talked-of bill, and I affirm that the discussion which preceded its passage covered a period of three years. It was reviewed in every possible light, and when it came to Gen. Grant for his signature, I know and affirm that he perused it carefully and with great deliberation, and knew perfectly well what he was doing. If the "demonetization of silver" in 1873 is responsible for the hard times, how is it that 17 years afterward occurred the most prosperous times ever known in our history. Harrison's message of 1892 records this prosperity, and no one can question it, for he would not state facts for such general publication without the most ample proof. This was under the gold standard, when gold alone was the unit of value. The believers in this policy are called gold bugs and they are numerous. The United States is full of them. They will cover Mr. Bryan on Nov. 3d. (tremendous cheers.) He will be the bugiest boy this country ever saw (renewed cheers).

The gold standard is the outgrowth of civilization. Away back in the misty past history shows that skins were the medium of exchange; with a higher civilization came successively iron, bronze, copper and silver. Now it is gold. I make the prophecy that if the single gold standard is maintained in 1897 there will be plenty of money and the widest general prosperity. There is plenty of money in the country. When Cleveland advertised for $50,000,000 in gold $500,000,000 was offered.

The Republican party are the real bimetalists. They demand that gold and silver shall be of equal current value and want to coin all that is possible under that provision. How then can they be called enemies? Bryan wants $53 worth of silver coined into $100, and thereby proposes to make the government a party to the most colossal swindle of modern times. Free coinage of silver will contract the money already in circulation. I affirm that under a free coinage silver policy of any nation of the earth gold has invariably been driven out of circulation. I am therefore for continuing the policy that will preserve our present system. Cheap money always expels gold from circulation. Under the purchase act silver would not circulate, but directly found its way back through the custom house to the U. S. Treasury vaults. It was then found necessary to issue silver certificates, each dollar bearing a promise redeemable in silver, and that a silver dollar is in the treasury to redeem it with. If we depart from the gold standard the banks will not receive these certificates. I remember in the early days when I came to San Francisco. I had to pay a premium for gold when trying to convert my salary into cash.

Mr. Williams exposed to view a Mexican and an American silver dollar, resting with great force, the familiar argument as to their relative worth. He concluded it by asking the question: What makes the difference in value? It is the function they possess of exchangeability. Everyone knows that a silver dollar is as good as a gold dollar.

The United States is a wealthy nation. The per capita of circulation is $24, which is greater than any other country with the possible exception of France. One reason for the hoarding at present is the apprehensiveness that the country will go on to a silver basis. Then we have hardly recovered from the speculative spirit of three or four years prior to the panic. Overproduction and other causes have contributed to the present hard times. But there is a light in the East, and there will be good times again from the 3d of November next. Since the Vermont and Maine elections the result is already showing in the revival of business. What we want is not more money, but more confidence. Confidence is the life blood of business. Under the resumption of specie payments $350,000,000 of paper money came up to their full face value, when before it was worth but 40 cents on the dollar. Bryan proposes to revolutionize our present financial system, which we have been 100 years in establishing, when the present financial system is the best ever upon earth.

The Republicans want a steady, conservative, practical administration. They do not want the city administration now carried on in Portland carried into the general government. (Laughter and applause.) Let us do nothing that will reflect dishonor upon our government. Thousands of Democrats turned their backs upon their party in 1861, and fought for the Union through four long years of bloody strife. They are again coming to elect their old champion and comrade-in-arms, Major McKinley, who presented his breast to the leaden hail, when this young blather-skite was in his swaddling clothes.

I am now past 74 years of age. I resolved ten years ago to go out of politics, but when this question came up I resolved to do what I could in my humble way to put down this crazy, wild and visionary scheme. I am no alarmist, but I have fears, and they are stronger than my hopes. If Bryan is elected the cry will be raised that the nation has departed from an honest policy, and tumult, riot and bloodshed will follow. Those who have sown the wind will reap the whirlwind. Those people who are trying to arouse the poor against the rich, appealing to dishonest instincts, will bring about general disorder. Elect McKinley and you can pay your creditor his due, instead of giving him 53 cents and cheating him out of the balance. If you want a restoration of confidence and a revival of business you can have it by electing a man of dignity, of ability, of experience—a whole man, and not a boy. If you want good money vote for that great statesman and patriot, Major William McKinley.

The concluding sentence was ended amid deafening cheers. The address throughout was punctuated with applause, which we have not sufficiently indicated. The effect of the speech was tremendous. One individual was noticed wearing a Bryan button who removed it from his coat lapel, and was so influenced by the storm of eloquence that he placed it under his heel. All day Sunday and today the speech has been discussed upon the streets, and the most obstinate Bryan advocate readily concedes that it was the master-speech so far of the campaign.

The Discovery saved His Life.
Mr. G. Caillouttee, Druggist, Bearersville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about again. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

None But Ayer's at the World's Fair.
Ayer's Sarsaparilla enjoys the extraordinary distinction of having been the only blood purifier allowed on exhibit at the world's fair, Chicago. Manufacturers of other sarsaparillas sought by every means to obtain a showing of their goods, but they were all turned away under the application of the rule forbidding the entry of patent medicines and nostrums. The decision of the world's fair authorities in favor of Ayer's Sarsaparilla was in effect as follows: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla is not a patent medicine. It does not belong to the list of nostrums. It is here on its merits."
