THE PROSPEROUS PERIOD.

During the thirty years prior to 1873 is fixed by the Popocrats as the period of our greatest prosperity. About their only reason for this claim is that we did not borrow so much money as during the twenty years following 1873. Did it ever occur to our Popocratic friends that the period of our greatest advancement in science and commerce was from 1873 to 1893. During that time the whole science of electricity, as applied to mechanics, was developed; the horse cars were displaced with the trolley and electric motor; the method of lighting our cities was wholly altered by electric appliances; we constructed during that time two entire transcontinental railroads and a large portion of two others, at an enormous expenditure of capital; we extended connecting lines of railroads all over the United States; we increased the railroad mileage of the country 250 per cent; we decreased the expense of railroad transportation more than one-half; we settled up and improved a vast territory along the lines of our great transcontinental railroads—a work alone involving the expenditure of an incalculable amount of money; we built up great cities in places which were but a wilderness in 1873; we made greater strides in wealth, commerce, science and education than any nation ever made during the same length of time. And all this was under the present financial system.

The sheep industry is one among a thousand business enterprises that need to have protection against an unnatural and ruinous competition, and Major McKinley is pledged to see that all interests have their rights. But of all the various enterprises and interests that will call his attention the cause of labor will be first and foremost. Major McKinley will not be satisfied until every wage earner has all the opportunity he wants to employ his skill and muscle at wages that shall amply remunerate him.—San Francisco, Cal. Chronicle, September 16, 1896.

Candidate Bryan is avoiding the tariff question in his speeches. There is good reason for this avoidance. He was one of the makers of the Wilson-Gorman act, and defended it on the floor of the house in 1894. It was his opinion then that the measure was a great boon to the people of the United States, a relief from onerous taxation and what the free trade professors choose to call the robbery of protection. He supposed that he had performed a great service when he helped to force the bill through congress, but the event showed that he was entirely mistaken and wholly ignorant of the industrial life of this country. His bill brought widespread ruin and poverty; so he is not saying anything about it now.—Rochester, N. Y., Democrat and Chronicle, September 22, 1896.

No one can predict, with any degree of certainty, the result of the coming election. We feel confident that Mr. McKinley will carry New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, and if so he will be elected without a Pacific state or a southern state. But no sound money man in Oregon should for a moment conclude that his presence at the polls is unnecessary; he should from this time on arrange his affairs so that nothing will keep him from voting his convictions on November 3d. There is great importance to be placed in the size of the majority, and Oregon should be content not with barely escaping the name of Populism, but our declaration should be so strong that this contest will be the last one in this state upon this question.

Mr. Watson says: "I have mingled among the people in this campaign more informally than any of the candidates or any of their managers, and I know that Populist resentment at the manner in which their party is being wrecked by mere place-hunters jeopardizes Mr. Bryan most seriously." Mr. Watson realizes that he has been everywhere sidetracked and disregarded by the party who cares less for principle than for office, and his "kicking" is natural. Bryan cannot expect the Populist support.

Governor Penoyer stated in Spokane that he saw a chance to do some good for the ticket, and therefore made speeches at The Dalles and Pendleton. If he served the Republican cause as well at Pendleton and Spokane as at The Dalles, we shall sincerely regret to have him carry out his promise to quit campaigning.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. Electric Bitters.
Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alternative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1 per bottle at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store.
