Noisy Toner.

For some time past I have remained silent, thinking that perhaps that jockeying general manager of the Sherman Clay Company, Mr. Toner, would quit telling falsehoods and stories about me. I presume it is the way some managers do business and, tell a story any time in order to sell an organ or piano, but it won't go any longer unnoticed, and I want to say to Mr. Toner right here, that he shall have all the free advertising he wants, and by the time I get through with him, if the public is unable to see that he is about as big a fake piano or organ salesman that ever landed in the city of The Dalles, it won't be any fault of mine. However it is no wonder, and it don't surprise the writer that it is rather hard for a man like Toner to do business.

Why should people buy away from home when they can get instruments from a home dealer at closer prices than from a man that is jockeying and hauling his instruments from one town to another, as Mr. Toner has been doing?

It stands to reason that a dealer who sells small goods, and don't depend on the profits of piano or organ sales entirely, could undersell any salesman, that has to jockey his pianos from one town to another and "socks" it to the first customer he runs across so that it is necessary to move to the next town and hunt other victims.

The best motto to observe, "large sales and small profits," I am afraid cannot be applied to Mr. Toner and to the contrary, if reports are true, it has been principally all travel and no sale with him. I hope Mr. Toner's windpipe will last a little longer, as I want some walking advertisement during "Fair Week."

E. JACOBSEN.

The ladies of the M. E. church will have pies, cakes and doughnuts for sale Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week in the building just vacated by Mr. Herbring. In connection with the sale they propose having a lunch counter on the restaurant plan, pay for what you get. No discount on silver, gold received at face value. Wheat is advancing and our dealers look for a rise in pumpkins; pumpkins make pies.

EFFECT OF MUZZLES.

Their Enforced Use Has Changed the Breed of London Dogs.

The muzzling order has now been so long in operation that one is able to see its practical results, at all points far as London is concerned, in the London News. They are really very remarkable, especially from a point of view not likely to be immediately taken.

The supremacy of the fox terrier is gone. One misses the little, vivid white spots that moved about so quickly and made streets and thoroughfares gay, and it must be admitted, noisy. Most of these dogs were mongrels, and being of no appreciable value, and probably of no clearly defined ownership, they passed quickly in a wholesale way into the lethal chambers. London is rid of them, but at all our towns the white terrier with the odd markings is still in the ascendant.

On the other hand, here in town we have the Irish and the Scotch. These are as yet pretty pure; they keep rather to themselves, after the manner of the provincials, but in a couple of years mongrelism will assert itself, and London will be overrun. As it is, the hardy little Aberdeen, with his long body, short legs and nondescript markings of black and gray and mustard, holds the street, and the Irish terrier loafs about, social and easy-going.

They are both excellent in their own way, but, for all that, one misses the sharp, quick vitality of the fox terrier. Even as a mongrel he seemed to concentrate in his active little body all doggy qualities, especially fidelity and hatred of cats.

There will be a meeting of The Dalles Commercial Club at the club rooms on Friday, Oct. 23, at 8 o'clock p. m. All members are requested to be present, as the preliminary arrangements for the celebration of the opening of the locks are to be made.

ROGER B. SINNOTT, Secretary.
