KNOWN BY HIS COMPANY.

Bryan may have been a very upright, exemplary man all his life; it may not be true that he has adopted his free silver ideas for what there was in it to him as a lecturer; it may not be true that he sought the position of press agent for a theatrical troupe; it may not be true that he has contempt for the supreme court and federal authority; but whether or not he is all as a private citizen that the president of the United States ought to be, makes little difference. He is in bad company. His strongest supporters are Altgeld, Tillman, Butler, Waite, Pennoyer, and all that class of demagogues and opponents of order and decency.

Whom does the Democratic National Committee send out to speak for Bryan? Are they the men whom the nation has reason to respect? Tillman rejoiced when the flag was pulled down from Sumpter; Pennoyer cheered when Lincoln was assassinated; Altgeld stood in with the Chicago Haymarket anarchists and the strikers of 1893. Waite fumes and froths at the mouth about revolution, war and blood in case silver is defeated.

None of this kind of men are found supporting McKinley; they are all for Bryan. Supporting McKinley are the men who were Lincoln's friends, and the constant supporters of the Union; men like Harrison, Sherman, Morrill, Boutelle, Butterworth, Reed, Alger, Howard, and ninety per cent of the veterans of the war; all the conservative and well edited journals of the nation; the successful business men of the country; a large portion of the mechanics and artisans of the land. Every element in society that makes cause against good government is now for Bryan. The supporters of McKinley are elements which tend to the maintenance of good government and the preservation of the Union.

The Popocrats are extremely hard up for argument during these latter days, when almost every ground upon which they stood at the commencement of the campaign has been knocked out from under them. Mr. U'Ren and other speakers are claiming that Oregon's Lincoln electors are now supporting Bryan and free silver. The facts are: The first Lincoln electors were T. J. Dryer, W. H. Watkins and B. J. Pengra. The two former died many years ago. Mr. Pengra became insane many years ago, went to the asylum and was subsequently discharged as harmless, but incurable. He is now living in Crook county, or was at last accounts. The second Lincoln electors were Geo. L. Woods, H. N. George and J. F. Gazley. Woods and George have been dead many years; Gazley was never a Republican, he was known as a war Democrat, and as such was placed on the ticket to satisfy the men of his party who intended to support Lincoln. The last heard of him he was an out-at-the-elbow, down-at-the-heels, shiftless ne'er-do-well. U'ren's claim, like all his statements, is five-sixths lie and one-sixth possible truth.

Mr. Bryan, in talking to the business men of Chicago, told them that they were being coerced by the financiers. He began that song to the laboring men, and now he sings it to business men. If this campaign were extended a few days longer, he would be singing to the bankers and warning them against the coercion of the laborers. Thus the true circle would be complete. The fact is, the interests of all the three classes is just the same, and there is no more coercion in this political situation than there is in every business situation which is dictated by good sense, business interests and true patriotism. The coercion song is becoming excessively tiresome.

California was in doubt, but Czar Reed is there and there will be no present-but-not-counted Republican voters in that state. California will not cast its vote for Bryan this time.

Never was a more grievous wrong done the farmers of our country than that so unjustly inflicted during the past three years upon the wool growers. Although among our most useful citizens, their interests have been practically destroyed. —McKinley's letter of acceptance.
