How the President is Elected.

The exact procedure of a presidential election is known to comparatively few people, and a recitation of the principal points is always worth while.

The election takes place on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

The vote is for electors, the number of whom in each state must equal the whole number of representatives and senators from the state in congress.

The electors are required by the constitution to meet in their respective states on the same day, and congress has decreed the second Monday in January following the election as the date.

The electors vote separately for president and vice-president (one of whom at least shall not be from the same state as the elector), and the list of voters, after being signed, certified and settled, is transmitted to Washington, directed to the president of the senate.

Congress is required to be in session for counting the ballots of the electors upon the second Wednesday in the following February, the president of the senate opening the certificates in the presence of the senate and house of representatives jointly assembled.

A majority of the electoral votes elects the president and likewise the vice-president.

If no one has a majority, the election goes to the house of representatives, the three [or two] candidates having the highest number of electoral votes being voted upon by states. The representation from each state has one vote; there must be two-thirds of the states present for a quorum, and a majority of the states elect the president.

If the house of representatives fails to choose a president before the next March 4th, the vice-president acts as president.

The vice-president will have been elected previously, in all human probability, because if he has not been named by a majority of the electoral votes at the joint session of congress, the senate is directed to select him by majority vote from the two highest numbers on the original list, a two-thirds quorum being required for this action.

Beyond the provisions of the constitution, an act of the forty-ninth congress covers all proceedings in case of dispute, and also fix the presidential succession in the emergency of death, resignation and disability in the following order: Secretary of state, treasury, war, attorney-general, postmaster-general, secretary of the navy and interior. But this acting president must have been approved by the senate as cabinet officer, and within constitutional requirements for presidential eligibility. He is compelled to convene congress immediately and with twenty days notice.

Hood River Notes.

No opposition line of boats on the river so far. The Regulator line has too many friends to make a competing line profitable.

A big land slide occurred on the Washington side of the Columbia, below the Knapp place, last Monday. The loud report of the avalanche was distinctly heard at Franklin, where it seemed as if the slide had occurred on this side of the river.

Mr. J. N. McCoy received word Wednesday that his daughter, Mrs. Agnes Jones, living near Boise City, Idaho, was lying at the point of death. Mr. McCoy being in feeble health, could not make the trip to Idaho, but Mrs. Milton

Odell left here Wednesday night to go to her sister's bedside.

Hood river was booming last Sunday after the heavy rains of Saturday and Saturday night. There had been a big fall of snow in the mountains, and the chinook winds melting the snow caused a big rise in the river. At the head gate of the Improvement Co.'s ditch there was a rise of eleven feet in the river, and floating logs threatened the flume, but it escaped uninjured.

The board of directors of the Improvement Company appointed H. H. Bailey, L. Henry and Joseph Wilson to go up to the head of the ditch Wednesday and inspect the first half-mile of flume that is now completed, with water running in it. Another half-mile will be completed before the end of the month, unless the weather should be too severe to continue work. The flume was expected to reach the bridge yesterday.—Glacier.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed when the languid, exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alterative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness yield to Electric Bitters. 50c and $1.00 per bottle at Blakeley & Houghton's drug store.
