More of the Davenport Eobbery.

The matter of the robbery of Louis Davenport thirty-three years ago, is taking some decidedly queer turns. It is new stated that it was not Davenport who was robbed, but a man who came down from Canyon City with him. whose name seems to have been for-F. Laughlin, who was only a boy then, but who remembers the case, agress with Judge Liebe. It is further told that at the time the robbery was committed, a man named George Bools was suspected of having something to do clockmaker of Warsaw named Golddenying all knowledge of the affair, he was taken into the pines, then growing traveler, telegraph and ticket rooms, a just above the bluff, and still persisting in his denial, a rope was placed around a flower garden, in the center of which his neck and he was strung up. First of all, the tel-It transpires that this man interviewed Mr. Wm. Lord on his arriving here concerning the identity of the man robbed. The latest rumor in connection with the matter, and we give it only as a rumor, is, that the stranger offers to put the right man in the way of getting the money, for the sum of $200. Colonel Sinnott feels positive that Louis Davenport is the man, but Davenport, so far as we can learn, has said nothing one way or the other concerning it.

The Winters of Eastern Oregon.

A. A. Nye tells the East Oregonian that twenty-four years ago Tuesday, the 17th instant, there was a foot of snow and the thermometer registered 13 degrees below zero. Mr. Nye was sheriff at the time and left Pendleton for Umatilla with two prisoners on his way to Salem on that day. The cold weather continued until after Christmas and the snow went off and the weather became mild and pleasant throughout the winter. SIX CORTS OF A LUG.

Railroad Nuistaers Waich Seem to Thrive in Wasta Visither.

"The car hog is more and more in widence every day," said a car con-ductor the other day. "The warm weather develops trains that have been derment with the winter. I have counted six different varieties et the breed in a week. I used to be a raiser of stock in more prosperous days, and I'm a good judge. The most common sort is that of the fellow who occupies more room than he needs; never sees Over four inches and under tweive inches . 1 50 that he could make room for anybody, home. I'll bet he's the man who gets the morning paper-first, reads it to himself, gives no one else a chance, and carries it downtown in his pocket.

"Then, there's the fellow who crosses his legs, and when anyone seeks to pass simply turns his foot edgeways, so that twice as much dirt is rubbed off on a woman's dress and he gets half a shine for nothing. If a bigger man stands still and glares at him he will unfold his legs, but only then. This is the same animal who likes to stretch out in cross seats on the 'L' and clean his boots on the edge of the seat.

"The third of the species is less bold than his brothers. He is the chap who, when some one gets up, leaving a seat vacant, although there's a tired woman maybe next to him, plumps into the vacant spot, for she had her back turned, and the opportunity was-and always is, in fact-never neglected by him.

"The fourth sort is the rooster who reads another man's paper over his shoulder. I saw one the other day who was so interested in one article that he didn't see the man who held the paper was furtively and amusedly regarding him. The fact was brought to his attention, however, by the paper being pushed in front of his face and then withdrawn, and when he looked up a dozen smiling faces made him turn fairty sallow.

"The fifth is really only a pig. He's not grown, but thinks he is. His nose that's not the word, but it will do-is retrousse, and the little bristles under it are carefully cared for. He likes to crowd close to a pretty girl and stare son, twins, both boys. Charley is still crowd close to a pretty girl and stare on the earth, but liable to take flight at her with such a yearning look. If he sits opposite her his eyes rarely wander from hers. I saw one young woman stare at the feet of one of that sort for five minutes. He pulled them back and fidgeted them about, finally resting on his toes. She kept right on staring and he became very uncomfortable. I'm told that's a sure remedy.

He finally got out on the piatform. "The last of the railroad hogs I know, although there may be others, is the whose name seems to have been for-gotten, but who was generally known as shut out the view of those on either "French Louie." With the close of the Presidential Campaign THE TRIBUNE recognizes the fact that the American people are now anxious to give their attention to home and business interests. To meet this condition, politics will have far less space and prominence, until another State or National occasion de hands a renewal of the light for the principles for which THE TRIBUNE has labored from its inception to the present day, and won its greatest victories.

Every possible effort will be put forth, and money freely spent, to make THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE pre-eminently a National Family Newspaper, interesting, instructive, entertaining and indispensable to each member of the family.

We furnish "The Chronicle" and N. Y. Weekly Tribune one year for only $1.75.
