Weather Forecast. PORTLAND, NOV. 21, 1896. FOR EASTERN OREGON--Today and tomorrow, snow and warmer. FAOUE, OBSERVER.

WAYSIDE CLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Take your watches, clocks and jewelry repairing to Clark, the East End jeweler. The county clerk today issued license to wed to Frank Bolton and Miss Catharine Heisler of Dufur.

The "beautiful" commenced falling last night, there being nearly an inch of nature's whitewash on the ground this morning.

Weather reports from the East show heavy storms prevailing generally. Here the perfumed breezes of Cathay are not blowing, not by a long shot. Boreas is at the bat and the snow sprites are making the home runs.

Hon. W. H. Wilson leaves tonight for his old home down in Southern Illinois. He goes to visit his parents, now grown quite old, and expects to be away for from three weeks to a month. We wish him a pleasant trip, and the full measure of pleasure the visit promises.

Last night the merry-go-round folded its tents like an Arab, etc., and retired from business. Mrs. C. S. Van Deyn was declared the winner in the contest to decide the momentous question as to who was the most popular lady, and so received the gold watch awarded the winner.

Those who having been well dined and comforted Thanksgiving day and want to give a kindly thought to their ancestors, are requested to come to the Congregational church that evening and hear the songs with which their grandfathers serenaded their sweethearts in days of old.

At the Methodist church tomorrow morning the subject will be "Temperance;" in the evening a sacred concert will be given, the program for which is published elsewhere. The collection, which will be taken during the evening, is to be used to purchase Sunday school singing books. All are invited to attend.

The Hood River Glacier rather sarcastically says: "We have been asked a good many times how many candidates there would be for the Hood River post-office. We don't know. We can only give the Republican vote in the two precincts; East Hood River cast 89 votes for McKinley and West Hood River 185.

We stated yesterday rather prematurely that the case of the Oregon Lumber Company against Levi and Buras Jones, was argued and submitted. We had supposed this result would be accomplished by the time we went to press, but the reading of the testimony, which covered seventy-two pages of closely typewritten matter, was not concluded until 8 o'clock last night, at which time the argument was set for 9 o'clock this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Hood left for California on this afternoon's train, going to St. Helena, Napa county, to spend the winter. He came around to tell us good-bye, and impress on our minds the fact that even in that land of fruits and flowers life would be a dreadful round of solitude, without the breezy locals and soulful editorial notes of THE CHRONICLE. He shall have it if it takes the last button off Gabe's coat to get it there.

Ask and Ye Shall Receive.

Recently we made a touching appeal to the city fathers for light. We did not ask for much, but just a little, and we are proud to see the evidences that we are going to get almost all we asked for. The holes are being planted in various and sundry places, and the old-fashioned lamp-posts will soon be bearing aloft the good old glass frames and the coal-oil lamps therein. It is not much, it is true, but even the "light of other days" is preferable to the absence of light of the winter nights. We can get along with these through the winter, with the aid of the swaggering old moon that gets full occasionally; but it does not speak well for us. It seems to be the best that can be done, and surely none of us can profitably kick when we have the best there is. The great bard of Avon paid graceful tribute to one small candle that sent its beams twinkling through rents in the sable curtains of Night to illuminate a grateful world. Why then should we complain when we have the more odoriferous coal oil?

It has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the demonstrator, at least, that coal is nothing but the heat of the sun stored up through countless millions of years for the use of man, and coal oil surely is the light of our great orb stored away at the same time. Let us then be thankful for what we have, realizing, as we do, that some places not half our size are really in greater darkness than we are.

A Pleasant Surprise Party.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Lane were made the victims of a most happy surprise last evening by a goodly number of their friends, taking them quite unawares, at their home in the eastern portion of the city. Their uninvited guests took full possession of the house at about 8 o'clock, and from that time on until a late hour the fun and merriment reigned supreme. A bountiful luncheon was served, which was one of the most enjoyable parts of the evening's entertainment.

Athletes, Take Notice!

All members of the Athletic Club who are interested in foot ball, are requested to meet in the club rooms this evening at 8:30 o'clock to organize a foot-ball team. GEO. C. BLAKELRY, Chairman Athletic Comm.

THE WEATHER IN GREAT VARIETY A Snow Storm Succeeds the Heavy Rainfall.

Thirty-miles-an-hour gales on the Oregon coast; heavy rains over in Northern California; a blizzard in Montana; 30 degrees below zero up in the cold-weather-hatching regions in the northern British territory, and a driving snow storm over Oregon, Washington and Idaho is the weather situation summarized today at noon. There is lots of weather up here in the Northwest.

By tomorrow morning it will be raining again, as the temperature is "loosening" up. Yesterday and last night the temperature was stationary, being about the freezing point west of the Cascades, and from 16 to 24 degrees above zero east of there.

It is 4 degrees below zero at Helena, and up in the northern region it is cold enough to suit the oldest inhabitant. Considering the time of the year it is noteworthy. The snow storm today comes from up in the British possessions. It doesn't come direct. It has a curve in its delivery which baffles description, besides which a baseball pitcher's would be easy. The wise man should have known from the way the wind howled last night in the cold, clear atmosphere that this installment of the storm was coming.

It is 16 above at Spokane, 18 at Walla Walla, 28 at Seattle and 2 degrees warmer at Portland.

It is somewhat chilly for unprotected whiskers at Havre, Mont. It is 33 degrees below zero, and a sensible person will take the weather prophet's word for it without going there to investigate. If you would like more figures, it is 30 below at Edmonton, 22 at Qu' Appelle, 14 at Calgary and 12 below at Bismarck, N. D. It is snowing in Montana and parts of Idaho, and it is thought the beautiful is falling in Washington.

Forecaster Pague says the high barometric pressure, which is central to the north of Montana, is rapidly moving eastward, and a storm area is appearing off the coast. A secondary low pressure is over Nevada and Utah, which has produced general rain over California, Nevada, Utah and Southern Idaho. The area of low pressure off the Washington coast will most likely develop during today, and control the weather over the Pacific Northwest for the next 48 hours.

At 5 o'clock this morning the weather bureau issued the following as to the future conduct of the river:

"The Willamette river at Portland was 20.2 feet above zero yesterday morning, at which height it remained stationary until about 5 p. m., when it began to fall; by 8:30 p. m., a fall of 0.6 of a foot had occurred. The fall will be more rapid Saturday and Sunday, amounting to from 7 to 10 feet by Monday morning. Saturday morning the height of the river at Portland will be about 18 feet, Sunday morning about 14 feet and Monday morning 9 to 11 feet above the zero of the gauge."

At Albany the river has fallen 7.1 feet during the past 24 hours. Train service on all the railways entering Portland has been resumed on almost schedule time.

It is expected that the passengers who will leave Portland and Tacoma today on the Northern Pacific for the East will go through without transfer. Between here and the Sound, traffic has been resumed and trains are on time. Passenger Agent Carlton has received advices showing that all the delayed passengers at Clark's Fork in the mountain district in Washington were being transferred with but little delay and the break is being rapidly repaired.

Information from Vancouver, B. C., yesterday was to the effect that no trains had come over the Canadian Pacific since last Thursday. The passengers who were started out on Friday's train were held at Agassiz until Sunday, when they were brought back to Vancouver, and are being kept there until the line is open. The report on Tuesday night was that they expected to get a train through by yesterday afternoon.

On the Southern Pacific the water has not yet receded sufficiently in the Clackamas valley bottoms to allow the passage of the Roseburg local. Passengers are being transferred and possibly the water will abate sufficiently by tomorrow to allow the trains to pass. The through train is making good time by the West Side.

The O. R. & N. and the Union Pacific have escaped damages and the trains are on time.

The Spanish Students.

There is a genuine treat in store for lovers of good music. The manager of the Vogt opera house has secured the celebrated Spanish Students, an excellent company of vocalists and instrumentalists. They need but little mention, being well and favorably known to the music-loving public.

The advance sale opened today at noon. The sale will be enormous, and those who contemplate going will do well to call early and secure a seat before they are all gone. A. J. Francis of this company was out yesterday a short time with the guarantee list and the sale was simply remarkable. Tickets 75 cents and $1. On sale at the Snipes-Kuersly drug store.

Miss Wainwright, Too.

There being a rumor going the rounds that the Spanish Students may fail to appear as advertised, Mr. A. J. Francis, the genial and energetic advance agent, desires us to say that the company will positively appear as advertised on the 27th. Lovers of vocal music will be pleased to learn that Manager Webber has booked Miss Wainwright, the charming soprano, who will make her first appearance with the company at his place.

Wanted.
