Stands at the Head.
 Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discovery is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. Old People.
 Old people who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. BEAU BRUMMELL.
 At the Grave of a Famous Dandy and Wit.

English visitors to Tilly-sur-Seulle having satisfied their curiosity, turn to Caen, where lie the bones of an Englishman who has left behind an immortal reputation as a dandy and a wit. Beau Brummell, after having been the friend of the prince regent, died in poverty, a friendless imbecile. Born in 1778, George Bryan Brummell was educated at Eton, where he made a name for social aplomb, readiness of repartee and fastidious neatness in dress. He went to the Oriel college, Oxford, for a year. He was presented with a coronet by the prince of Wales in the Tenth Hussars, and for some years enjoyed the friendship of the prince, who was afterward George IV. At last they quarreled, but "Beau" Brummell held his own in society until gambling losses made him flee the country. In 1830 he was appointed British consul at Caen. His creditors closed round him, and in May, 1835, he was cast into prison. His spirit seemed to have been broken, and in 1837 he showed signs of imbecility, and died at the Asylum of the Bon Sauveur, Caen, in March, 1840.

GOLD BUT NO FOOD.
 Experience of an Amateur Pirate on the Chinese Coast.

It has surely fallen to the lot of few men to come near starving to death in a land of plenty, with over $900 in gold in their pocket—nay, by reason of that very fact. I had shipped at Shanghai, on board a steamer bound for Hongkong, says a writer. When I signed she was flying Jardine's flag at the main, but I believed she carried the ensign of every nation and half the house flags of the world in her signal locker. An opium smuggler I was prepared to find her; that her chief business on the waters was piracy of the vilest sort and unredeemed by a glint of romance came upon me certainly as a revelation.

We attacked no ships, as far as I know, but, handled with marvelous skill and knowledge of the intricate coast navigation, she would run in after nightfall among the rocks and banks where one would expect a sampan to take the bottom, while shrieks, flames, the report of firearms and clash of steel would testify to the descent of my delectable shipmates upon one or another of the numerous fishing villages which fringe the shores of the China sea.

After four months' duress I struck a blow for liberty. My little hoard of morphia—jealously guarded toward this eventuality—deepened the narcotism in which the whole crew lay steeped after a ghastly debauch as we rode at anchor, and, forsaking all my goods and chattels and seizing in lieu such moneys as I could find, I dropped into the dingy and pulled off, shoeless, hatless, arrayed only in a shirt, trousers and belt containing the above named sum (close on £200), hoping to reach a German gunboat which had been sighted in the offing earlier in the day.

But the night was thick and in less than an hour I found myself close in shore. The question of what to do was speedily settled by the boat capsizing among the breakers, leaving me no alternative but to land. Day was breaking and I lay till next morning in a tomb cut above the road in the hillside, and for the next three weeks I nearly perished for lack of nourishment, not daring to exhibit a gold piece, for I had no weapon and would certainly have been robbed and murdered.

I would gladly have thrown away all but one piece, but there was no single small coin in the sum total, and the result would have been the same. Though a good walker at that age (I had made a record of 20 miles not long before and could cover 300 a week without a blister) I accomplished no more than 200 miles in 22 days—traveling only by night and hiding in tombs or ditches all day, often rushing back to my last deserted lair in terror of the advancing sun when no suitable place of concealment was in sight.

With paddy and plantains snatched precariously here and there I managed to exist during those awful weeks. Chan-Chan is not regarded as a terrestrial paradise by those Europeans whom fate malign has compelled to sojourn there, but Walhalla was never hailed with greater ecstasy by the world-worn pilgrim than was that celestial sink by myself. Toward the 20th day of meat cooking absolutely overcame me one morning, and, at the peril of my life, I emerged into the light of day, and laid felonious hands and teeth on what I believed was a part of a baked cat, in the temporary absence of the legitimate landlord thereof.—London Standard.

BRIGGS' MULE HAS MYOPIA.
 Some Queer Mistakes He Makes Around His Master's Barnyard.

Stories have been told of horses with snakes in their eyes and horses with "watch eyes," or an evil eye, a blind eye, and a vast amount of information has been printed about pink eye, but it is doubtful if any authentic history has been written of the peculiarities of the animal owned by Col. Briggs. Briggs, of New Jersey, whose banyan whiskers were recently described and illustrated. It is afflicted with myopia or near-sightedness.

"I reckon that the reason for it," said Col. Briggs, "is that my horse is a mawl. Can't see a fence till he gets his nose within three feet of it, and then he shies. Mistakes the pig pen for the barn an' tries to git in with the hogs. Stumbles over the pasture fence and stubs his nose, which makes him kick. Drinks out o' the milk pail 'cause he thinks it's water, and gen'ly makes an all-round mawl fool of hisself."

"Leastwise," added Col. Briggs, "that was the situation up to three months ago, when an idee strikes me, which I mentions to Maria—that's Mrs. Briggs. 'Ef you need glasses to read the newspapers,' says I to Maria, 'that mawl needs glasses to see whether he's eatin' oats or sawdust,' and I got him fitted, an' he's got to like 'em so he won't stira peg without 'em."

Col. Briggs' spectacled mule is the wonder of all that section of New Jersey around Scuttleville. The lenses are octagonal in shape and are in heavy leather frames, which are strapped to the side straps of the bridle. They are so adjusted that the animal gets a perfect vision while looking ahead or sideways. When first put on they opened up such an unexpected vista that the mule backed into a well and had to be hauled out with a derrick. But as soon as he got accustomed to them he brayed loud and long every time they were taken off.

"People kin laugh," said Col. Briggs, "but I don't keer. Ef I had a near-sighted oyster and wanted to put spees on him I'd do it, an' let 'em laugh till they busted."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

With the close of the Presidential Campaign THE TRIBUNE recognizes the fact that the American people are now anxious to give their attention to home and business interests. To meet this condition, politics will have far less space and prominence, until another State or National occasion demands a renewal of the fight for the principles for which THE TRIBUNE has labored from its inception to the present day, and won its greatest victories.

Every possible effort will be put forth, and money freely spent, to make THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE pre-eminently a National Family Newspaper, interesting, instructive, entertaining and indispensable to each member of the family.
