SPANISH THREATS.

Senor Canovas, the great Spanish secretary, talks in an extremely boisterous manner, about thrashing the United States whenever the handful of Cubans whale Weyler. The last dispatches show that Weyler must have been worse whipped than usual, since Canovas is extraordinarily angry. He blames the United States for the whole war, and says "if Spain loses Cuba the United States will have to pay every cent it is worth." It does not seem to strike Canovas that the 70,000,000 people in this country are not going to get badly frightened at a threat of war with a government that cannot subdue a few thousand of its own people.

With 160,000 troops in the field against possibly 15,000 and a whaling the result of every conflict, the calculation as to what Spain would do with this country becomes a question of mathematics of microscopical importance. If this government did not patrol the ocean in the interest of Spain, she would have lost Cuba long ago, and it is not becoming in Canovas to be making threats against us. If Spain ever attacks Uncle Sam and he finds it out, the old man will be mad—sure.

The La Grande people are making a vigorous and determined effort to have a beet sugar factory started in their town. The Commercial Club that has the matter in charge, seems hopeful of securing the subsidy required, and in a recent report showed that good progress had been made toward the desired end. It is to be hoped our energetic neighbors may accomplish the good work, and show the people of Eastern Oregon that wheat, cattle and wool are not its only possible productions. We would like much to sample some La Grande sugar, and hope we may have some in our tea next fall, as we face the East and say "Here's to you."

The senatorial election, to come off next January, is troubling some people considerably. Notwithstanding Senator Mitchell's speech at the Hirsch banquet, there are those who still insist on the senator outlining his position on the silver question. We do not even pretend to guess whom the legislature will elect, but it strikes us that Senator Mitchell's position was sufficiently outlined in the recent campaign that any one might understand it. Mitchell is a bimetalist, but not without it being made an international matter.

The scientists are daily discovering some new microbe, bacteria or pest of some kind. The latest noted is that of Mr. G. W. Shaw, of the Oregon experiment station, of a butter fungus. The butter turns blue or black, and is affected with a regular butter mold (no joke). Mr. Shaw is confident he has discovered a new and genuine butter disease, and that the mold on the samples examined was not due to age or inanition. It would be nothing short of a national calamity if butter is to acquire any more drawbacks than it has.

We are not disposed to find fault, but it does seem strange that the locks cannot be operated on a legal holiday. It takes but ten or fifteen minutes at most to pass a boat through, and as there are only two boats to pass daily, it should not be considered an extravagant demand to ask that now the river is open it should be kept open all the time.

The Oregonian and the Salem Statesman are having a discussion about the retiring of the greenbacks.

Hurry the matter along, gentlemen, and let us have it settled before congress meets, or it is liable to hang on all winter.

It seems quite probable that an extra session of congress will be called soon after President McKinley takes his seat. Something must be done to provide revenue, and it is not now expected the Dingley bill can be passed.

And now comes the report that Portland is to have another morning paper, with full press reports, etc. This rumor has grown decidedly antique, and Oregonians will believe it when they see it, but not before.

And still that proposition to purchase a diamond drill and test our coal fields remains unsettled. Gentlemen, let's get a move on, and by the time spring arrives have the coal question settled.
