THE LONG AGO.

The good old days of our fathers so often spoken of, exist targely in of the eyes, and tell in an instant the imagination. It is no doubt true that each generation has looked backturn has regretted the passing away of the circumstances under which its predecessors lived, prospered and died. And yet each generation may well afford to congratulate itself on the advancement made over the conditions of the generation it succeeded.

We point to the early days of the republic, and yet what was there then that we would change the present for. Then there was no cars, no steamboats, no steamships, no telegraphs nor telephones, no electric lights, no postal conveniences, no street railways, no nothing. The stage coach was the then solution of rapid transit, the packet rushed along the canal at the rate of almost five miles an hour, was an achievement that filled the hebdomedal newspaper with wonder, and the minds of the gazing populace with awe. Mails were carried by private parties and postage was charged according to the distance the letter traveled. The in the East in the shape of live stock that could foot it to its destination, and in that alone. Cincinnati was farther from New York, in time, than Calcutta is today. The news was fresh at the age of from a week to six months; the daguerreotype books were illustrated with pictures wisits our town and those suffering with that, while they delighted the fathers tunity.

D. J. McFaul, M. D. of the republic in their infancy, would not now be sent to an Indian school in Arizona, and even then the happy urchins who 'owned them, admired their beauties either by the light from the fire or the extravagant man that fully understands his work. Illumination of the tallow dip.

The country produced great men then, it is true, but they were great, not on account of better opportunity. but in spite of obstacles. There is a vast difference now-the difference between the fifty mile-an-hour railroad train and the six-mile-an-hour stage coach; the difference between comfort and discomfort; between acts mildly on the stomach and nowels, stilts and a bicycle; between the speed of the horse and the get there of chain lightning.

out childhood. Who ever re-visited the home of his boyhood after he had reached middle age without being struck by the fact that everything had shriveled. The old chest nut tree that was fifty feet to the first limb, has sprouted branches forty feet lower. The great hay mow, where we sought the new-laid egg, has become but a very small affair; the lake above the mill that excited our wonder is a frog pond, and the four-acre field, where we so longed for the short rows in hoeing time, has become a mere truck patch.

It is better, perhaps, that we should regret conditions past, that did not exist, than to envy those yet held in the future, but sure to come. Life fifty years from now will exist under highly improved conditions, but most of us will not be here to enjoy them. We can console ourselves with the reflection that however much we may envy those who The Dalles, Oregon. People having weak eyesight should not miss this opportunity to have their eyes properly examined and fitted. The doctor has instruments with which he can examine every part of the interior whether he can benefit you or not.

Many children complain of pain in the eyes and feel unable to keep up with ward to compare existing conditions their classmates in school. They unwith those gone before, and each in doubtedly have trouble with their vision, which if corrected will benefit them for life. Cross eyes can be straightened with proper glasses.

Lannerberg, the leading eye specialist of the Pacific, has been in Heppner for sev-eral weeks past and has successfully treated many, among them my daughter and myself. Indeed he has been most successful in every case, and of course has the confidence of all physicians who have the pains to examine into his work, as well as the general public. I have no hesitancy in recommending him to all needing his services.

HEPPNER, Or., Nov. 17, 1896, This is to certify that Dr. J. C. Lan-nerberg, who has been in our midst a few weeks as an optician and oculist, has done the most satisfactory work on the eves of many of our leading citizens, and that the glasses he fitted me out with (a Brazilian crystal) is the most complete, having an accommodating power that is wonderful as compared to the ordinary glass. I can most cordially recommend his work. Very truly, Dr. E. R. SWINBURNE.

HEPPNER, Or., Nov. 17, 1896.

To whom it may concern: Dr. J. C. Lannerberg, the eye specialist, attended to my wife's eyes about three years ago, she at that time suffering with a great deal of headache and nervousness. After products of the West found market wearing glasses prescribed by the doctor the pain left her and she has telt much relieved. During his stay here the doctor has again treated her eyes and the result is the most satisfactory we could possibly hope. I can most heartily re-commend Dr. Lannerberg to those who suffer with eye trouble as a man that fully understands his profession.
