Weather Forecast.
PORTLAND, Nov. 28, 1896.
FOR EASTERN OREGON—Tonight and tomorrow fair, and continue cold.
PAOR, Observer.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

There will be a short session of lodge before the social this evening at the Good Templar's hall.

Licenses to marry was issued yesterday evening to Mr. F. Osbur Crevling and Miss Adelia F. Milligan, both of this county.

The subject of the evening sermon tomorrow at the Methodist church tomorrow is "Counting the Cost." A special invitation is extended to business men and those interested in the political issues of the day to attend.

November has broken the record for Portland, it showing the heaviest rainfall to the 15th, the highest winds ever known there, and the coldest weather ever known in that month, and only lacking a few degrees of being as cold as the record, two below in 1888.

Mr. Henry Darnielle received a telegram this morning announcing the death of Nellie, the 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Feeney at Portland. Mrs. Feeney is a sister to Mr.
Darnielle and he went to Portland this afternoon to attend the funeral.

The Regulator arrived at the Cascades this afternoon at 1 o'clock, but found the canal frozen solid. Ice was forming very rapidly along the lower river, and in consequence she did not stop long, but steamed back to Portland, where she will remain until the weather moderates, as it is quite likely the Columbia will be solid by tomorrow.

Dr. J. C. Lannerberg arrived here yesterday and has opened an office in the rooms recently occupied by Dr. Kane.
The doctor is a graduate of the Spencer Optical college of New York city, and makes a specialty of diseases of the eye.
He was at Heppner for some time, and has some very fine recommendations from Editor Patterson and other leading citizens of that place.

William Shearer, aged 35, was drowned in the pool at the foot of the flume at Cook's Landing, on the Columbia, November 19th. He was a good swimmer, and his friends that were with him thought it a good joke when he fell in the water. But their mirth was changed to consternation when they saw him sink with cramps, and drown before he could be rescued. He leaves a wife and several children.—Glacier.

A Serpentine Jag.

The Telegram of last night contains an article about one Amos Crowley, said to be of that city, and a sheep-shearer by occupation, who blew in his money there and a day or so since found himself at the end of his sack, and consequently at the same end of his spree.

Some friend found him, and seeing his nervous condition, asked him to take a drink. While in the saloon a peddler showing a burglar alarm, sprung the thing, exploding a cartridge. This was too much for the shattered nerves of the Dalles man, and he imagining someone was shooting at him, took refuge under the bar, from which place he was dragged in all the full enjoyment of a serpentine jag. He was sent to the hospital.

Spanish Students Tonight.

The Spanish Students will be here tonight, arriving at 7 o'clock on a special train chartered by the D. P. & A. N. Co.
While the unfortunate wrecking of the Dalles City caused an annoying delay, it was one that could neither be foreseen nor prevented. Manager Webber regrets exceedingly that information could not be obtained in time to inform the public so that they would not have been put to the inconvenience of facing the cold weather only to be disappointed.
As it was, a telegram sent to Hood River elicited the reply that the boat had passed there a little before 8, which was of course, a mistake. The curtain will go up tonight promptly on time, and the building will be thoroughly warmed. The program will be rendered as printed yesterday.

A Fire Alarm.

An alarm of fire this morning about 9 o'clock sent the boys skurrying up to the East End with the engine and hose carts, but the fire was out before they arrived. The cause of the alarm was a small blaze in the basement of the building belonging to Mr. McNerny and occupied by Mr. Frank Gabel. The fire started in some empty sacks, how, nobody knows. Mr. Gabel grabbed the burning sacks and carried them out, burning his hands and face quite severely in doing so. He also cut a bad gash in the back of his thumb, probably from a piece of broken glass. Outside of the damage to Mr. Gabel, no harm was done.

It Beats Ours.

At Pendleton the weather is decidedly cold, the thermometer dropping down to 23 and 25 degrees below zero. The East Oregonian is responsible for the following concerning it:

The pipes at the mills were all frozen and (this is no fairy story) the big pump, which stands within six feet of the battery of boilers in the brick engine room of the scouring mills, was frozen solid, with 65 to 70 pounds of steam on and the pump running at full force. Today the mills are chockablock with ice in all the pipes. It is thought by tomorrow the mills can be in operation again.

The Dalles City Damaged.

The steamer Dalles City left the locks at 6 o'clock last night, and should have been here at 9:40. Instead she is lying in a sand bar just above Sprague landing, with a big hole in her hull. Just this side of Sprague there is a big rock in the river, and this she ran into. How much damage was done we have not learned, nor can it be estimated until she is raised, though it is not probably anything worse than the knocking out of a few ribs and the breaking of some sheathing. As soon as she struck, her bow was turned towards the sand bar near by and she sank in a few minutes in 6 feet of water. She had on board passengers transferred from the Regulator, among them the Spanish Students, and the cattle and other freight taken from here in the morning. Arrangements were at once made with Messrs.
J. G. and I. N. Day of the Cascades to raise her. Since writing the above it is learned that the steamer Maria, belonging to the Days, took the passengers and freight from the Dalles City today landing them at the Cascades. It is feared that the steamer is much more badly damaged than was at first supposed.
The D. P. & A. N. Co. arranged for an extra on the O. R. & N. to run from Portland this afternoon, which will pick up the passengers and bring them through, arriving here at 7 o'clock this evening.

Blown to Atoms.

Mr. H. C. Lovering, writing to the Hood River Glacier from Illecillewaet, British Columbia, under date of Nov.
9th, gives the following account of the death of Chas. Berger, formerly a resident of Hood River valley:

"We have had a terrible accident here in which one of your old citizens, Chas.
Berger, met a swift and awful death.
Mr. Berger and Chris. Miller went out about nine miles from here to do some work in a mine which is being opened up. They were last seen on Monday, Nov. 9th. There was then three boxes of dynamite in the cabin. A heavy shot was heard that evening at dusk. On Wednesday the cabin was blown to atoms. Search parties have been out almost all the time since and have succeeded in finding parts of the body of Miller, but nothing has been found that can be identified as part of Mr.
Berger.

"The family is with us here and they are bearing up bravely in their terrible trouble. Mr. Berger was respected by all who knew him here, and his wife and children have our sincerest and pathetic sympathy."

A Dainty Artist.

Jack Frost was abroad last night, and while the cunning rogue may have done considerable mischief in the way of fooling with water-pipes and similar tricks, it is quite certain that the artistic instincts of the little scamp caused him to do some ornamental work on the big plate glass windows of our business houses. Some of the windows were indeed beautiful, there were landscapes and waterscapes, icebergs, trees, birds and bees, fountains and mountains, delicate traceries of figures irregularly regular, suggesting a design, yet leaving it incomplete, but satisfactory; a hint to the imagination that like a half forgotten dream, left memories of things beautiful, yet indistinct, or like remembrance of our childhood fairy tales, where each saw for himself the wonderful gardens of Aladdin's cave, and yet none saw alike. As an artist and fresco painter Jack Frost has no equal, and he certainly left some of his masterpieces with us last night.

 10. "American Patrol"..... Neacham
- Lamps Tonight.

If you should see anything strange in the shape of lights tonight, do not imagine that it is either the California flying ship or Col. Sinnott's. The fact is that the council has let a contract for lighting the city, and the lamps will be touched off tonight. As the lamplighter will make his first round tonight, and is not familiar with the location of the lamps, it is requested that if any lamps are not lighted, those living near them report the fact.

There's no clay, flour, starch or other worthless filling in "Hoe Cake" and no free alkali to burn the hands. jly24
