A New Year Revertie.

The editor of the Eugene Guard, being undoubtedly led thereto by contemplation of the office devil, thus breaks loose in a recent issue: "Backward, turn backward, Oh time in your flight; make me a boy again, just for tonight. Give me the bliss of that rapturous time, when I would go swimming, say, half of the time. Give me the bluster that followed the bliss on the part of my neck that the sun didn't miss; give me the belting that followed it then, make me a jubilant urchin again. Backward, turn backward, Oh time in your flight; give me one chance at the teacher who lapped me six times a day—Oh give me a chance at that teacher I say. And give me the woodpile as big as a hill; let the pleasure of splitting it cheer me and thrill, while the boys gaily cheer me from over the fence. Oh, give me that bliss again, darn the expense! The small reservation just over the hill, where the thought of the hoeing would give me a chill; the cow that caressed me each eve with her tail as I tried to draw milk for a twenty-quart pail, the hens that forever are wanting to set, the pig with a stomach man never filled yet, measles that hit me, that colicky pain—Oh give me the bliss of my boyhood again! If you'd fill me with rapture and cheerful delight, backward, turn backward, Oh time in your flight."
