WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

There is only an "em" difference, said the old married printer, between "hyemial" and "hyenial."

Mrs. Mary E. Golden, for whose husband the town of Goldendale was named, died at Fort Wayne, Indiana, Christmas day.

W. C. Creede, the Colorado millionaire, and his wife have parted. She receives $20,000 as her share of the common plunder.

The commissioners court expected to adjourn at noon today, but having received the assessment roll as equalized by the state board, continued in session this afternoon, to make the tax levy.

Mr. John Gray, who has the contract for erecting the buildings at the Warm Springs, arrived from Salem last night, and leaves to complete his contract Monday. The work will take about three weeks yet.

The funeral of the late Mrs. S. C. Wilson took place from the residence of Hon. B. S. Huntington this afternoon, Rev. W. C. Curtis conducting the service. A large number of sorrowing friends paid their last tribute of respect by attending at the interment.

Professor Kanematz' silkworm colony, comprising more than 80,000 worms, at Coquille, Or., has concluded its cocoon spinning. The professor says the work has been done much quicker and better this season than before, and, if anything, the cocoons are better also.

We stated yesterday that the county court had ordered a bridge built across Hood river. The statement was rather premature, as all the county court did was to ask for plans and estimates for the same, so that they might act intelligently on the matter. The bridge will have to be built as it at present in a dangerous condition.

Last week Mr. Anderson was held up between Canyonville and Bollenbaugh's residence, in Douglas county, by three men. It was dark, and he, in the scuffle which ensued, stabbed one of them. They went through his pockets, but got nothing, as he had left his money at Canyonville. He asserts positively that he knows who his assailants are.

It has been suggested that while the city charter is being amended, provision be made for having the city build the crosswalks. The proposition seems only fair, since the owners of the corner lots have from two to four times as much expense as the others for street improvements and sidewalks. The street crossing is of no more benefit to the property-owner on the corner than any other, and is really a part of the street improvements.

Means Business.

"A Mother" writes to the Goldendale Sentinel as follows: "What are school directors elected for, anyway? I think it would be a good thing to send some of our teachers (?) off to a reform school, so they can learn how to control themselves and their scholars. This habit of sending little ones up to the principal's room is getting ridiculous and monotonous. As it is, the principal has all he can attend to, especially when he sends a great portion of his time prancing up and down the room pawing his hair. After he has worked himself up to such a frenzy, he wreaks his ire on the little ones. Any so-called teacher that is not able to conduct the affairs of his own room had better resign, or be caused to. For my part, the next time my child is mauled by any one, excepting its teacher, I'll go down to that school and clean out the whole outfit. I mean business."

Baby Born on a Push-Car.

Since the blockade on the Monte Cristo, the wife of a Monte Cristo miner was confined, and the doctor having left Monte Cristo, she was placed in charge of some other women, who had been unable to come out of the mountains, while her husband set out on foot for Snohomish for medicine, says the Snohomish Tribune. The nurses became frightened, and had their charge put on a push-car, and started down the railroad track with her, hoping to get where medical assistance could be procured. Shortly after they started on his novel journey, the babe was born, and, with its mother, was taken back to its mountain home. This patient and others in similar condition, who could not come out when the blockade was started, have been in a serious predicament with no doctor within 50 miles.

The Case of Marion County.

The county judge and commissioners of Marion county, at their regular meeting Wednesday, made an order to the county court to ignore the pretended equalization made by the board of equalization. This is nothing but just, as the board exceeded their jurisdiction in the matter, and it was a case of flagrant petty spite work. This action may bring the county into a contest, but if it does it will only be one more reason for killing off the unnecessary state board of equalization. We commend our county court for its prompt and vigorous manner of disposing of the matter.—Gervais Star.

ELOPED WITH A MARRIED MAN.

An Episode Which Has Created a Sensation in Walla Walla.

A sensation of moderate magnitude was created in this city yesterday, says the Walla Walla Union, by the rumor that an elopement had occurred in which a young married man and a young lady who has been quite prominent in a young people's church society, were the principals.

The rumor, when traced down by a Union reporter, proved to be based on the truth. The man is in the employ of the O. R. & N. railway, and last November took his wife East, returning alone. The young lady was a near neighbor, but their friends did not suspect that the relations between them were other than friendship. Last Saturday night both disappeared from Walla Walla and were next heard from at Starbuck, where the man is employed. The young lady wrote her brother-in-law to send her trunk to Pomeroy, where she was to be married to a young man from Spokane. Her relatives did not believe her story, and upon investigation discovered the true situation. Her brother left on yesterday morning's train for Starbuck with the intention of shedding some gore should the facts justify it, but it is said that the runaways were informed of the movement and got out of the way.

ROSY FOR WHEAT GROWERS.

Views of Secretary Morton on the World's Crop for 1897.

J. Sterling Morton, secretary of agriculture, writes as follows to the San Francisco Examiner regarding the wheat outlook for the year 1897:

"While it is, of course, impossible at this early day to predict as to the size and quality of the crops, there are good grounds for believing that the demand for some of the products of American agriculture, to be harvested next autumn, will be exceedingly strong and active, with prices correspondingly high. This is especially true as regards wheat. The past year has witnessed a shortage of unusual extent in wheat crops in several of the chief wheat growing countries of the world. The great Russian empire, which ranks next to the United States in importance as a country of wheat supply, has produced this season largely diminished crops, while India and Australia, the other leading sources of supply, have actually changed from exporting to importing countries. The next wheat crop of Australia will be harvested in January, and indications now point to a product far below the average. The same is true of the coming crop of India, to be gathered in April. The reports received from Argentina and several other countries are also unfavorable. These unusual shortages, occurring simultaneously in different countries, have caused a scarcity in the wheat supply not experienced for years, and the result is a marked advance price of this important cereal. As the amount of wheat at present available in the world is so far short of the probable requirements, it is fair to presume that the reserve stocks that would, under normal conditions, be carried over into next season, will be very much diminished. This will undoubtedly create an increased demand upon the forthcoming crop, to the great benefit of the farmer. One of the natural results of the present wheat stringency is the heightened demand for other breadstuffs. The high price of wheat is largely causing a more liberal use of such cereals as may be substituted for it, among them that great American grain, Indian corn. According to report, a cargo of 140,000 bushels of corn was shipped the present month from Philadelphia to India, the first cargo ever sent to that country from the United States."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Ray Logan who has been home for the holidays returned to Stanford university this morning.

A letter from L. E. Crowe states that his health is improving and that Mr. Mays is also getting steadily better.

Mr. S. E. Blythe, editor and proprietor of the Hood River Glacier, came up last night and returned this afternoon.

Billy Mansfield, foreman in the Times-Mountaineer office, went to Portland this morning. He will have charge of the calendar work at Salem during the session.

C. H. Stranahan came up from Hood River yesterday with his team, being on his way to Sherman county, where he has a fine ranch which he will at once proceed to put in wheat.

Hon. E. B. Dufur went to Portland this morning. Being a Democrat he started early so as to hunt up the few members of his party that found their way to the legislative halls.

Hon. John Michell was a passenger on the afternoon train for Portland. He will be on hand at Salem, Monday morning, but will no doubt have a lovely time with the politicians after his arrival in Portland. Men with senatorial votes in this possession, just now appreciate the joys of a political life.

A tired stomach is very much like a sprained ankle. If you suffer from any of the symptoms of dyspepsia, your stomach is tired. It needs a crutch. We must relieve it of all work for a time, or until it is restored to its natural strength. To do this successfully, we must use a food which is already digested outside of the body, and which will aid the digestion of other foods that may be taken with it. Such a product is the Shaker Digestive Cordial.

The Shakers have utilized the digestive principles present in plants for the manufacture of this article, and its success has been truly phenomenal. You can try it for the nominal sum of 10 cents, as sample bottles are sold by all druggists at this price. (2)

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
