THE GIRL IN GRAY.

Irresistible Impulse, Which Called Her to a Life of Renunciation. Susan carried her daily bread by trying on hats in one of the majestic dry goods palaces of the metropolis.

Susan was a gray girl. She was a perfect poem in gray. Her eyes were deep, twilight gray; her skin the cream gray of the white flesh about a bluebird's beak.

Susan was full of gray moods, and her favorite position was to sit half bent over in one of the guest's chairs in the aforesaid emporium.

Poetry came and people went, and they wondered that such a beautiful girl was not fairly carried away by some rich and appreciative suitor.

She found that Susan was all alone in the world; that she came from a good English family; that she was obliged to earn the means to earn her living; that she cared little for dress and worldly things.

After becoming better acquainted with Susan she learned that most of the girl's female relatives had been nuns.

Susan said to her one afternoon, when they were friends: "I have a perfect horror of ever becoming a nun myself, but day after day the idea grows upon me, and I am sure that some fine morning I shall go to the sisters and ask them to take me in. I really believe that beauty has called me to that mission."

"Do you know much about mystical and mental science? If you do, tell me. Do people always feel drawn to do what their hearts tell them not to do?"

The author could not answer, but was left guessing, as the girl had been. One day the author went to the shop to get a new hat for a social matinee, and of course asked for Susan and she was told that Susan had suddenly become very pious and had given up her position to do religious embroidery in one of the technical shops connected with the church.

The author heard nothing more from the girl until one day, while investigating a charity on the east side, she saw a familiar figure sit past. Upon looking intensely at it, it proved to be Susan. She smiled, and responded to the author, and said: "And how is it with you? I have answered my own question. I have proven to myself that each individual is given the mental life to perceive and enjoy those things which bring pleasure and to be able to sacrifice and give happiness to others, and the spiritual life as an inspiration pointing the way to a better life, where the only pleasure is in giving up pleasure and the only happiness in bestowing your own inheritance of it upon those who have neither mental perception nor spiritual inspiration."

"When I fought my own soul I was nearing a point where my mind would have become shattered because my mind had not solved the wants of my spirit. Now I love that which I hated, and hate nothing, and I feel that this is the highest state a human being can reach."

And artists and society women look in vain for an ideal model in the famous dry goods shop to anticipate their artistic wants.—N. Y. Mail and Express.

I WANT YOU TO UNDERSTAND THAT I'LL HAVE NOTHING BUT THE GENUINE DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS! Illustration of a man on a bicycle.

A CYCLING MINISTER'S EXPERIENCE. THE RESULTS OF LONG, HARD RIDING. FULLY 3,000 MILES ON HIS WHEEL. He Makes Some Reflections on the Benefits of the Sport and Tells of its Dangers.

The Rev. Wm. P. F. Ferguson, whose picture we give above, will not be unfamiliar by sight to many readers. A young man, he has still had an extended experience as foreign missionary, teacher, editor, lecturer and pastor that has given him a wide acquaintance in many parts of the country.

In the early summer of '94 I went upon a tour through Canada on my wheel. My route was from Utica to Cape Vincent thence by steamer to Kingston, and from there along the north shore of the lake to Toronto and around to Niagara Falls. I arrived at Cape Vincent at 5 o'clock, having ridden against a strong head wind all day.

"After a delightful sail through the Thousand Islands, I stepped on shore in that quaint old city of Kingston. A slight shower had fallen and the streets were damp, so that wisdom would have dictated that I, leg-weary as I was, should have kept in doors, but so anxious was I to see the old city that I spent the whole evening in the streets.

"Five o'clock the next morning brought a very welcome discovery. I was lame in both ankles and knees. The head wind and the damp streets had proved an unfortunate combination. I gave, however, little thought to it, supposing it would wear off in a few hours, and the first flush of sunlight saw me speeding out the splendid road that leads toward Napanee.

"Night overtook me at a little village near Port Hope, but found me still lame. I rested the next day, and the next, but it was too late; the mischief was done. I rode a good many miles during the rest of the season, but never a day and seldom a mile without pain.

"The winter came and I put away my wheel, saying 'now I shall get well,' but to my disappointment I grew worse. Some days my knees almost forbade walking and my ankles would not permit me to wear shoes. At times I suffered severe pain, so severe as to make study a practical impossibility, yet it must be understood that I concealed the condition of affairs as far as possible.

"From being local the trouble began to spread slightly and my anxiety increased. I consulted two physicians and followed their excellent advice, but without result. So the winter passed. One day in March I happened to take in my hand a newspaper in which a good deal of space was taken by an article in relation to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did not at that time know what they were supposed to cure. I should have paid no attention to the article had I not caught the name of a lady whom I knew. Reading, I found that she, in similar circumstances, had been greatly benefited by the use of Pink Pills, and knowing her as I did I had no doubt of the truth of the statement that she had authorized.

The first box was not gone before I saw a change, and the third had been finished before all signs of my rheumatic troubles were gone to stay.

"I say 'gone to stay,' for though there has been every opportunity for a return of the trouble, I have not felt the first twinge of it. I have wheeled thousands of miles and never before with so little discomfort. I have had some of the most severe tests of strength and endurance, and have come through them without an ache. For example, one afternoon I rode seventy miles, preached that night and made fifty miles of the hardest kind of road before noon the next day. Another instance was a 'Century run,' the last forty miles of which were made in a down-pour of rain through mud and slush.

"You should think I would recommend them to others? Well, I have, and have had the pleasure of seeing very good results in a number of instances. Yes, I should feel that I was selecting a duty if I failed to suggest Pink Pills to any friend whom I knew to be suffering from rheumatism.

THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH IN WHITESBORO, OF WHICH REV. WM. FERGUSON IS PASTOR. "No, that is not the only disease they cure. I personally know of a number of cures from other troubles, but I have needed them only for that, though it would be better to add that my general health has been better this summer than ever before in my life.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are sold in boxes (never in loose form, by the dozen or hundred) at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists or directly by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.
