WHICH WAS THE SIN?

The story of the American girl, Clara Ward, who was sold to Prince Joseph Caraman Chimay, has something of the pathetic in it, after all. Dazzled by title, urged on by an ambitious and unscrupulous mother, the girl, protesting that she did not love the man, married him. She was warm-hearted, impulsive; he cold-blooded, cynical and heartless. The result was she left him. She left him openly, defying the world's opinion, to take up with a gypsy musician, ugly enough to stop a clock. One would think from his looks that she ran away with him as a penance for her marriage for title. And yet in speaking of her husband the other day she said with a pathos that would move even the heart of a title-worshipping American: "Yes, he was a kind man; but he was cold and indifferent. I longed to be with my children, to nurse them, to sleep with them, to make their lives a part of mine; but I was a princess and could only see them occasionally. I wanted love, and when I eloped I simply exchanged title for love."

And, again, when her lover wanted to give a grand concert to show that he was not dependent on her money for his support, she said, with fine scorn: "If a prince could marry me for my money, and live on it, why should a Gypsy be ashamed to do so?"

Her life has been wrecked, just as every girl's life must be wrecked that is sold in the matrimonial market. Others have made the best of a bad bargain; but Clara Ward was too high strung to submit and to wear her life away in company with a man she despised. She is an outcast socially, but it is an open question whether she is more of a sinner now than when she was living in legalized shame with her prince.

SUMPTUARY LAWS.

Now that the theater hat has been in some places sat down upon, as it were, other cranks are bobbing up with laws to regulate humanity's clothing. A Kansas woman wants a law passed forbidding the wearing of corsets, regardless of the fact that corsets are great economizers, restraining the American waist. And at the same time it is not beneficial to the American woman who "stays" at home? Another crank wants a tax levied on beards. This fellow is a barber, and evidently has designs on the Populists.

Sumptuary laws are always ridiculous, and the howl about the theater hat has gained a stentorian pitch by what it has fed upon, the condemnation of the fiends who go out between acts "to see a man," treading on everybody's toes, and straggling in after the curtain rises to the disgust and annoyance of everybody else. The theater hat is not a pleasant thing, but as far as we are concerned we prefer to look at the artistic headgear of our fair sisters, even though it cuts off, at times, a view of the stage, than to be walked all over by the man who goes out between acts to get a drink or smoke a cigarette.

FOR A PORTAGE RAILWAY.

Hon. John Michell, senator from this district, has introduced a bill in the senate, providing for the construction of a portage railway around the obstructions to navigation above this city. The bill appropriates $195,000 for the work. The bill is a good one, and ought to pass. It will give a reduced rate on all shipments of grain from interior points, and would save the cost of the road to the producers of Eastern Oregon every year. We know what the Regulator line did for The Dalles, saving this section $150,000 a year, and this became possible only through the building of the portage road at the Cascades.

The country to be benefited by the proposed road is immeasurably larger and the saving would be correspondingly great. The bill should have the unanimous support of every member of the legislature, and those from Eastern Oregon should bend all their energies to accomplish the passing of the measure.

We realize how hard times are; how ill the state can afford to expend its money; but if the needless commissions are abolished, enough can be saved from that source in two years to nearly build and equip the road. The saving to Sherman county alone at five cents per bushel on its wheat would amount yearly to from $60,000 to $75,000, and the other counties would swell this to at least the price of the road. Instead then of being a burden to the people it would prove just the reverse, and would leave money where it belongs, in the pockets of the farmers.

It is useless for the people of the state of Oregon to worry themselves about the legislature. That body may not be able to take care of itself, but the minority can be depended upon to perform that duty for it. That minority has taken the bits between its teeth, and is running away with the legislature hand wagon in fine shape. All that can be done is to let it run and gather up the wreck when the end comes. The wreck will be repaired in June, 1898, and the runaways will be left dead in the ditch.
