NOT GOOD ADVICE.

Rev. Dr. Rainsford, rector of the fashionable St. George's Protestant Episcopal church, has suggested to his wealthy parishioners that they do not attend the bal masque to be given by Mrs. Bradley Martin of New York, who has the reputation of being a lavish hostess. The clergyman basis his opposition on the ground that it is not proper for such a display of wealth to be made. That a large portion of the people are crying out against existing social conditions, and that ostentatious display only widens the breach between the classes and the masses. He says: "With want on every side; with discontent rife among the 'lower orders' of society, it would seem unwise to offer texts to demagogues and political extremists."

The Rev. gentleman is wise in his own conceit, conceived in his own wisdom. He realizes the unrest of the masses, but does not understand the difference between cause and effect. He fails to understand that the extravagance of the rich are a blessing to the poor. It is the means, and the only means in many cases, by which the money gathered by clipping coupons and collecting interest can be returned to the sources from whence it came. He does not understand that the "ostentatious display" is offensive to the struggling masses, not because of the display itself, but because of the circumstances that permit the gathering of the wealth that makes the ostentatious display possible. The bal masque would take thousands of dollars from those who have no particular need of them, and give them to those who have.

Rev. Rainsford, in giving the advice he did, simply undertook to add to this cause of the people's unrest by hiding the visible effects made forcible by the cause. He should encourage his parishioners to spend more of their money, and should set them an example by spending some of his own $15,000 salary. The people will stand the display as long as they gather in the shekels.

WHO ARE WHO?

"The gang clamoring for caucus at Salem is the very same gang that broke up caucus two years ago," is the editorial utterance of the Oregonian, to which the Salem States man replies:

An analysis of the facts will serve to show that the assertion is as false and baseless as the numerous others made by that paper recently. Five of the members who were representatives in 1895 and who were elected as Republicans to the present house, are found constantly present and working for organization and for the caucus. Of these, three—Bridges, Conn and David—supported Mr. Dolph and the caucus two years ago, while two—Gardane and Hope—were in opposition to Mr. Dolph. Three members—Barkley, Craig and Guild—who were Republican members in 1895, opposed Dolph and the caucus then, and they all oppose organization and the caucus now, though the first two were elected as Mitchell Republicans last June, and could not have been nominated or elected under any other name. These are reinforced in opposition to caucus and organization by Davis of Umatilla, who voted for Dolph and caucus until he was influenced by a legislative scheme in which he was personally interested, to abandon his choice and go over to the opposition. A further reinforcement is found in the solid Populist phalanx, which stood just as solid in the same line two years ago; also the united Democracy, in similar position, and the Simon-Oregonian few Republicans who were not here two years ago to be counted. In the senate there are but two men standing for caucus and organization now who were not for

Dolph and caucus two years ago—Johnson and McClung—while there are nine—Brownell, Calbreath, Garter, Dawson, Gesner, Gowin, Hobson, Patterson of Marion, and Price—who stand exactly as they stood then, for majority rule and the integrity of the Republican party. In this connection there is no hope of bringing the Oregonian to a sense of its unfairness, but simply a desire to have the public know the truth.

Since the Statesman published the above, two of the Democrats have joined the Benson house. Otherwise the statement is correct.

It begins to look as though our sheepmen will have to seek pastures for their flocks outside of the Cascade forest reserve. The legislature is taking no action, and the time is passing away. Congress adjourns in less than six weeks, and unless something is done at once, the matter will go over until December, or at least until a special session is called, and that will be too late to accomplish anything this year.

The fight in Salem has again reverted to the same conditions as existed in June. It is again 16 to 1.

A Cure for Lame Back.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Loudon Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.

The progressive ladies of Westfield, Ind., issued a "Woman's Edition" of the Westfield News, bearing date of April 3, 1896. The paper is filled with matter of interest to women, and we notice the following from a correspondent, which the editors printed, realizing that it treats upon a matter of vital importance to their sex: "The best remedy for croup, colds and bronchitis that I have been able to find is Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. For family use it has no equal. I gladly recommend it." 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

CHAMBERLAIN'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; 10 cents per box. Sold by ELY BROTHERS, 65 Warren St., New York City.
