Run Down by a Train.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., Jan. 27.—Five men were killed this afternoon by a freight train near East Norwalk station. It is supposed that while walking upon track they stepped from in front of the express train directly in front of the freight.

The dead are: James Powers, section foreman; John Griffin, John Shea, Spieen, and unknown man. All were instantly killed except Shea, who survived five minutes.

The men were engaged under the direction of Foreman Powers in work upon the road bed, and stepped from one track to avoid the approaching express, to another upon which the freight was bearing down.

Mercury Dropped Again.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—The temperature in Chicago registered 2 deg. below zero at 11 a. m., a drop of 1 deg. since 2 a. m., when the highest point was reached.

The signal service states the temperature will probably remain about zero mark the rest of the week. A fine snow is falling.

The work of relieving the destitute is still being actively carried on and contributions of money, coal and provisions are pouring in. Warehouses for the distribution of supplies have been opened in various parts of the city to expediate the work.

He Gave Himself Up.

St. Louis, Jan. 27.—A shabbily dressed laboring man, about 35 years of age, entered the office of Chief of Detectives Desmond at police headquarters and stated that he had come to give himself up. He was escorted to an inner room, and while talking to a detective the stranger thrust a penknife blade into his throat, severing the jugular vein and died in a few minutes.

He told Desmond his name was James Kelly, but refused to say where he lived. He was 5 feet 6 inches tall, dark hair and blonde mustache.

Old People.

Old People who require medicine to regulate the bowels and kidneys will find the true remedy in Electric Bitters. This medicine does not stimulate and contains no whiskey nor other intoxicant, but acts as a tonic and alternative. It acts mildly on the stomach and bowels, adding strength and giving tone to the organs, thereby aiding Nature in the performance of the functions. Electric Bitters is an excellent appetizer and aids digestion. Old People find it just exactly what they need. Price fifty cents and $1.00 per bottle a Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store.

Found Dead in His Bed.

M'INNVILLE, Or., Jan. 27.—W. H. Smith, who lived about two miles east of Amity, was found dead in his bed yesterday morning by neighbors. His death was the result of heart disease, and the coroner's jury so found. The old man had built the morning fire and evidently returned to bed, as the fire was still burning in the stove when those who found him entered the house. Smith was a bachelor, and lived on a little patch of ground for several years past. He was about 60 years of age, and an eccentric character.

M. Crevreuil, being about to leave the city, offers his fine stock of artificial flowers, plants, etc., at greatly reduced prices. Rooms in Masonic building. dec31-tf

Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for catarrh and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.

Remarkable Sale of Hogs.

For high prices no sale of hogs ever made in the United States, according to reports, was equal to the one held last week by stockraiser—Council of Williamsville, at the Illinois State Fair grounds, Springfield. The sale was confined to thoroughbred Poland China stock, 40 head bringing over ten thousand dollars. The lowest price received for a single animal was $110, and the highest $750. This sale means a great deal for hog raisers. Home values at public sales are also more satisfactory. Six to eight dollars per hundred seems to be the rule for common stock hogs.

Senator Palmer's Prophecy.

St. Louis, Jan. 27.—A special to the Republic from Washington says: "The two wings of the two old parties will, in my judgment, be united in the next campaign," said Senator Palmer today. "The sound-money Democrats and the sound-money Republicans will form one, and the silver Democrats and silver Republicans will constitute another party."

"When the official harness is removed from me," he continued, "I will resume the practice of law at my home in Springfield."

A Cure for Lame Back.

"My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips," writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. "After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief." Chamberlain's Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.

THE FLOWERS OF THE TREE.

Need to Stoop to No Tricks for the Scattering of Pollen.

It has come about that the lowly plants, unable to secure their ends by fair words, have had recourse to guile—to tempt the insects by velvety textures of rich color widely spread, by exhaling sweet and powerful odors, by offering nectar, and finally by devising artful appliances, whereby an insect can be loaded with pollen without his knowledge what time he is imbibing the seductive nectar. Some have gone a step lower, and because they could not afford to produce so brilliant a display as other plants, have set to work to press the vulgar carriage-living flies into their service by developing petals of a livid purple hue, and giving forth a putrid odor. Faugh! Shall hearts of oak and beech and ash stoop to such tricks?

The forest tree, says Good Words, has a hundred or a thousand years to live, and exhibits no precocious anxiety to produce fruit. At 15, 20 or 30 years is time enough to think of such things; and when the time comes the delicate essential organs are protected merely by a few simple green or yellow scales, or by none at all. The pollen is lavishly produced, for the wind is not so precise a vehicle of transmission as the insect, and but a very small percentage of the pollen grains will reach their destination. This, however, is of little consequence, for an impatient seed needs but one pollen grain to fertilize it, and should a hundred fall upon it, 99 would be superfluous.

Poisonous Cooking Utensils.

The subject of pure food has long been a pet theme of legislators, and I admit that the discussions on the subject have done a great deal of good. I believe, however, that pure and wholesome utensils in which to cook the food are of more importance than the food itself. Only those who are familiar with the affairs of large kitchens are aware of the eternal vigilance which prevents the formation of chemical poisons in culinary utensils. Is there the same watchfulness in the kitchens of cheap eating houses? I trust the day is not far distant when rigorous laws will be passed compelling boards of health to inspect the cooking utensils of every establishment in which food is served to the public. My first inspection of the kitchen of the restaurants at the national capitol made me shudder. One of the utensils which was in daily use was so covered with verdigris that the original color of the metal could not be seen. The utensil was a steam-heated cyster stew pan. The hands even of the colored attendant were stained green from contact with the pan. I questioned the servant, and she told me that I was the first person to complain to her about the condition of the pan. She went on to say that she "could not wash the 'green stuff' off her hands."—Twentieth Century Cooking.

Stuffed Cucumbers.

Cut the cucumber into halves and remove the seeds. Boil four tablespoonsful of rice for 30 minutes; drain, and add to it an equal quantity of chopped meat. Peel two tomatoes, cut into halves and press out the seeds; cut them into small pieces, mix with the other ingredients; add a half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Place this mixture into the cavity from which the seeds were taken; put the halves together, bind the cucumbers into shape with a piece of twine and stand in a baking pan; add half a cup of water; bake slowly for one hour, basting four or five times. These may also be baked by stuffing the mixture into the space from which the seeds were taken, and baking in the halves.—Boston Globe.

CURED OF PARALYSIS

Carlos F. Shepard, a Member of the Indianapolis Board of Trade, is About Once More.

A Case of Weighty Interest to Anyone Suffering With Nervous Complaints, for the Patient was Cured by "Feeding" the Nerves. This is a New Term in Medicine.

One of the best known men about the Indianapolis Board of Trade is Carlos F. Shepard, who for several years has been connected with the house of H. E. Kinney, grain broker. Mr. Shepard is a bluff, hearty, old gentleman of medium height, gray-headed and with a mustache like a French veteran. He is a man of very decided views on all subjects and is especially orthodox in politics and medicine. Notwithstanding his firmness in his convictions and the vigor with which he maintains them he is a man of many friends for many men, even though sometimes obstinate in their opinions, have the force of character that win admiration and friendship.

So a few months ago when the news came to his old associates on the Board of Trade that Mr. Shepard had received a stroke of paralysis and that the probabilities were that his days of usefulness were over, and that perhaps, his hours were numbered, the deep sympathy went out to the smitten man and his family. It seemed to all his friends almost impossible that this rugged old man, always so wholesomely hearty and cheerful, always a picture of health for HIS CHEEKS WERE LIKE THE ROSE IN THE SNOW, could have been so suddenly laid low. But it was true and many weeks passed before his well-known form and kindly face returned to his former business haunts. His re-appearance was made the occasion of a hearty welcome and the story of his illness and recovery is well worth the telling.
