THE BEAN AUTOMATIC SPRAY PUMP.

Is, unquestionably, the most successful and perfect working Spraying Device yet invented.

It is a universal testimony that more, as well as better, work can be accomplished with the Bean Spray Pump than with any other pump on the market.

With this pump one man can charge the receptacle and leave it to direct the spray just where it is wanted, and thus with sufficient hose pass from tree to tree. The solution is delivered in a fine mist or spray, penetrating every nook and corner, thus doing better and more effective work than is possible by any other method, and with no waste whatever of solution.

For further particulars see special circular or call upon or correspond with.

Weather Forecast.

PORTLAND, Jan. 29, 1897.
FOR EASTERN OREGON—Tonight and tomorrow, snow and warmer.

PAGE: Observer.

WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

A telephone message from the Locks at 9:30 this morning stated the Regulator was at that time on her way through the locks.

President Penrose and Judge Lowell have exchanged dates for their lectures here, the former lecturing Feb. 2d and the latter Feb. 16th.

Miss Jessie Butler is very low with typhoid fever. In response to telegrams her sister, Nellie, who is teaching in Portland, came home last night, and today her sister, Mrs. Dysart, and her husband arrived from Centralia, Wash.

Snow commenced falling last night about dusk, and for a little while came down at a rapid rate. About six inches fell during the night. The east-bound passenger was three-quarters of an hour late, caused by drifting snow at Bridal Veil.

The sound of the sleigh bells has been continuous all day, and will probably be kept up until a late hour tonight. The weather clerk tells us it will not last long, and while it may be more snow tonight, it is also possible that there will be rain, instead.

It will no doubt greatly please the many admirers of Miss Gladys M. Jones and Miss Harriet Stevens of Portland, to learn that these young ladies, who so captivated their Dalles audience in the musical recital given here about a year ago, will be in our city and give an entertainment in the Congregational church Tuesday, Feb. 9th.

Jim Wesley, an Indian who is, or was well known by all old residents here, died Wednesday at his home on the other side of Mill creek. He had been at a dance the night before, and came home apparently all right, but immediately threw himself down on his blankets and in half an hour was dead. It is supposed he over-exerted himself, a thing an Indian is likely to do—only at a dance.

The funeral of the late J. E. Graham will take place tomorrow morning from the Crandall & Burget undertaking rooms at 10 o'clock, and will be conducted by the Knights of Pythias, of which order he was a member. All Knights are requested to be at the lodge room promptly at 9 o'clock to assist in the funeral ceremonies. Arrangements have been made for conveyances to the cemetery.

The dedication of the new Christian church at Heppner, Or., has been postponed from Jan. 31st to Feb. 7th. Rev. W. F. Cowden of Tacoma, Wash., will preach the dedicatory sermon. A cordial invitation is extended by the church at Heppner to their friends from a distance to join them in the worship of the Lord on the occasion. Elder J. W. Jenkins has secured a $5.80 rate from The Dalles and return, providing ten or more persons will go.

Mr. Gray, who had the contract for erecting the buildings at Warm Springs, has completed his work and arrived in town yesterday. Inspector Lane, who was here a short time ago, was enthusiastic in his commendation of affairs at Warm Springs. He pronounced their schools the finest of the kind in the United States, not even excepting the famous one at Carlisle, Pennsylvania. Mr. Cowan, the new agent, is a thorough and competent business man, and has everything systematized and running on business principles.

WAPINITSA, THE BAD INDIAN.

How He Became a Frog, and What Came of Him.

The Warm Springs Indians have a legend concerning Wapinitza, which translated means "the frog that lived in a hole." The story was that many years ago there was a bad Indian who found a hole out in the dry country east of the Warm Springs, and in this hole was a spring of clear, cold water. One hot day a number of the tribe were caught out in this section, and by an accident had lost the supply of water they had brought with them. Wapinitza, the bad Indian, was with them. Instead of showing his people where the water was, he told them of it and only consented to show them the place upon their promising each to give him a horse. Driven by thirst, they acceded to his demands and in a short time he led them to the hole. It was about four feet across, nearly round, in fact a natural well, the water rising to within about four feet of the top. The thirsty Indians gathered round it, and soon drew out water enough to satisfy their thirst. When this was done, they looked in vain for Wapinitza. He had vanished, but near the hole where but a few moments before he had stood was an immense frog, that hopped toward them with a dismal croak. It was the former Wapinitza, whom the Great Spirit had changed to a frog and sentenced him to live forever in the hole, where he had taken advantage of his people's necessities, to obtain their horses. The Indians mounted their ponies and left the spot, nor will any of them go near it even to this day.

Of course, whitemen pay no attention to these strange old Indian superstitions, and a few years ago, when O. L. Paquet and another man wandered out into the same section, and came across a natural well with the water rising to within four feet of the surface, they did not stop to think of any old Indian legends, but being thirsty began to devise some means by which they could get a drink. They had nothing with them that they could dip the water with, but water they were determined to have. So Paquet held his friend by the legs, letting his head down into the water. After his thirst was satisfied, Paquet pulled him out, and he proceeded to perform the same kind offices for Paquet. He had scarcely lowered him into the well, when with a mournful croak a tremendous frog hopped from behind a big rock, and with a second croak plunged head foremost into the hole. He was so large that he wedged Paquet between himself and the side of the hole, forcing the former's head under the water. For a moment there was a violent struggle, as the frog tried to squeeze by, and then the man's hold gave way and Paquet and the frog had the hole to themselves. The man was horrified, but the water rose to the top of the hole, boiling violently and showing a tremendous struggle was going on below. After what seemed an interminable time, and when the survivor had given up all hope, Paquet's head suddenly bobbed up and his friend pulled him out. The frog had finally forced itself by him with his assistance and his size can be imagined when it is considered that his entering the water had raised it four feet.

The Indians being told of the circumstance, say it was surely Wapinitza, who even yet retains his selfish disposition and did not want the white men to get his water.

This may sound like a large frog story but O. L. Paquet, who resides at Wapinitza, is still alive and can vouch for the truth of this tale.

Important School Meeting.

The school meeting tomorrow is a very important one, and every taxpayer should attend it. We print elsewhere the assignment of teachers showing the number or pupils in each room, the lowest being 39, and the highest 108. The amount of assessable property in the district at the assessors valuation is $1,193,161. It is proposed to levy a tax of 6 mills which would give $7,158. The district receives from the county and state $4000, about. It takes to run the schools, including the employment of another teacher, which is now absolutely necessary, about $11,000, so that a six mill tax would just run the schools. The district owes $7,000, and it is proposed to provide for this by bonding the district.

The directors have had estimates made as to the cost of putting up an eight roomed brick, west of the present brick. This would cost finished, $8000, and furnished, about $11,000. The proposition will perhaps be submitted to bond the district for an amount sufficient to cover the indebtedness, and to put up an furnish the brick building. The directors will be at the brick schoolhouse shortly after 1 o'clock tomorrow, to explain the situation. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 2 o'clock.

Last Night's Dancing Party.

A dancing party was given in honor of Miss Pearl Williams last night at Fraternity hall. As this is the first party which has been given in what was formerly the scene of the club dances for some time, it was doubly enjoyable, and all felt at home. The snow making it too disagreeable for walking, sleighs were procured to convey the dancers to and from the hall, where the hours from 9:30 to 12:30 were most pleasantly passed keeping time to the music furnished by Prof. Birgfeld and Miss Schmidt.

Those who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. French, Judge and Mrs. Bradshaw, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Blakeley, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. M. Briggs, Mr. and Mrs. M. Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. F. Van Norden, Misses Pearl Williams, Beulah Patterson, Virginia Marden, Ione Ruch, Mattie and Mamie Cushing, Maybel Mack, Etta Story, Eva Heppner, Minnie Lay, Clara Davis, Georgia Sampson, Messrs. C. Lord, G. Mays, V. Marden, J. Weigle, G. A. Clarke, C. Clarke, H. H. Riddell, J. Bonn, A. McCully, F.

Something to Depend On.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store, and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home, and to the surprise of all she began to get better from the first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at Blakeley & Houghton's Drug Store. (3)

G. D. Woodworth of Hood River was in the city today.

James and George McMillan came down from Wasco yesterday and went to Portland this morning.

Mr. D. Graham came up from Ashland last night to attend the funeral of his brother, the late J. E. Graham, which takes place tomorrow.

W. H. Street, editor of the Pacific Elk (the only pacific one known) was in the city today. He attended the proceedings at Heppner, and stopped here on his way home.
