TWO OF A KIND.

Yesterday George Turner was elected senator from Washington and Dubois was defeated for reelection in Idaho. Idaho is put one term ahead of Washington in this respect. Dubois and Turner are of the same class. Each came to the coast with a federal appointment in his pocket. Each had been a carpet-bag politician in the South, appointed to office there at the close of the war, and each had pull enough to get an appointment on the coast when they realized that the reconstruction of the South would not let them ride into office. Dubois was appointed United States marshal for Idaho; Turner one of the territorial judges of Washington. Each is dark skinned, black eyed and black haired; Dubois looking like a Spaniard, Turner much like a negro. Each traded off what little political principles they had for the sake of office, and each got a United States senatorship.

The Populists of Washington dealt themselves a body blow when they, the great reformers, picked up this political shyster, Turner, and gave him their indorsement. Better for them had they followed the lead of their brethren in Idaho. They elected a farmer, Henry Heitfeld, a man of little education and small abilities, but presumably honest, and a Populist from conviction, not from a desire to get office.

When the Populist party takes up such political mountebanks as Turner, the honest men who have looked to that party for a purification of the political pool, with either return to their first political love, or failing in that, take through the woods.

The situation at Salem is taking a slight turn for the better. The indications are now that one of two things will happen. Either the Benson house and a majority of the senate will meet and elect a senator Tuesday, or the hold-outs will come in Monday, the present organization of the house will be set aside and a full house organized. The Benson men have intimated that they will not object to this arrangement, and it is possible that it may be made. If it is not, it is quite certain that the first proposition will be tried. It depends somewhat on whether Carter or Brownell recover sufficiently to take their places in the senate. If they do, there will be a clean majority in the senate in favor of recognition of the house, and the program suggested will be carried out.

The senatorial muddles in so many states emphasize the necessity of electing our senators by popular vote. Under the present system legislation is held up, and at least half the time through political manipulation the man the people want is set aside, and the man they do not want is elected. There is no more reason for electing a senator by the legislature than there would be for electing all our state officers the same way. The people are abundantly able to elect their own senators, and the quicker the change is made the better. Now everything else is set aside, while at an expense of thousands of dollars a day, the legislature wrangles over the election of a senator, whom the people would be, and are, better qualified to elect.

Senator Mitchell's bill for a portage road from this point to Celilo ought to pass. It will save Eastern Oregon hundreds of thousands of dollars while the boat railway is being constructed; and more than that, it will prove an important factor in causing the development of the resources of that part of the state east of the Cascades. The money will all come back to the state, and it can be considered only a loan.

There was quite a flurry in the wheat market at San Francisco yesterday, prices tumbling rapidly; but they soon recovered and reached a point almost equal to opening prices. It was entirely a speculative fluctuation market, crop reports having nothing to do with it. The crop reports from the southern hemisphere show a shortage and render certain the continuation of good prices for the coming crop of this country.

The Oregonian says that Mitchell is dead, but is a man of wonderful vitality and unlimited resources. A dead man with wonderful vitality is certainly deserving of a place in the senate. Most of the other senators are just plain, every day dead men.

MOVING SALES RENTED.
Novel Business Built Up by an Enterprising Dealer in Old Clothes.

Persons who are forced to undergo a sudden change of clothing because of the death of relatives, and who haven't the ready money to buy outright an entire outfit of black for brief use, have found a welcome assistance in their embarrassment in a man whose business is obscure, comparatively, and of recent origin, but who has an active trade.

The office of this man has a funeral aspect, filled as it is with heaps of somber garments, but its proprietor is anything but grave. He was, until lately, a dealer in old clothes, and was dismayed at the amount of competition. Everybody seemed to him to be dealing in that commodity. A friend, short of cash, whose father died, borrowed a mourning outfit from him one day, paying a small sum for the loan. This transaction suggested to the dealer the idea of hiring out mourning dress as a business. He tried it, and soon found his peculiar trade well patronized.

He began to read death notices in the newspapers, and to send his agents to visit those whom he considered were not in extra good circumstances. Seven agents now act for him, being paid in commissions. Each has a regular circuit of streets marked out for his canvass.

MAKING HAIRPINS.
The Process of Manufacture—Close Attention is Necessary.

For ages, says the Chicago Chronicle, the English and French controlled the manufacture of hairpins, and it is only within the last few years that the goods have been produced in other countries in any extent. The machinery used is of a delicate and intricate character, and the price at which the pins are sold necessitates the cheapest and most rapid process, which can only be produced by automatic machines. The wire is made expressly for this purpose and put up in large coils, which are also in a chain and are carried to the machines by a belt and pulley system. The machines are made, and by a delicate and intricate process, and sharpen the points. Running at full speed, it will turn out 120 hairpins every minute. To economize, it is necessary to keep the engine going day and night. The difficult part of the work is in the annealing, which is done by dipping the pins in a preparation and heating in an oven. It is here that the most constant and careful attention is required, as the pins must be absolutely smooth and the enamel have a perfect polish. The slightest particle of dust causes imperfections and spoils the work.
