JOINT BID FOR THE O. R. & N.

Great Northern and Northern Pacific Seek to Control the Road.

New York, Feb. 2.—A special cablegram from Frankfort-on-the-Main to the Evening Post says that the Berlin committee of holders of Oregon Railway & Navigation Company 5 per cent bonds have received a joint bid of 45 from the Northern Pacific and Great Northern railroad companies for all the stock of the Railway & Navigation Company represented by them, the purchase price to be payable July 1, with 3 per cent interest.

The bid is conditional on its acceptance by at least $3,000,000 of stock.

It is understood the Union Pacific will also become interested later in the purchase. The committee recommended acceptance to the bondholders.

Members of the old Oregon Railway & Navigation Company in this city said they knew an announcement had been made by the Berlin committee, but that that announcement was they did not know, until they saw the above dispatch. They pointed out that the $3,000,000 stock mentioned therein had not been issued to the committee, and that that amount would not be sufficient to control the company. The company, they said, was doing business with the three transcontinental companies, viz: The Northern Pacific, and the Great Northern, and, of course, a management of the company in harmony with those three railroad corporations would be desirable.

Members of the Northern Pacific syndicate said today that they did not know who were the purchasers of the large block of securities of that company held by the syndicate, which has been sold by J. P. Morgan. They expect to close up the whole business of the syndicate in two or three days. The members this morning received notice from the manager calling upon them to turn in their pro rata share of $100,000 shares of Northern Pacific common and 5,000 shares of preferred stock.

A Cure for Lame Back.—“My daughter, when recovering from an attack of fever, was a great sufferer from pain in the back and hips,” writes Louden Grover, of Sardis, Ky. “After using quite a number of remedies without any benefit she tried one bottle of Chamberlain’s Pain Balm, and it has given entire relief.” Chamberlain’s Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.

A few months ago, Mr. Byron Every, of Woodstock, Mich., was badly afflicted with rheumatism. His right leg was swollen the full length, causing him great suffering. He was advised to try Chamberlain’s Pain Balm. The first bottle of it helped him considerably and the second bottle effected a cure. The 25 and 50 cent sizes are for sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

Save Your Grain.

Few realize that each squirrel destroys $1.50 worth of grain annually. Wakelee’s Squirrel and Gopher Extinction is the most effective and economical poison known. Price reduced to 30 cents. For sale by M. Z. Donnell, Agent, febl-3m.

Cash in Your Checks.

All county warrants registered prior to July 12, 1892, will be paid at my office. Interest ceases after Dec. 5, 1892. C. L. PHILLIPS, County Treasurer.

I have given Chamberlain’s Cough Remedy a fair test and consider it one of the very best remedies for croup that I have ever found. One dose has always been sufficient, although I use it freely. Any cold my children contract yields very readily to this medicine. I can conscientiously recommend it for croup and colds in children—Geo. E. Wolff, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Ferdinand, Fla. Sold by Blakeley & Houghton.

Teachers’ Examination.

Notice is hereby given, that for the purpose of making an examination of all persons who may offer themselves as candidates for teachers of the schools of this county, the county school superintendent thereof, will hold a public examination at the county court house in Dalles city, beginning Wednesday, February 10, at 1 o’clock p. m. Dated this 30th day of January, 1897. C. L. GILBERT, School Supt.

This Is Your Opportunity.

On receipt of ten cents, cash or stamps, a generous sample will be mailed of the most popular Catarrh and Hay Fever Cure (Ely’s Cream Balm) sufficient to demonstrate the great merits of the remedy. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

Rev. John Reid, Jr., of Great Falls, Mont., recommended Ely’s Cream Balm to me. I can emphasize his statement, “It is a positive cure for catarrh if used as directed.”—Rev. Francis W. Poole, Pastor Central Presb. Church, Helena, Mont.

Ely’s Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for catarrh and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents. Call and see it. jan25 2w

THE “FUNNY MAN.”

He Had Been a Boy and Hadn’t Forgotten It.

We call him the funny man because he was sad and serious, and said little but gazed right into our souls and made us tell him just what was in our minds at the time, and then came out with some magnificently luminous suggestion that cleared every cloud away, says Scribner’s. What was more, he would then go off with us at once and play the right thing out to its finish, earnestly and devotedly, putting all other things aside. So we called him the funny man, meaning only that he was different from those others who thought it incumbent on them to play the painful mummer. The idea as opposed to the real man was what we meant, only we were not acquainted with the phrase. Those others, with their labored jests and clumsy contortions, doubtless flattered themselves that they were funny men; we, who had to sit through and applaud the painful performances, knew better.

NEW SCHOOL FOR MONKEYS.

They Will Be Trained for Domestic Servants.

There has just been founded at Calcutta an institution for the education of monkeys, says an exchange. A young monkey is taken and before him is placed a set of blocks on which are painted in capitals the letters of the alphabet. These blocks are, in fact, exactly similar to those which children play with in every civilized country in the world, and they are used in precisely the same way as if the monkey were a young specimen of the human race. There is one professor for each monkey, and the monkey is taught by means of the blocks to spell certain words. If the word is “fruit,” for example, the monkey, after having been taught to arrange the blocks so as to spell the word quickly and without error, receives a bit of fruit as his reward. The same exercise is repeated with other words; and it is hoped that in time the simians will learn how to read and spell and understand English. If they cannot speak it, an effort will also be made, it is said, to educate these beasts so that they may become fairly efficient domestic servants. The school is so young as yet, however, that what it will accomplish is entirely a matter of speculation. Its “professors” are enthusiastic about their novel work and seem to think that a new field of usefulness will be opened up for these chattering little beasts.

ANY OLD PLACE WOULD DO.

He Couldn’t Spell Osawatomi Nor Could the Stenographer.

A short man, with red whiskers, shambling gait, and the remains of a jag, wandered into the Midland the other evening, and asked for a typewriter’s studio, says the Kansas City Journal. He lives in Kansas, not far from Topeka, and had been here attending the football games. Luck had walked on the same side of the street with him in the matter of bets, and he wanted to stay another week. But his wife expected him home, so he was in search of a typewriter to send home a letter to serve as an apology for his nonappearance. “Kansas City, this date, ’96,” he muttered to the typewriterist. “I have that.” “My dear wife,” “Yes.” “Very important business will require my presence in Osawatomi for a few days—” “Let’s see,” interrupted the artist. “How do you spell that Osawatomi?” “Spell it yourself. It’s your typewriter.” “I can’t.” “Can’t spell Osawatomi?” he asked in disgust. “No.” “Then I’ll go to Fort Scott.”

WHITE HOUSE ETIQUETTE.

Rules That Are Strictly Observed by the President’s Family.

When the president and his wife drive out, the president sits on the right hand seat and his wife on the left, says the Illustrated American.

If there are others in the carriage, whether ladies or gentlemen, they must sit with their backs to the horses. When Mrs. Cleveland was first married she tried the experiment of placing her mother opposite the president and herself in the presidential landau, but the people laughed at it so immoderately and professed to think Mrs. Folsom (as she was then) to be the maid, that she was speedily dropped. When the president’s wife drives alone, she sits in the right-hand corner—the place of honor.

The lady of the white house cannot set foot within those splendid houses in Washington whose flagstaffs mark the foreign embassy or legation. She could not go without the president, and as an embassy or legation is technically a part of the country it represents, the president could not go — so that she never sees the inside of a diplomatic house as long as she presides at the executive mansion. The president dines only at cabinet houses, and his wife cannot dine anywhere without him. President Arthur dined with Judges of the supreme court and with senators—but as he had no wife the whole system was very much simplified for him. The president’s wife may, if she chooses, go to luncheons where there are no gentlemen, or to teas, both being regarded as strictly informal; but the danger of giving offense by accepting one invitation and declining another is so great that it is seldom or never risked.

TIMES CHANGE.

She Thought the Case Required Heroic Treatment.

They had been married less than a year when she noticed that her husband stayed out late at nights and when he did come home was apt to be noisy and demonstrative, says the Detroit Free Press. On his part William observed that he could never find a knife to cut a bite to eat, and that even the family shears were out of reach, while his rapiers at such times were locked up and the key hidden.

He did not say much, because he was not in a condition to talk, and when he was sober he did not care to refer to the past.

But he grew worse instead of better, and one night he went home at a late hour and found the hall brilliantly lighted and on the table under the gas an assortment of all the cutlery in the house. Knives, scissors and razors alluringly open met his unsteady gaze.

“M-M-Mary,” he called, “w-w-what does t-this mean?” “It means,” she answered, from the top of the staircase, “that ever since you’ve been cutting up in this manner I’ve been afraid you would do as you threatened to do—kill yourself with some of those things.” “Y-y-yes, Mary.”

“Now I’m beginning to be more afraid that you won’t, so I thought I’d give you every possible chance.”

There was a sound of cutlery by night, mingled with forcible though unsteady words, and William has remained at home every evening up to date.

THE BED OF BEDS.

Pleasures of the Couch Made of Bongas in Camps in the Woods.

There are beds and beds, but none is so comfortable, so restful, or so interesting as that which the hunter, fisherman, or plain camper-out makes for himself from the boughs of evergreen trees in the forests of Maine, Canada, or any of the other great hunting regions along the northern border. This bed, made of short trimmings of twigs from the spruce, cedar, hemlock or balsam, or all four together, consists entirely of the “feathers” of the trees, the six-inch outshoots from branches, with the plume end up, laid against a prostrate two-inch sapling, so that the head may have a pillow. As the twigs stand nearly erect the bed is four or five inches deep, and a blanket spread over it yields and springs back as one rolls over it. The bed, wide in proportion to the number of persons to use it, and seven feet long, is as fluffy as a haymow, and gives forth a scent that soothes and heals one’s senses and body.

But the bough bed is getting less and less used. Hotels and fancy cottage camps with spring beds and linen sheets are slowly superseding the old-style hunter’s bed because of the difficulty and bother of getting a new bed every trip. It will be a long time, however, before balsam bough pillows cease to be used in even the most aristocratic of hunters’ lodges.

A Snap Shot.

A little child often not only leads, but amuses by original descriptions of ordinary events. Says the Pittsburgh Chronicle: A judge’s little daughter, who had attended her father’s court for the first time, was very much interested in the proceedings. After her return home she told her mother: “Papa made a speech, and several other men made speeches, to 12 men who sat all together, and then these 12 men were put in a dark chamber to be developed.”

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall’s Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.
