The sun shone brightly today, reminding one of the style of weather we used to have, before the opening of the locks at the Cascades let the webfoot weather through. It is the fifth sunshiny day of the winter.

The management of the entertainment, Evenings with Dickens, has secured the Vogt for the 25th and 26th of this month. Rehearsals are of nightly occurrence, and a pleasant entertainment will undoubtedly result.

The sun shone brightly this morning, just long enough to induce us to note this fact, and pat the weather clerk on the back. Then it turned cold and cloudy and altogether disagreeable. There are only two kinds of weather this winter; bad and worse.

Sheriff Driver left for Salem this morning, having Hawthorne in charge, the latter having been pronounced insane, and being taken to the asylum. Hawthorne seems to be entirely broken down physically, and his stay in asylum will probably not be a long one.

The citizens of Prineville and vicinity have arranged for a big rabbit drive to take place on the 25th, on the flats near that city. Big corrals have been built and long wings constructed. It is expected that not less than 5,000 rabbits will be caught in the drive.

At a meeting of the Salem ministerial union the following resolution was adopted by that body: "Resolved, That we, the members of the ministerial association of Salem, Oregon, refuse to pray in either the senate or house chambers until the legislature is unitedly at work"

Four raccoons that were captured near Starkey, have attracted considerable attention from old timers during the past few days. So far as known these are the first 'coons ever captured in this section. It was generally supposed that none of them had reached this part of the universe.—Union Republican.

A gentleman named Graham arrived here from Chicago a day or so since, for the purpose of purchasing horses for the Chicago market. He can probably find all he wants in this, Sherman and Crook counties. If not, he can get a supply just a little further east that will fill Chicago and have a wholesome effect on the ranges here.

A prominent church member of Pendleton has headed a subscription list with $5 for the relief of Jim Hemsworth, the Rossland miner who saved the lives of his two companions by thrusting his arm into the cogs of a rapidly turning windlass, and in that way prevented a heavy bucket of ore from falling on the head of his companions in the shaft below.

A touch of humor in a paragraph is as enlivening as a dash of brandy in a glass of soda. An Alabama editor fired two bullets into an unwelcome caller, and in mentioning the occurrence referred to his victim as a double leaded article. When the latter learned what the editor had called him, he was so tickled that he wrote from the hospital, enclosing a year's subscription in advance.

Hon. Stephen A. Lowell arrived this morning from Pendleton, accompanied by his wife, and will deliver a lecture at the Congregational church this evening. Mr. Lowell is one of Eastern Oregon's most prominent citizens, and one of its finest speakers. Our people should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him, and can rest assured that they will have a literary treat.

A cougar visited the sheep camp of J. F. Circle, on the riverbed, about fifteen miles west of Prineville, recently. The band broke camp and the next morning the sheep were scattered all over the country. Mr. Circle found twenty-one carcasses, and although it has been about a week since it happened he is out about ninety head more. Mr. Circle says that his sheep are doing well, and unless we have a very severe winter he will not have to feed any.

Sunday evening at the Methodist church the anniversary meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society was held. Miss Foster, the missionary who was expected to address the meeting, was detained on account of ill health; but a very interesting paper on the "Work in Singapore," written by her, was read by Mrs. Smith French. Miss Deming sang a very pretty solo and Miss Mabel Cross gave a missionary recitation, which was well rendered, after which Mrs. J. R. Warner spoke in the most energetic and feeling manner on the work of the society. She is an exceptionally good speaker, and a thorough elocutionist.

Those Men Folks.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Gook Intent Society, at the M. E. church, will be given Friday evening. The cooking is to be done entirely by the men, so the refreshments served will be first-class. We met Mr. Parrot this morning on his usual trip to the river with his day-before-yesterday cake, and he had a smile on him that was simply silky. He told us gleefully that the last cake he baked had only sagged about two inches, and that he felt sure by Friday he could bake one that would lift the back lids off the stove.

Last week the entertainment was postponed because the clams ordered for the occasion could not be procured, but they are now ripe. We want to warn our readers in advance against Parrot's cake, for he is desperate in spite of his winning smiles, and has the middle of his baking pan raised like an inverted funnel. He is going to keep up the middle of his cake if he has to put props under it. Some of the others are wrestling with culinary problems, and the rehearsals are said to be intensely interesting.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Attorney J. B. Hosford of Moro, is in city, looking after business in the land office.

Mr. W. H. Biggs went to Wasco this morning to see about delivering a lot of hogs he has sold.

Captains J. W. Shaver and O. W. Hosford, of the lower river, arrived on the local at noon today.

PRIVATE DALZELL'S PLAINT.

His Teachings If Peristed In, Would Lead to War.

Private Dalzell in a recent article in the Washington Post writes a long tale of woe. He tells of our 2,000,000 enforced idlers, our 1,000,000 tramps, the overcrowding of our penal institutions, the increase of landlords and tenants, the hopeless increase of debt, and a long list of other lamentations. Concluding, he says:

"Civilization, as Napoleon said of armies, travels on its stomach, and it is very hungry now, for the most part. Where can it be filled? Hence all the unrest, all the wild war talk and discussion of silver and gold and tariff by people who have neither silver nor gold nor anything to pay customs. Relief shall not come in that way. It never did at this stage of society. It will come in the old way, in war, and not otherwise—either insurrectionary, which God forbid, or foreign—which heaven hasten if it shall quiet this people and give them rest, if only the honored rest patriots gain fighting for humanity."

Replying directly to the sentences quoted, Mr. Sovereign goes on to say that what the people of the United States need is an agitation at home that will force them to a test against their own social and economic disorders; but that it should come through insurrection, with all its revolting horrors, is a proposition repulsive to all the higher impulses of humanity.

Continuing he says: "Insurrections, like great conflagrations, start with a spark, and are quenched only with a deluge. One reason in favor of insurrection to idle, starving and debt burdened people is more potent in exciting war than a thousand reasons against insurrection are in preserving peace. For that reason Dalzell at this time is a dangerous writer."

Mr. Sovereign then devotes considerable space to a history of two secret revolutionary orders known as the Iron Brotherhood and the Industrial Army, now being formed, and for fear Dalzell may not know what these societies are doing, he quotes several sentences from the prelude of a secret societies, viz.:

"Comrades, there comes a time in the affairs of men and nations when desperation compels the human mind to pause and bring to its aid that element of reason so long discarded. We have reached such a crisis in the destinies of this American republic. One hundred years of national existence has demonstrated that the political fabric of our government contains within its warp the elements of its own destruction, with the fact that the ballot has proven a most lamentable failure as a safeguard of free institutions. In the closing of the nineteenth century we see a class despotism establishing itself upon the ruins of the republic; an oligarchy is now in power and already the hideous phantom of imperialism overshadows us, as embodied in the autocratic claims of the federal court and the acts of unbridled military despotism characteristic of the federal government of today.

"What is to be done? We have appealed in vain to the ballot. Every trial of strength in the political arena has resulted in victory for the unscrupulous money power.

History proves that you cannot be freed through the ballot."

Continuing, Mr. Sovereign says: "Scarcely a day passes that I do not receive one or more appeals to join one or the other of the revolutionary orders being formed in this country, and offers of money and arms are frequently received if I will give my efforts to the cause of revolution. Thus far I have persistently declined to give any encouragement to such movement. But if through the writings of such men as Dalzell, revolution come in spite of all efforts to prevent it, I will not be found among the cowards nor on the side of the plutocratic classes."

In conclusion, Mr. Sovereign fires a parting shot at Mr. Dalzell with warning him to desist from recommending war as relief to the people. One word, he says, in favor of war with a foreign country would multiply tenfold a desire for revolution at home.

Captured the Deer.

A chorus of yells last Monday morning indicated that something of an unusual nature was happening on Main street, near Becker's blacksmith shop, says the Ellensburg Capital, and the crowd that had congregated was showing the deepest interest in some object under the sidewalk in the creek. A young deer had been frightened into town from the country, and in its flight had followed the general course of the stream. Some dogs had chased it under the sidewalk. Of the 100 men and boys standing around, every one wanted to boss the job of capturing the frightened animal. Some wanted to get guns and kill it; but some one raised the familiar cry, "a rope," and one was soon at hand, furnished by Weed, the butcher.

Jim Allen made the loop. Joe Shall laid it. Windy Green tried to "sick" his dog on the creature, but he was afraid, so Windy stepped into Smith's restaurant, got some salt, and, after sprinkling it on the deer's tail as it bounded into the loop, he gave the word, and 500 willing hands pulled the rope and the prize was landed.

This medicine is purely vegetable, acts by giving tone to the nerve centres in the stomach, gently stimulates the liver and kidneys, and aids these organs in throwing off impurities in the blood.
