WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

The weather forecast for tonight and tomorrow is rain and colder.

About a dozen members of the legislature are sick. They will have a speedy recovery after today.

John McIntyre was examined by Dr. Hollister and Recorder Phelps this morning as to his sanity, and was found to be insane.

Vapor baths and massage treatment by Mme. DeGrey and young lady assistant. Union Street Lodging House, rooms 9 and 10. feb19-2t.

A full rehearsal of the "Dickens Party" will be held this (Friday) evening at the Christian church. All members of said party are urgently requested to attend.

Mrs. J. E. Dean will meet all those who would like to take shorthand lessons, at the brick schoolhouse next Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Terms, 25 cents per lesson. 15-19

A man named Charles Mesple has been arrested at Pendleton, who is a versatile fellow. He is charged with stealing a wagon, a bike and a dog, the stolen articles all belonging to different persons.

A small hand bill received from Portland last night announces that there will be an opposition steamer on the river, commencing her run on the 22nd. The steamer is the Pilgrim, and she will carry only passengers and fast freight.

The farm house and barn of M. G. Naylor, was destroyed by fire Wednesday night about 11 o'clock. Mrs. Naylor and children were at home, her husband being in The Dalles. She was awakened by smoke and at once saw that the house was in flames beyond saving, and that the barn, some 200 feet distant, was also on fire. She rushed to the barn and released the horses. Everything else was destroyed by the fire. How it originated is not known. There is a small insurance on the barn.—Goldendale Sentinel.

Dr. Sutherland has quite a rarity in the line of Indian basket work, in the shape of a purse. It is large enough to hold $20 in silver, is in the shape of a little barrel, with a lid that ties down, and handles by which it can be tied to a belt.

Do not fail to call on Dr. Lannerberg, the eye specialist, and have your eyes examined free of charge. If you suffer with headache or nervousness you undoubtedly have imperfect vision that, if corrected, will benefit you for life. Office in the Vogt block.

We import sugar to the value of $100,000,000 yearly and export wheat to pay for it, and yet here in Oregon the soil and climate are peculiarly adapted to growing sugar beets. Good times will come when we go to raising all our absolute necessities—such as sugar.

An advertisement in THE CHRONICLE always accomplishes the desired result. A short time ago the big cat, "Bob," wandered away from the Snipes-Kinersley drugstore. After a few days absence a notice was inserted in this paper stating that he was wanted at home, and the next day "the cat came back."

A large number of hopyards around Gervais, in Marion county, reported as out of bearing, were simply let run wild last year, and are now being brought back into cultivation in the hope of better prices ruling this year. One hundred and sixty-four bales of hops in the Brooks section, near Gervais, were sold this week. This sale cleans out all of the hops in that vicinity.

Under the constitution it requires a joint resolution of both houses to adjourn the legislature. As there is no house recognized by the senate, the question arises, "how will it adjourn?" As long as it is not getting paid the country will not bother itself about it, in fact, will be highly pleased if it continues to keep Joe and Jonathan at Salem. One would think they would get tired of staying so near the pen.

Charles Estes and William Merrill have found the den of a bear at Hanson's ferry, in Okanogan county. It is supposed to be the winter quarters of the big grizzly that has been of some expense to the stockmen of that section by reducing their herds. The bear is one of the largest of its kind, and a measurement taken of the imprint of its foot made in dry, loose soil was fourteen inches long and eleven inches across the heel. An effort is to be made to capture bruin now, since his winter home has been found.

There was a little scene enacted in the lobby of the Hotel Olympic, just after the fusion caucus had declared for Turner on Thursday night last, that the papers have given very imperfectly. After the result of the caucus had become known Judge Turner was given an informal reception, and after the hand-shaking made a speech to the crowd. He was followed by Frank Gravee, Speaker Cline and others. At length there was a call for State Senator Plummer, of Spokane, who on attempting to make a speech, was interrupted by J. E. Brown, who shouted: "How much did you get, Plummer?" It broke Plummer's speech up. Brown was carried out, still demanding information as to Plummer's price. It is still unanswered.—Collfax Gazette.

A recent traveler in London states that in the house of Fagin, of Dickens fame, the kitchen yet remains precisely as used by the celebrated Jew. The room in which he taught "Oliver Twist" and his friends to play the "little game" in which the "Merry old Gentleman" so delighted, has been somewhat altered by more recent occupants. One great charm of Dickens' books lies in the fact that most of the houses in which the scenes he so vividly portrays were enacted, are still standing, many of them just as they were originally built, and can be readily found by the tourist along Fleet street.

The President's Daily Routine.

Ex-President Harrison has written of "A Day With the President at His Desk" for the March Ladies Home Journal. The article is said to be singularly interesting in the detail with which it describes the wearisome routine of the president. It is said that General Harrison, in this article, has delivered himself with great directness and vigor, relative to the annoyances that are visited upon a chief executive by persistent office-seekers, and he suggests a unique plan by which the president's burdens in that direction could be greatly lightened, and he be enabled to devote more attention to more important matters. A feature of the article that will have a timely interest to those ambitious to serve the country under the incoming administration, describes very fully how the president makes appointments to office. "A Day With the President at His Desk" is unique in being the first time that the daily life of the president has been described by one who filled the exalted office. Articles upon the social and domestic life of the president by General Harrison will follow in successive issues of the Journal.

You May Answer It.

The following letter written by a resident of East Tennessee, shows the possibilities of the English language in the line of questioning. Its recipient turned it over to us to answer, but whether it was because the information derived was too complex for any but an editor to give, or because he could not name the four or five good men, we do not even hazard a guess. The letter is as follows: to the Register of the United States Land office:

Dear sir I am thinking of making a trip to the state of Oregon in a short time and I want you to give me a full description of that county first do you hav had winters 2 do you hav any bad storms 3 dos the wind do any harm 4 dos the wind blow hard at any time 5 how much wheat do you make to the acre 6 how much corn 7 how much oats 8 how much of all kinds of crops do you make out thire 8 please give me the price of all kind of work 10 is thire any government land within your land deastrect 11 if so what for land is it 12 how fur from town 13 how fur from the railroad 14 how much will it cost to enter a 160 acres of land 15 can a man get employment at any time 16 please give me a full description of that country 17 please give me the name of 4 or 5 good men

A Great Company.

The Hext Concert Company has been billed for this place March 1. The company comes from the East, consequently will remain here over night, leaving for Portland in the morning. The Chicago Herald, speaking of Miss Hext says:

"A most enjoyable entertainment was given by the Harvard club for which Miss Effie Elaine Hext—whose powers as an-expressionist are well known—was secured as the special attraction.

"The Chariot Race," "The First Quarrel" and "The Curse Scene" from "Leah" were the most noteworthy among their heavier numbers.

The statuesque posing in Grecian costumes—a new feature of entertainment—was especially commendable and received with great applause.

The Things Eatable.

That entertainment at the M. E. church tonight, will be a success. Parrott has had his cake up at the electric light plant for two days, and this morning Mr. Biggs was in the back room of the land office splitting biscuits with the government ax, preparatory to introducing the ham. The clam chowder is already getting clammy, and everything is arranged for the occasion. To the young ladies we desire to state that if they will eat a piece of cake and put another piece under their pillows to sleep on, they will see their future husband about midnight, riding a green horse with red eyes. The horse will have a tail like an alligator and a mane made out of fourteen yards of red calico. The future husband can be recognized by his plug hat, red flannel bloomers and pink umbrella. If they eat two pieces, they will see anything there is to be seen. A pint of pepsin will prove a useful antiseptic.

The Paytons Coming.

Senter Payton and his company are again on the road, at present showing in Southern Oregon. They will be here about the first of March. This company was with us about two years ago, and all who heard them will be glad of the opportunity to again spend a few evenings with them. Mr. Payton has put on a new lot of plays, and has strengthened his company greatly since here.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Capt. J. W. Lewis arrived home from Salem last night.

Mr. Frank Lee, editor of the Northwest Pacific Farmer, came up from Portland last night, returning on the local this afternoon.
