"Is marriage a failure?" At the Vogt March 2d.

The weather forecast for tonight and tomorrow is fair and warmer.

One carload of cattle was shipped from the yards today to the Sound points.

The Pilgrim made a much better run yesterday than on her first trip, arriving here at about 5 o'clock.

Agent Allaway was out on his bike yesterday, we think the first rider in this city of the season.

It is thought the next move of Joe's part, will be to organize the house with less than 40 and call it legal.

Lost—Two new books, "Social Etiquette" and "Delsarte." Leave at CHRONICLE office and get reward. $24.25

A crated bicycle of the pattern of 97 was among the express matter for Prineville today. It indicates the arrival of spring.

Return engagement of the popular Payton troupe, supported by a company of unusual excellence, and fine band and orchestra, at the Vogt March 2d.

We rise to remark that this has been the most perfect day of the winter. A few more such and the bicycle will be in evidence, and the marble games running on every back street.

A passenger on the Pilgrim last night, states that below the Cascades the little steamer struck a rock with such force, that the passengers were thrown from their seats, and the fireman was knocked down and quite badly hurt.

Professor Love arrived from Portland at noon, and the rehearsal tonight will be under his supervision. Professor Birgfeld will furnish the music, and every member of the company is requested to be present promptly at 7:30.

Mr. Stubling received a telephone call to Portland this morning and left on the afternoon train to be present at the bedside of Owen Williams. The message announced that death was likely to happen at any moment, and is not expected that he would survive the night.

Miss Hext acquitted herself most ably, reciting with pathos and thrilling power, "The Mailman," "The Wreck of the Rivermouth," and in comedy "Alzina Ann," from "Joshua Allen's Wife," while statueque posings were a revelation. Altogether it was a brilliant effort.—Toledo Commercial.

We print elsewhere the programs for tonight and tomorrow night of the "Evenings with Dickens" entertainments. There will be in all about ninety of Dickens characters put upon the stage. Rehearsals have been going on for some time, and some very realistic results have been obtained.

One of the finest entertainments of the kind ever afforded the people of any community was given last night at the Park Avenue United Presbyterian church. She convinced her audience that she is an artist of high order. Miss Hext's posings in Greek costume were an exhibition of the highest art.—Omaha Bee.

Jack Andrews, the energetic Indian who runs the store on First street, and owns most of the sturgeon lines run by the Indians, was arrested this morning for catching salmon. Being taken before Justice Filloon, the statue was read to him, and he was informed of his right to hire a lawyer to represent him. He was allowed to go down town and in a short time came back, pleaded guilty, and paid his fine.

The Hext Company, one of the finest that ever visited the coast, will be here Monday night. This company comes from the East, and will remain here all night, so there will be no cutting of the programme, but it will be rendered in full. Those who have signed for seats are requested to select them at once, as the only rule observed will be first come first served. The box sheet is now open at the Snipes-Kinersly drugstore.

A. M. Williams & Co. are showing an extensive line of ladies and gentlemen's tan and oxblood shoes. Their east window presents a striking display of the same, a prominent feature of which is the combination of orange and black, used in the background and drapery, representing the Princeton college colors and advertising their new "Princeton," the coming popular red shoe for gentlemen. This shoe is made by the Brocton Shoe Co., in the new olin toe; is warranted, and sells at the reasonable price of $4.50 a pair.

A Deserved Tribute.
Mr. Editor:—We, of this time, often have our attention called to things we have not. For instance, clean crossings, well-swept sidewalks after snow storms, good sewerage, good street lights, not make-shifts. Will you permit me to call the grateful attention of the residents to some we have, most excellent in themselves, and which should be a matter of pride and heart-warm interest to everyone? I refer to The Dalles public schools.

Those who listened with so much enjoyment and appreciation to the debate on Tuesday evening at the Congregational church on the military merits of Washington and Napoleon, will all agree with me, especially in reference to the high school department, as it was particularly the excellence of the work done in that department to which our attention was called that evening. The clear and beautiful articulation and enunciation, the modest and pleasing manners, the careful study which was necessary in the preparation of the debate, was evident and most satisfying to those of the audience who had the keenest interest in the debaters, and many a mother's heart was happy that night because she was where such privileges could be granted to her best beloved.

Everyone was not satisfied with the award. When were they ever after any contest? One thing is sure, no better advertisement of the advantages of The Dalles as a place for residence could be given than that afforded by the exercises of Tuesday evening.

BAKER IS CONVICTED.

His Land Deal and Forged Check Not Accepted by Jury.

C. F. Baker was convicted in the criminal court yesterday of passing a forged check on A. B. Steinbach. The jury was out but a short time. Counsel for Baker did not offer any defense, but admitted that Baker passed the check, and relied upon the proposition of law that Rosa Lovelace was an accomplice of Baker and that the evidence of an accomplice, unsupported by other convincing testimony, is insufficient to sustain a conviction.

In admitting that Baker passed the check the inference was drawn that Baker received the check from Rosa Lovelace on the sale of land, and was not supposed to know that it was not what it appeared to be upon its face. By introducing no evidence to contradict the statement of the woman that Baker planned the whole scheme, and gave her the check, the jury was also presumed to infer that Rosa Lovelace, being an accomplice, was not entitled to receive full credit as a witness, and that she would not confess against herself, but naturally would throw all the blame upon Baker.

The jury, however, evidently was not on a fishing expedition, and accepted matters as they presented themselves. It is said that the case will be appealed to the supreme court on the point here stated that Rosa Lovelace is an accomplice, and that her evidence is not sufficient to convict, without corroboration. If the supreme court should decide that the testimony, excluding that of Rosa Lovelace, is not ample, Baker would probably then win his case in the higher court. It is alleged that the case of John A. Carr, in which the supreme court held that Mrs. Huntington was an accomplice, etc., is a case in point.

No evidence was introduced at the trial of Baker that he did not own the land he is supposed to have sold to Rosa Lovelace, as Rosa Jones, or that he himself executed the forged check, or knew it was forged, save the evidence of the woman. There was plenty of evidence that it was forged.
