THE DECISION REVERSED.

The United States court of appeals, sitting at San Francisco, has rendered a decision on the appeal of the cases of the Eastern Oregon Land Co. against Messenger and Wilcox, reversing the decision of the court below, and deciding the case in favor of the Eastern Oregon Land Co. The decision is in effect that The Dalles Military Road Co., of which the Eastern Oregon Land Co. is successor, having filed its map of definite location, with proper certificates of the completion of the road, on December 18, 1869, the commissioner of the general land office, by order of the secretary of the interior, withdrew from sale the odd numbered sections three miles upon each side of said wagon road, as shown on the map, in favor of The Dalles Military Road Co.

That in 1864 the grant was made to the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, the grant to cover all odd sections within certain limits, "when the United States had full title, not reserved, sold, granted, or otherwise appropriated, and free from pre-emption or other claims or rights at the time the line of said road should be DEFINITELY FIXED, and the plot thereof filed in the office of the commissioner of the general land office."

That the Northern Pacific Railroad Company did not file a map or plat of the general route of its road until the 13th day of August, 1870; that no map of definite location was ever filed by said company.

That the secretary of the interior erred in holding the grant to the Northern Pacific prior to the lands within the limits of the grant to the Dalles Military Wagon Road Co.

That at the time of the filing of the map of definite location by the Dalles Military Wagon Road Company the grant to the Northern Pacific had not gone into effect through its failure to comply with the law, and therefore the rights to the lands within the three mile limit became perfected, and the wagon road company were, under the terms of the grant, entitled to said odd sections.

It will be seen from the above that Messenger and Wilcox lose their lands; and the question of ownership as between the wagon road company and those who settled upon odd section within the limits of its grant under agreement with or consent of the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, is settled against the settlers. The wagon road company's title is declared perfect.

The ladies at Lone Rock, Gilliam county, have a secret society, which a correspondent of the Condon Globe in speaking of, called the ladies' Orientals. This called forth a protest from the society, in which the society is stated to be entirely different from what the Orientals are supposed to be. In closing the protest the writer says: "Our order is a respectable affair, and of a most honorable character and will stand investigation." And yet only a few weeks ago, if we are not mistaken, a couple of men of the neighborhood undertook to investigate the workings of the lodge from the attic, and the society would not stand it at all.

After a series of conferences, extending over a period of several days, the wool growers and wool manufacturers have failed to adjust their differences over the tariff rates to be recommended to the ways and means committee, and have departed for their homes. The manufacturers think the wool growers want too much, and the wool growers think the manufacturers want it all. The outlook for a tariff on wool is not cheerful on this account. The manufacturers have the strongest pull.

The Oregonian today has a cartoon showing everybody fleeing from the state capital at the approach of a gentleman who is labeled "Taxpayer" and who has a roll marked remedial legislation, as big as a saw log, under his arm. The taxpayer is Jonathan Bourne, with his side whiskers cropped, and this accounts for the hilarity of the leave-taking.

The house passed the bill providing for an international monetary conference, yesterday by a vote of 279 to 3. This is in accord with the St. Louis platform, but we fear it will not be acceptable to some great newspaper men in Portland.
