SENATOR CORBETT.

The appointment of Henry W. Corbett as senator caused no surprise, it being generally understood that the appointment would be made; but there is a wide difference of opinion in the proposition of the legality of the appointment, and as to whether the senate will seat him. Discussion of that proposition is, however, useless, as it is only surmise and will remain among the things guessable only, until the senate passes upon it.

The appointment is as satisfactory as any that could have been made, since none would satisfy both factions of the Republican party, and Mr. Corbett accomplishes the very good purpose of thoroughly dissatisfying both the Democrats and Populists who conspired to defeat Mitchell. They are probably as completely disgusted as it is possible for them to be, and it is evident that the object they had in holding out to the end of the session was to prevent the appointment of anyone by keeping the legislature in session, or getting it in session by the 4th of March so that the vacancy caused by the expiration of Mitchell's term would occur during the session, and the governor would thus be prevented appointing his successor. Circumstances indicate that Mr. Simon had led them to believe he would hold the session until after the 4th of March, and by this means induced them to hold on. After raking the chestnut of non-organization from the fire through them, he at once threw them down by adjourning the senate.

Mr. Corbett is the result. He is a thorough business man, but unfortunately does not know that there is a considerable portion of Oregon outside of Portland. Nevertheless every good Republican will be glad to know that Oregon has two senators, both of whom will vote for Republican measures.

Little Greece stands firm in her position and refuses to abandon Crete or to withdraw her troops therefrom. It is humiliating, or should be, to the Christians all over the world to see the powers of Europe concentrating their forces on little Greece to compel her to abandon the people of her church to the mercies of the Turk. The Turks were permitted to butcher Armenians by the thousand, and the powers could not see their way clear to interfere; but when it comes to a Turk or two getting hurt, they all fly to the rescue.

The Idaho legislature is having a serious time trying its members on charges of being bribed in the matter of electing a senator. The committee appointed to take testimony and report on the matter recommended that one H. S. Jones, who had admitted receiving a bribe, be expelled. It takes a two-thirds vote to expel a member, and the measure was defeated, having sixteen votes against it. Those voting "no" took the ground that it was rank injustice to fire Jones and permit the balance of the legislature to remain in session.

Japan is going to the gold basis, the government having decided to withdraw the silver yen as fast as gold can be coined to take its place. Russia is also preparing to go to the gold basis, and most of the South American republics are also reaching out in the attempt to accomplish this. If Senator Wolcott doesn't get a hurry-up on his international conference, he will be everlastingly too late.

Governor Lord took Senator Corbett's appointment to him at Portland Saturday. They were closeted in the Portland hotel for over an hour, at the end of which time the commission was handed to the new senator. There were none but the two present, but THE CHRONICLE was able to learn what Senator Corbett said. Space prevents printing it in full, but those who care to know will find it in full in the 23d Psalm.

It is with a feeling of profound veneration that the dispatches announce that Fitzsimmons does not do so much work on Sundays as other days.

Carson City is the liveliest town on the coast at present, all owing to the fact that its big mill is about to start up.

What has become of Cleveland? Seems to us we haven't heard his name mentioned since March 5th.

PARDY'S RED FOX.

When it Lost its Tail It Kept Turning Somersaults. Bill Parody, of Wheelerville, N. Y., came walking down the trail from Odit's camp, up in the North branch, the other afternoon, with his rifle over his shoulder and leading a full-grown red fox with a dog chain fastened to a leather strap about its neck. Elmer Hamlin was leaning against the gatepost, remarks the New York Sun, waiting for the horses to finish their oats. He looked at the fox, then at Bill Parody, then at the fox again, before he said anything. Then he said: "Well, say, where did you get him?" "Up by Odit's camp," Parody replied. Then Elmer asked how. Parody said that his dog had started the fox over the Big Ash ridge near the Dix swamp, and he had gone ahead to the runway by Odit's camp. The fox came along and he opened on it with his rifle. He fired three times, and then at last the beast went and over-end. Parody reckoned that the bullet had hit it in the head; so that when the fox kept tumbling headover heels he didn't shoot. When he got to the beast, however, he found that the bullet had cut its tail off close and clean. That had made the beast so light behind that it keeled over every time it tried to leap, like a boy turning somersaults. Bill took his dog chain, tied it to the fox, and after putting his tail into his pocket, started for home, first tying a bag of cartridges to the stub of the fox's tail so that it could walk comfortably.

Squash Pie. Take two cups of sifted squash, add a tablespoon of melted butter and stir well. Now take a bowl and beat three eggs, one and one-half cups of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one-half tablespoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of cassia, one-fourth teaspoonful of lemon extract. Mix well and add to your squash; then gradually stir in three pints of milk. Put in your prepared crust and bake. This will make two large pies or three small ones.—St. Louis Republic.
