An Honored Sage.

Professor Thomas Condon, department of geology, University of Oregon, has celebrated his 75th birthday. This eminent scientist has passed his three score years and ten mile post; and, at an age She Probably Found a New Place for when most men retire from life's activities, he remains in the ran's of earnest truth seekers and investigators. He is one of the few on whom age seems not to stamp the marks of decay; to whom advancing years bring not din. to return before her, could get in. In ness of mental vision; who are virile and vigorous in proportion to the length of life. Professor Condon is a student days and had caught on, boldly went of nature, not a pedant who lives alone among books and feeds only on the mental fruit cultivated by others. He has the ability to read "sermons in stones" see "books in running brooks," and find "good in everything." As a geologist of eminence, a bit of rock tells having finished her shopping returned to him a story of mighty forces once exerted; a stratum in the earth's formation speaks eloquently of the ages during which our globe was being formed; a glimpse of Nature's product is a sentence from a language that the Almighty speaks to the one who goes "near to Nature's heart." One who lence that followed the tramp coolly reetudies Nature cannot grow old. Her marked: "Madam, I shall become voices speak encouragingly; its hidden secrets entice ever onward to further discovery of her true spirit; familiarity with her works purifies and strengthens. Nature known and understood renews this advice." With that the tramp dethe youth and uplifts the mind of men. parted.

These are not effusive words of empty compliment, They are sincere tributes to one who deserves them. VENEER PRODUCTION.

Some Woods Can Be Sawed as Thin as Writing Paper.

While the finer and thinner veneers of costly woods are sliced tangentially from the side of the log, there are woods that cannot be cut this way-no amount of boiling or steaming rendering it possible to cut them without breaking down the tissues to such an demanded the man, "because under the extent as to destroy their surfaces for law I come under both conditions." pollshing-while others, says Hardwood, becoming discolored from negative. steaming or boiling, and being too hard to cut otherwise, have to be sawed, can't get the money," he said, "the rewith flanged center, is the favorite for cutting all ordinary veneers thicker than 30 to the inch; 20 to the inch is the at," sighed the blind man, "but what thickness most commonly used for cab- has that to do with it?" inet work and finishing, but much thinner is used in the case of rare and costly woods, or rare abnormal or acci- wife is not fit to have a pension." dental figures, as in the case of burls. Some woods have to be cut much thicker, being unable to bear handling when too thin; genuine chony, the only fine really jet-black wood known, and large enough to be of any use, will not stand sawing much below one-fourth of an inch in thickness, owing to the extreme brittleness or want of cohesion, but there are other woods that can be cut as thin as writing paper and still be handled in large sheets. Other woods there are that will lose their fine color on exposure to the atmosphere, especially a smoky one; these are cut only when immediately wanted, and are kept covered until the finishers can put on a protective coat of some prepara-

GREASING THE ELEPHANTS. The Park Rhinoceros, Too, Conted Twice a Year with Neatsfoot Oil. Twice a year the elephants and the chinoceros in the Central park menagerie get a coating of neatsfoot oil, which thoroughly rubbed in with the palm of the hand. The oiling and the manipulation cleanse the skin, remove the dend skin, and open the pores, freshen health, and they seem to like the process. The oiling is done only in the spring and summer; if done in the winter the animals would be likely to take

The rhinoceros at the park is in good condition and lively, and rather frisky for so big a brute. Sometimes it steps about with a step that is very much like a dancing step, and likely to surprise one who sees it for the first time and has been accustomed to regard the rhinoceros as an animal always slow and lumbering in its movements. When the rhinoceros' cage is cleaned out, which is done daily, the keeper first attracts the great creature to one side with a tempting mess of food. Then he slips a noose of rope over the animal's horn and settles it down around the neck and makes the other end fast around a bar or two of the elephant's cage adjoining. This is done to keep the rhinoceros from pitching into the keeper if it should take a notice.

The same precaution is taken when the rhinomeros is oiled. The elephants. however, kneel at the word of command. It is not necessary to plant a ladder against them in order to reach the upper part of their sides in rubbing

TAUGHT HER A LESSON Hiding the Key.

The other day a very estimable lady came to town to do a little shopping. says the Atlanta Constitution. Of course the key was put under the doormat so that her son, whom she expected her absence a tramp, who had been hanging around the place a number of into the house, got some of the choicest viands out of the pantry, put them on the table and pitched in. He also found a bottle of wine that revived his spirits. He did not expect anyone there for a number of hours and so he took it easy. In the meantime the lady of the house home and, seeing the front door unlocked, expected to find her son inside. Imagine her horror when she opened the dining-room door and saw sitting at her table the rustiest-looking tramp that ever vied with his companions in accumulating dirt on his epidermis. The lady was dumfounded. In the siscarce, now, ez I've eaten enuff. All I kin give yer back fer this good meal and wat I want ter say ter yer is that yer ought to find a new hidin' place fer yer key. #### Defenses of Gibraltar.

Since the invention of long-range rifle guns the fortress of Gibraltar, in every sense of the word, controls the entrance to the Mediterranean, for at the narrowest part of the strait there are only 15 miles between Europe and Africa. and the guns of the fortress can deliver shots and sells if necessary on the Airlean shore. The military authorities of Gibraltar, however, do not depend upon the guns of the fortifications for blocking the Mediterranean, for at Gibralian there is always stationed a fleet of powerful ships which can be called into service to assist in defending the steal against the naval forces of a foreign power.

With the close of the Presidential Campaign THE TRIBUNE recognizes the fact that the American people are now anxious to give their attention to home and business interests. To meet this condition, politics will have far less space and prominence, until another State or National occasion demands a renewal of the fight for the principles for which THE TRIBUNE has labored from its inception to the present day, and won its greatest victories.

Every possible effort will be put forth, and money freely spent, to make THE WEEKLY TRIBUNE pre-eminently a National Family Newspaper, interesting, instructive, entertaining and indispensable to each member of the family.
