FRIDAY, - - - MARCH 19, 1897

EASTERN OFFICE—230 to 234 Temple Court, N. Y. City. E. KATZ, Agent.

There promises to be a long and tiresome struggle over the Dingley tariff bill on account of two proposed amendments that are going to receive strong indorsement and bitter opposition. One of these amendments was made by Elkins, proposing a discriminating duty on all imports coming to this country in American ships. The other was made by Pettigrew, and is to the effect that any importer who could prove that the article he wished to import was controlled in this country by a trust, should be entitled to enter his goods free of duty. It was thought the first amendment would encourage American shipping, but opponents of the measure say it will only direct shipping from United States to Canadian ports, and the goods will then be brought in by rail. Pettigrew's amendment, of course, has all the power of the trusts against it, but he will make a hard fight on it. The two amendments are able to delay action on the Dingley bill, for some time at least, if they do not finally win in some modified form.

Eastern Oregon is deeply interested in the present session of congress, as her interests are at stake in the Dingley bill. If it passes, it means several cents a pound to our wool growers, and as one cent a pound means, for the wool shipped from this point alone, nearly $70,000, the news of the passage of the bill is anxiously awaited. The powers in the senate are very evenly divided, and it is nothing less than a public calamity that Senator Mitchell was not re-elected to assist us in our hour of need. The woolen manufacturers are opposed to any tariff on wool, and will make a vigorous fight against it, so that it will take every friend of the protective system to pass the bill. Mitchell's election would have made certain that which is now in doubt.

It seems to be the accepted opinion in Washington that Mr. Corbett will not be seated. The dispatches yesterday indicate, in fact, that the committee will report adversely on the proposition. Under other circumstances a fight might be made, but there is much work to be done, tariff legislation to be enacted, and those who otherwise might indorse Mr. Corbett's appointment, see that it will lead to endless discussion and create much bitterness. This, outside of any merits in the case, and the merits are not much. The precedent established by acknowledging the legality of his appointment would be dangerous to all our institutions, and would prove the entering wedge that would end in anarchy or revolution.

Since the report that Weyler had gone hunting for Gomez to sell the island of Cuba to the insurgents, nothing has been heard of that gentleman nor the proposition. It is more than probable the story was a newspaper fake; but at least there seems to be a cessation of hostilities. It may be that Weyler's telegraph operator is sick and unable to fight.

One of the good effects of McKinley's election will be that this country will have an American to represent it in London. Bayard, the truckling toady, will return to that level his flunkey tastes and shoe-kissing proclivities so eminently fit him for. He should lie him to Buzzards bay and weep with his ex-royal nits at that famous bird roost.

Among the first bills introduced at this session was that venerable old chestnut, the Nicaragua Canal bill.

The old thing was not even shaved before its introduction, but went in with all its hirsute appendages. It is to be hoped that the bill will either be passed and the canal built, or else that it will be ignominiously kicked out for all time.

We are pleased to note that the East Oregonian takes the same position with regard to the much-talked-of new journalism that we do. Great minds run in the same channel, and our large contemporaries in Portland might as well come off their high moral plane, where they are apt to freeze to death, and get in the swim.

The dispatches announce that Corbett and Fitzsimmons, and all the motley crew of sports and gamblers have vanished with them. As the Nevada legislature adjourned a few days before the fight, and its members will now go to their homes, the moral atmosphere of Nevada's capital city will be much improved.

Fitzsimmons, like all the other champions, has concluded to fight no more. The battle at Carson undoubtedly developed rare histrionic powers, and Fitz will now, as his illustrious predecessors have done, do the star parts in a pathetic play, written especially for him.
