THE HOUSE VS. THE SENATE.

The lower house of congress has done well in cutting short debate on the tariff question. No one cares to hear it, and nothing can be gained by discussing it. That straw has been threshed so many times and so thoroughly that there is no longer even chaff in it. What the people want is action, sharp, decisive and speedy. If the senate could quite its bowing and scraping, like a lot of old rams, and get down to business as the house has, it would be appreciated, but this it is not expected to do. The old fossils will perpendicularize themselves, steady their senile forms on their tottering limbs and talk, and talk and talk. It is passing strange that among these venerable relics the tongue and the bellows never grow old.

Already Allen of Nebraska has delivered a tariff speech, and this is only the first flurry, forerunner of the coming cyclone. When the bill gets in the senate, then the breeze will commence and the be-whiskered phonographs will repeat their dreary platitudes until the speculators have had a chance to import about everything that the tariff is raised upon in quantities sufficient to last for a year or two. Then they will act, but not before.

The time is approaching when there will be no senate, or at least a senate elected by the people, unless some change comes over the spirit of that antique old remnant of by-gone by-laws.

It is said there are more than 80,000 applications for appointments to federal offices on file in the departments. If half that number are there the president is not reclining on a bed of roses. We hope, though, that the president may see his way clear to act speedily on the appointment of Max Pracht. We think Alaska yearns for him with an exceeding great yearn, and the people of Oregon would like to see the sight when Max's mouth and the Yukon's two, get in perigee.

Another cyclone is reported down in Oklahoma Territory, which wiped out the town of Chandler and killed a hundred or more persons. While we are finding fault with a sprinkle or two of snow and a few blustering March days, it might be well to take a calm view of our climate as compared with that of the Eastern states. We look out of the windows and growl, while they flee for their cyclone cellars, and failing to reach them, die. Oregon is all right, and her climate the best in the world.

Governor Lord has at last delivered his message, and as there was no legislature to deliver it to, and this condition was largely due to the able efforts of the Oregonian, he very appropriately delivered it to the Oregonian instead. It filled twelve columns in that paper, and we should judge would weigh almost half an ounce. It is to be hoped that the Oregonian, having received the full dose, will not fall to profit by it.

New York City has, at last completed the monument to General Grant so long overdue, and is to celebrate the event in the near future. New York insisted on the body of the great chieftain being buried there, where fitting honors could be paid it, and finally erected a monument on money collected from the people of other states. New York is generous—to herself.

The Peruvian government has placed a good sized chip on its shoulder in refusing to release Ramoy, an American sailor, upon the demand of this government. Uncle Samuel may yet be compelled to spank a South American republic or two before his position in the American household is fully understood by the youngsters.

It is said that the authorities are alarmed lest the discovery of the art of photographing in colors will make possible the successful counterfeiting of paper money. This may be a source of alarm to some people, but the country editors are not apt to get unnecessarily excited over it. The photograph of a greenback would be an acceptable thing now. Not necessarily for publication, but as a matter of good faith, and for a souvenir.

Judge De Haven returned yesterday to San Francisco from Washington, where he had been to secure his appointment to the cabinet. He got no consolation, the president neither promising nor refusing him the appointment.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply into the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 26 Warren St., New York City.

The man who eats because he is hungry is, thus far, on the level with the brutes. The man who stops eating the moment his hunger is appeased is the wise man. Nature needs no more food than he calls for. Continued excess brings about indigestion or dyspepsia, with loss of flesh, strength, sleep, ambition and mental power, and an accumulation of aches, pains and many dangerous local maladies.

The stomach now can do nothing alone. We must appeal to some artificially digested food which can also digest other foods. That is to say, we must use the Shaker Digestive Cordial. The effect is prompt and cheering. The chronic pain and distress ceases. Appetite presently revives. Flesh and vigor gradually comes back, and the sufferer recovers. But he must be careful in future. A trial bottle for 10 cents.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.
