ACTIVE VOLCANOES.

Burning Mountains of South and Central America That Do Dreadly Work.

The volcano of Abina, in Peru, which for a century and a half had been considered extinct, suddenly awoke from its long sleep the other day and began pouring forth lava, smoke and ashes in such quantities as to obscure the sun up to the date of the last report, says a Panama correspondent of the Philadelphia Press.

Together with this news comes an account of remarkably severe earthquakes in Ecuador that shook the whole Pacific slope and extended far into the interior. A series of rapid, violent shocks continued one minute and some seconds. It created the greatest terror in Guayaquil, where at every convulsion it appeared as though the pile-built structures must go over. However, no damage to speak of occurred there, but several accounts of disasters had arrived from the interior. At Canar seven families and their homes are known to have been swallowed up by the earth. One curious incident at Guayaquil was the bursting open of the doors of the penitentiary. Many convicts escaped before the demoralized guards could pull themselves together to prevent it. Then the guards fired indiscriminately on the prisoners, those fleeing from crumbling walls as well as those escaping. The city waterworks were so damaged that a water famine was imminent. This series of shocks was felt over an area of eighty thousand square miles. At almost the same time Cotopaxi and Turgurahua burst forth in such a terrible activity as has not characterized them during the last two centuries. The South American volcanoes frequently ravage their immediate neighborhood, but it is believed here is another instance that they are safety valves that render the continent habitable.

Reports of unusual volcanic activity all along the line of the continental backbone have been coming in since the beginning of the year, and those more recently to hand indicate a steadily increasing disturbance. Alarming accounts arrived last week from Mexico of the condition of Colima, which, pouring forth vast volumes of lava and a regular bombardment of rocks and ashes, had sent the people of Jalisco fleeing in terror from their homes. Only a few months ago dispatches from Chili and Peru told of fierce outbursts among the volcanoes of the southern Andes, and, later yet, of the seismic disturbance in the volcanic region of Cauca, in Colombia, by which an entire mountain ridge was swallowed up and a deep depression left, while elsewhere in that same region two rivers were buried by the side of a mountain tumbling into the valley.

On a Large Scale. The largest of fruit plantations in Jamaica are owned and operated by an American company. It cultivates 44,000 acres, 28,000 of which it owns and 16,000 of which it leases. The principal crops are bananas and coconuts. Last year it shipped 3,000,000 bunches of bananas and 5,000,000 coconuts, besides other fruit, to America and elsewhere, employing 11 steamers, which the company owns.

Bond Issue of $20,000. School District No. 29, in Wasco County, Oregon, is authorized to issue bonds to the amount of $20,000, for the purpose of erecting a school building.
