THE DALLES AS A MANUFACT-URING POINT.

Portland is taking active steps to The business men of The Dalles have never manifested any disposition to secure such a manufacturing enterprise, or we would have had one long ago. The city owns a water power which, during all of the year except, possibly, during July and August, would furnish sufficient power for a plant as large as that in operation at Salem. We have a wool market unsurpassed on the coast; we have an abundance of good water and good fuel; our transportation facilities are equal to any on the coast, and much better than many have established extensive factories.

In addition to our own water power, the falls of the Klickitat, situated nine miles from The Dalles, are efit of the Hon. E. B. Dufur's eloquence attracting attention as a source of and logic in those cases. Upon my repower. If some party thoroughly familiar with the woolen manufacturing business, will come here, we will show him one of the best openings in the

Whatever else Mr. U'Ren may be, he is most charmingly frank. At Oregon City recently he met his constituents for the purpose of giving them an account of his stewardship. The question was asked him, "Who paid the expenses of the holdup." "Mr. Mitchell's enemies," was the reply. He then went on to state that he got $80, and others from that amount up to $120, and that only City property. Inquire of one of those who held out paid his own expenses. Was ever a bolder admission? These men, according to U'Ren's statement, deliberately violated their pledges to the people, held up the legislature, and sold themselves out for, in round numbers, two dollars per day. The painted Cyprian, who stands in her door to advertise her shame, has at least the excuse of earning her living; but U'Ren and his had no excuse at all. The miserable pittance was accepted by them as a sufficient consideration for their services, full price for their honor, their characters and their souls. It was all of that, and more. Self-confessed receiver of money for an unlawful object, what more despicable object breathes the pure air of Oregon? Mr. U'Ren and his have taken the initiative, and should they, or any of them, again come before the public seeking office, they will have a practical example of the working of the referendum.

stands could be let alone, we believe the policy of this government would be not to interfere, but this cannot be. Sooner or later they must fall under the control of some other nation, if they are not taken in by us. The question is, shall we take them in now, while we can get them peaceably, or later, when we, to protect ourselves, must take them by force. The Japanese are flooding the country, and in ten years from now will control it. The Chinese secure the location of a woolen mill. are going there in large numbers, and the degraded and undesirable population is augmenting every day. The quicker we get a move on and make the state of 'Hawaii, the better.
