NOT DETERIORATED.

Senator Hoar plunges into print in the columns of the April Forum to show that the senate has not degenerated. Of course Senator Hoar being one of them, ought to know. Who better? He knows whether Webster and Clay and Benton and that class of men were superior to Brice, Foraker, Platt, Quay and all the political small fry who now occupy seats in the senate. Of course he does. It may seem a bit egotistical on Senator Hoar's part to take the position he does; but as it is done in self defense it is perhaps excusable. The country will be pleased indeed to know that the senate is today as bright and strong a body as when Webster's powerful voice, and more powerful arguments, led the debates. When the "Mill Boy of the Slashes" moved with the magic of his voice his colleagues to laughter or to tears at will, and filled enraptured ears with the melody of Nature's oratory. Those were great men, and we are glad to know that their peers now sit within the sacred seats of the capitol. We know it is true, for Senator Hoar says so, and yet. Well, there are doubts. When Clay flung his glove to Destiny, with the bold assertion "I would rather be right than president," it was as gallant an act as ever Eglamore or Launcelot performed, and yet—again yet—how many of the present senators would duplicate that act?

Mr. Corbett's attorney is at Washington telling how that wicked minority in the Oregon legislature prevented the election of a United States senator, and now, on account of this outrage, our sovereign state is threatened to be deprived of its just and proper representation vouchsafed to it by the federal constitution. The only way to prevent the consummation of this terrible injustice, threatened as the result of the awful work of that minority, is to seat this great and good man, who has kindly come to the front and cast himself into the breach to save the state he loves so well from the threatened interregnum, offering himself, pure and uncontaminated as a vestal virgin, and his services to keep the sacred fires of liberty burning on the altars of his commonwealth. This unselfish patriotism, this devotion to the cause of the people, of this great and good man, is enough to recall to earth the shades of the heroes of old. It is, in fact, enough to turn the heart of a grindstone, or to start tears, large as hens' eggs, trickling down the cheeks of a wooden Indian cigar sign. Let us weep, and, if we cannot pray, at least take up a collection.—Statesman.

Cuba's affairs are steadily improving, from the insurgents' point of view. Spain has about reached the end of her string, or rather the end of her finances, which is the same thing. Every day brings a rumor of some effort on the part of Spain to bring the war to a close, either by selling the island or granting concessions. On top of this comes news highly gratifying to all sympathizers with the patriots. The insurgent forces wander at will over the island, and Weyler is no longer able to restrain them. The time was when concessions, even moderate ones, would have saved Cuba to Spain, but that day has gone by, and now it is either freedom or nothing, and freedom is going to win the day.

The Oregonian, T. Thornburn Ross and Wallace McCamant are still clamorous for the seating of Corbett. When McCamant filed his brief, the others applauded; when he telegraphed his opinion on the constitutional features of the situation they knocked a hole in the welkin with their hats. But still Corbett is not seated, and still Ross and Scott are on the anxious seat. Should Corbett have to remain standing, which now seems probable, the two chief mourners will be those named, and Ross will rush into print with a modern rendition of the grand old poem, in which he will depict again the woes of "Scott who has with Wallace bled."

Those who look after the weather on scientific lines are giving increased attention to sun spots, which denote great activity on the sun's surface. Careful observers say that the cyclones on the Indian ocean are largely influenced by solar disturbances, and many observers believe that the earth's weather, as well as its magnetism, is affected by sun spots. The sun is comparatively such a close neighbor of the earth that its study in connection with meteorology is bound to increase.

ELY'S CREAM BALM is a positive cure. Apply to the nostrils. It is quickly absorbed. 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; samples 10c. by mail. ELY BROTHERS, 56 Warren St., New York City.

Two years ago R. J. Warren, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Where ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.

The man who eats because he is hungry is, thus far, on the level with the brutes. The man who stops eating the moment his hunger is appeased is the wise man. Nature needs no more food than he calls for. Continued excess brings about indigestion or dyspepsia, with loss of flesh, strength, sleep, ambition and mental power, and an accumulation of aches, pains and many dangerous local maladies. The stomach now can do nothing alone. We must appeal to some artificially digested food which can also digest other food. That is to say, we must use the Shaker Digestive Cordial. The effect is prompt and cheering. The chronic pain and distress ceases. Appetite presently revives. Flesh and vigor gradually comes back, and the sufferer recovers. But he must be careful in future. A trial bottle for 10 cents.

Laxol is the best medicine for children. Doctors recommend it in place of Castor Oil.
