The funeral of Latimer Booth took place yesterday afternoon from the Congregational church, Rev. Curtis preaching the sermon. The procession was a very large one, the Masons, Workmen and Woodmen all attending, the interment being made in accordance with the rites of the former.

Saturday the wind was on a tear in Grand Dalles as well as here. The 6-year-old daughter of Mr. Rorick attempted to go to a point a short distance from the house, when the wind caught her and carried her over a bluff. Her face was quite badly cut, and her left fore arm broken, or rather bent in what is known as a "green-stick" fracture.

Mr. Geo. Young came in from Ridgeway Saturday, to meet the sheep inspector from Klickitat county. Mr. Young usually sends a flock of 5,000 sheep across Klickitat county to market at Yakima, but under the recent decision of the county commissioners, he is forbidden to take his sheep into the county until they have been quarantined for sixty days.

Sunday morning Roderick, the 10-year-old son of George Brown, who works for Mr. Saltmarsh, was playing at the slaughter-house, near the tank used for scalding hogs, and which was full of water almost boiling hot. He slipped and fell, both legs going into the water over the knees. In removing his stockings the skin and flesh peeled off with them. Dr. Hollister attended to his injuries, and thinks he will pull through all right. Although suffering terribly, the little fellow is stoical and bears the pain without murmuring.

ENJOYING THE TRIP.

School Superintendent Gilbert Writes Something of His Journey.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 5, 1897.

EDITOR CHRONICLE:—I arrived in this city yesterday and learn that it will be necessary for me to remain here about two weeks, during which time I will write occasionally, anticipating that Christmas you promised me on my return.

We left The Dalles March 20th, and arrived at Andrews, Ind., on the 25th, and judging from the newspaper reports of the storms since then, we were fortunate not to be delayed.

A stop-over of six hours at Denver gave us ample time to visit Colorado's three-million-dollar new capitol building, which is not fully finished inside. We visited both branches of the legislature, and then went to view the other fossils in the museum. It is said that the Smithsonian Institute does not contain as complete an exhibit of all that pertains to the cliff dwellers as is to be found here. Many of your readers had the pleasure of hearing Major Jackson, U. S. A., lecture about these Indians. Well, everything is to be found here as he described, except the snake dance. The department of mineralogy cannot be excelled by any one state, and when gazing upon the collection of opals one feels an attack of kleptomania.

After leaving Denver it is pleasing to make faster time, and from St. Louis we took the New York express, next to the fastest train in the United States.

It is needless to tell you that our stay here will be a pleasant one. Four generations are represented in the family at present, and at a recent reunion two hundred and fifty relatives were present.

I took a walk along North Delaware street this evening, and saw the home of ex-President Harrison, and, by the way, that reminds me that I promised to look after Colonel Sinnott's interests in Washington, D. C. I now feel that he can get the appointment of U. S. fish commissioner on the strength of the salmon story, of which he is now the only living witness. C. L. GILBERT.

Council Meeting.

An adjourned session of the city council was held Saturday evening, the mayor and all councilmen being present.

The ordinance taxing the sale of liquors by the bottle or flask, was read, and the motion to place it on its final passage was lost. On motion the further consideration of the ordinance was indefinitely postponed.

The ordinance providing for the numbering of houses was read and action on the same was postponed until the committee on streets and public property reported.

The finance committee, to which had been referred the matter of loaning city funds reported, recommending the loan of $2500. Also recommended that the claim of M. A. Moody for $53.50 be paid.

On motion the recommendations of the committee were adopted. On motion the claim of Dalles City water works for $32, was ordered paid.

It was ordered that the city proceed to sell all city lots in Gates' addition, according to last appraisal.

An ordinance providing for the sale of city lots was then read and placed on its final passage, and was passed by a vote of 6 to 3.

On motion the Catholic church was allowed the usual privileges of the streets for building purposes.

No further business appearing, council adjourned.

Fatal Accident.

On the 1st inst. the wife of County Surveyor Wetherell started a fire in the heating stove. She then left the house for a few minutes, leaving the doors ajar and her little son playing on the floor. She was out but a moment when she heard the child scream, and looking toward the house she was horrified to see the little fellow running toward her enveloped in the flames of his burning garments. The mother hurried to the rescue, using her own skirts to smother the flames, which she succeeded in doing, but not until too late to save her precious child, who was so badly burned that death relieved him from his sufferings at nine o'clock on the evening of the 3rd.—Skamania Pioneer.

A Pean of Victory.

The Champions won by a score of 8 to 16, and the Champions did not take their last inning, which, of course, would have resulted in the Champions score running up to 26, provided the worthy manager, Mr. Fritz, had remained in the box. The White Stars, no doubt, will give up the name of Champions now, as we have defeated them twice out of three. We now claim the championship of Eastern Oregon, and are ready for all comers. Outside teams preferred.

THE CHAMPIONS.

Two years ago R. J. WATSON, a druggist at Pleasant Brook, N. Y., bought a small supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He sums up the result as follows: "At that time the goods were unknown in this section; to-day Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a household word." It is the same in hundreds of communities. Where ever the good qualities of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy become known the people will have nothing else. For sale by Blakeley & Houghton.
