DAHOMY WIVES.

They Are Obtained by Purchase of the King.

All the female population of Dahomey belongs to the king, who sells a few, once a year, to any subject who may be in want of a wife.

The candidate, says Waverley Magazine, lays the sum of money at the king's feet and he may receive in exchange a young girl of eighteen, or a toothless old hag of sixty.

All the details at the court, when they enter the king's presence, lie flat on the ground and strike their foreheads on the floor, not sign that they humble themselves to the king.

The women of Dahomey, after their marriage, lead a miserable life. They are never allowed to eat with their husbands and receive any instruction except to cook for them on their knees.

PURTEMAN, in his "Arte of English Poetrie," erected two pillars of poetry in honor of Queen Elizabeth. Each pillar consists of a base of lines in eight syllables, shafts of four-syllable lines, and a crown in the same meter at the base.
