Two Curious Reasons for Breaking Off an Engagement Compact.

Many marriages are sometimes declared off for peculiar reasons, generally insignificant, and quite as often on account of the eccentricity of the man as the woman.

At an important function to which he was escorted the young lady the tie which he was wearing persisted in climbing up over his collar. His fair companion, after several times calling his attention to the fact, left him and went home in despair at witnessing the amusing smiles of the other guests.

A Chicago man of musical tastes backed out of the matrimonial bargain when he discovered at an evening party given to celebrate the betrothal that the voice of his future bride was of such a pitch as precluded the possibility of their ever singing duets together.

"This action of the people prohibiting the sale of whisky drops is laughable to men in the business," said a manufacturing confectioner, reports the New York Journal. "Why, a man might eat an entire bushel of ordinary brandied chocolate without getting a pony glassful of the pure spirit."

"I learned my trade in England, and I remember that 30 years ago there was a howl over there against the sale of brandy snaps. This is a confection very popular with school children over there, very much the same as peanut brittle is here. A parliamentary committee inquired into the matter and discovered that a ton of brandy snaps contained less than half a pint of pure alcohol. The sale of snaps was not interfered with."

HON. W. J. BRYAN'S BOOK.

THE FIRST BATTLE is an interesting story of the great political struggle of 1896. Its most important events are explained in a logical and logical manner as uttered by eminent exponents, including the part taken by Hon. W. J. Bryan in the silver agitation prior to the Democratic National Convention, and during the campaign; the best examples of his wonderful oratory; the most noteworthy incidents of his famous tour; a careful review of the political situation, a discussion of the election returns and the significance thereof, and the future possibilities of Bi-metalism as a political issue.
