WAYSIDE GLEANINGS.

Random Observations and Local Events of Lesser Magnitude.

Auction sale In front of Bayard's office Tomorrow (Saturday) afternoon At 1:30 o'clock. Be there on time. Tonight and tomorrow fair; Sunday fair and warmer.

This has been a dandy day for cool, and two for dust.

B. S. Pague, the weather observer, last Tuesday said that Friday the weather would change to cloudy and cooler, and he certainly called the turn.

To the program already published for the teachers' institute, Composition, Bookkeeping, General History and Physical Geography have been added.

Remember that Frazier's orchard, which will be auctioned off tomorrow, is one of the finest sites in or around The Dalles. Only twenty minutes walk from the courthouse.

Six young Lutheran ministers, graduates from Saginaw, have arrived in Portland and will engage in missionary work, establishing new parishes in the Willamette valley.

The Elite Candy factory has just put in a fine new soda fountain, and is prepared to furnish its customers soda-ice cream as well as soda, with the most delicious flavoring. Try one of its milk shakes. 2-16-97

Leon Rondeau came in from Tygh Valley this morning. He states that he has wheat on his place 6 feet 5 inches high that is headed and filled perfectly. He says that section will thresh the biggest crop ever raised there.

By existing arrangements with the publishers of the Weekly Oregonian, we are enabled to club that excellent paper with the Twice-a-Week CHRONICLE at the low rate of $2.25 per year. Now is the time to send in your names.

R. A. Millard was arrested yesterday morning, charged with indecent exposure, and tried before City Recorder Sinnott yesterday afternoon. The recorder took the case under advisement, and this morning held the defendant under $200 bonds to the grand jury.

The barbers have agreed to close their shops Sundays and have provided a penalty for anyone of the profession violating the agreement to keep his shop closed Sundays, the penalty being no less than a wine supper for the balance of the fraternity. As wine suppers come high and shaving is cheap, it is not at all likely the agreement will be violated.

Mr. Hugh Glenn arrived from Goble last night, bringing a railroad surveyor for the purpose of running out the lines for the proposed railroad from here to the Deschutes. The object is to get an accurate knowledge of the altitudes and grades, and a rough estimate of the cost of building the road. The survey will be made both to the mouth of the Deschutes and up that stream. By going to the mouth of the river the road would open the portage and make steamboating on the upper river possible.

Signs of Prosperity.

If the ability of a people to meet their pecuniary obligations is any evidence of their financial condition the predicted wave of prosperity has surely struck The Dalles with the force of a cyclone. Wool raisers are selling their clips freely at 10 to 12 1/2 cents a pound, whereas 12 months ago the same wool was scarcely considered sufficient security for the freight and advance charges necessary to carry it to Boston. Rumor has it that 60 cents a bushel is offered for wheat, to be delivered after threshing, with few or no takers. Said a leading banker of this city at the close of yesterday's business: "Our bank, during the eight banking hours of today, took in more money on old collections than we have taken for the entire two years previous. In fact, money is piling up in the bank to such an extent that it won't be long till we won't know what to do with it."

Wild West Tournament.

Mr. Harry Heikes, who was with Buffalo Bill for 10 years, is in the city and arranging for a wild west tournament, to be given at the fair grounds one week from Saturday. The entertainment is to include a parade in which there will be 300 Indians and cowboys, many Warm Springs and Yakimas having volunteered to take part. Several of the Indians who were with the Buffalo Bill wild west show are here and will take part. Among other things on the programme will be the celebrated scene of an attack on a stage coach, the riding of bucking horses, Indian dances and games, an illustration of the rush to Oklahoma, and dozens of other things of this kind.

SHEEP ON RESERVES.

With Exceptions. They May Be Pastured in Oregon.

A pamphlet, entitled "Rules and Regulations Governing Forest Reserves," issued by Binger Hermann, general commissioner of the land office, promulgating the rules and regulations created under the act of congress of June 4, 1897, to insure the objects for which forest reserves were created, has just been received by the local United States authorities. The following sections will be of interest to sheep men and mining men: "The pasturing of livestock on the public lands in the forest reservations will not be interfered with, so long as it appears that injury is not being done to the forest growth, and the rights of others are not thereby jeopardized. The pasturing of sheep is, however, prohibited in all forest reservations, except those in the reason that sheep-grazing has been found injurious to the forest cover, and therefore of serious consequence in regions where the rainfall is limited.

"The exception in favor of the states of Oregon and Washington is made because the continuous moisture and abundant rainfall of the Cascade and Pacific coast ranges make rapid renewal of herbage and undergrowth possible. Owners of sheep are required to make application to the commissioner of the general land office for permission to pasture, stating the number of sheep and the location on the reservation where it is desired to graze. Permission will be refused or revoked whenever it shall appear that sheep are pastured on parts of the reserves specially liable to injury, or upon and in the vicinity of the Bull Run reserve, Crater Lake, Mount Hood, Mount Rainier, or other well-known places of public resort or reservoir supply. Permission will also cease upon proof of neglect as to the care of fires made by herders, or of the violation by them of any of the forest reserve regulations.

"The law provides that any mineral lands in any forest reservation which have been, or which may be shown to be such, and subject to entry under the existing mining laws of the United States and the rules and regulations applying thereto, shall continue to be subject to such location and entry, notwithstanding the reservation. This makes mineral lands in the forest reserve subject to location and entry under the general mining laws in the usual manner.

Child Study.

During the general discussion yesterday, the teachers considered child-study. The subject was viewed both from a scientific or theoretical, and from a practical standpoint. The United States leads in child-study. The present decade will be acknowledged in history as the period of psychological research, just as the two preceding ones have been known as evolutionary. The scientific study of the child was begun in this country, in Boston. From there it has extended to all the educational centers of this country and Europe. Some startling facts concerning the contents of the child's mind on entering school were discovered. It was found, too, that just as the different faculties of the mind have their periods of nascent growth, so have the various organs of the body. To exercise an organ or faculty before it begins to develop properly is to dwarf or stunt its growth. To delay its exercise till after the period of active growth is to waste energy.

When we know the periods of most active development of each organ of the body and faculty of the mind, and can adapt to each of them the study or exercise that is most conducive to its proper growth, we shall have a perfect pedagogy, a complete science of teaching. While the average teacher in the schools of Oregon may not be able to do much along the line of scientific child study, he can, at least, acquaint himself with many characteristics of child nature, and peculiarities of each child, that may be of great assistance in properly directing the young mind.

The teacher should know the physical defects of each child, if there are such. If any pupil has defective sight, it is the teacher's duty to know what it is, and endeavor to have it corrected, and to provide the most favorable conditions for it while in school. The same is true concerning the hearing. Proper seating and correct position should receive the attention of the teacher.

The teacher should know: First, the attitude of each pupil toward school.

Second, why this pupil cannot understand Arithmetic.

Third, why that one does not like Grammar.

Fourth, what are each pupil's likes and dislikes.

Fifth, what each pupil thinks right, what wrong.

Sixth, what the dominant idea of each pupil is.
